SENATE PASSES EUROPE AID BILL

Strikers Are Cleared From Power Plants

Communist Refuses To Accept Censure

PARIS, Tuesday, Dec. 2 (AP)—Paris subways resumed operations early today after police had cleared sitdown strikers from six power plants in the Paris area.

Simultaneously Republican guards ousted Communist Deputy Raoul Calas from the National Assembly after he had occupied the speakers' rostrum for more than 10 hours in defiance of a vote of censure decreeing his expulsion.

Fifty other Communist deputies, who had staged a sitdown in the chamber in connection with their campaign to kill the government's stringent anti-strike bill, filed out peacefully with Calas.

The expulsion of Calas was accomplished without violence by four Republican guards armed only with a letter from Assembly President Edouard Herriot.

The Communist sitdown in the Assembly chamber began last night after a tumultuous session which Herriot finally was forced to suspend because of the uproar raised by the leftwingers.

The suspension postponed action on the government's anti-strike bill until tomorrow, when the Assembly will resume debate on the bill at 3 p. m. (9 a. m. E.S.T.).

The power plant strikers, whose refusal to work halted Paris subways yesterday, darkened many Paris homes, crippled other public utilities and closed down theaters and movie houses, were cleared from powerhouses at St. Ouen, Arrighi, St. Denis, Ivry, Genevilliers and Issy Les Moulineaux.

Communist deputies relieved each other in teams throughout the night in occupying the Assembly chamber after one of them refused to accept a vote of censure for "inciting the army to revolt" which would expel him temporarily.

Disorder Breaks Out

A Communist spokesman said his colleagues were remaining in the hall in case Herriot tried to convene the deputies into session without notifying the Communists, who have been struggling since Saturday afternoon to prevent a final vote.

Disorder broke out in the chamber when the Communist refused to accept the censure and his colleagues supported him with shouts and catcalls.

With the Assembly out of session, a creeping industrial and transportation paralysis, caused by a wave of strikes which have left more than 2,000,000 idle, gripped the nation.

A new strike tied up three power plants yesterday, leaving many Paris homes without lights last night, halting the Paris subway, crippling other public utilities and closing theaters and movies. Garbage went uncollected and the streets of Paris went unswept for the third day because of a walkout of municipal employes.

Thousands of angry citizens in the capital, groping their way on foot in severe weather, reached darkened homes and ate cold suppers because of a lack of gas.

The assembly incident began when Herriot demanded and obtained a vote of censure against Communist Deputy Raoul Calas for calling on army reservists to re-

B. And O. Tracks Blocked After Train-Truck Crash

SALAMANCA, N. Y., Dec. 1 (AP)—All four tracks of the Baltimore and Ohio Railroad's main line were blocked tonight following a collision between a B. and O. "doubleheader" fast freight and a trailer truck loaded with automobiles.

Police reported that no one was injured seriously, although the truck driver, William Wawrzycki, 34, and seven train crew men were given first aid at a hospital.

The crash scattered the truck, four new automobiles, two locomotives and 10 cars over the area. The freight, on a Rochester-Salamanca run, was approaching the yards here and rammed the truck seconds after Wawrzycki leaped off.

AFTER TESTIMONY—Mrs. Bleriot H. Lamarre smiles as she leaves the Federal Court building at Washington after spending an hour and a quarter yesterday before a grand jury investigating the wartime business deals of retired Maj. Gen. Bennett E. Meyers. Mrs. Lamarre has denied she ever was the "girl friend" of Meyers, as he claimed.

U. S. Building Atomic Test Station On Far Pacific Isle

Lt. Gen. John Hull Heads Task Force

WASHINGTON, Dec. 1 (AP)—Construction of elaborate atomic "testing grounds" is underway on the faraway Pacific atoll of Eniwetok, the government disclosed today in an announcement so worded as to raise the possibility that the United States has some new weapon in addition to the A-bomb.

A three paragraph announcement from the Atomic Energy Commission spoke of atomic weapons in the plural. Government officials said security reasons prevent an explanation of whether this means the existence of an atomic weapon other than the bomb. One spokesman said "you can draw your own conclusions."

Major Tests Likely

The announcement hinted that the tests will be on a major scale for it said Eniwetok was chosen, among other reasons, because "it is isolated and there are hundreds of miles of open seas in the direction in which winds might carry radioactive particles."

The closest large land area is New Guinea, about 1,500 miles to the southwest.

Previous tests have indicated the radioactive particles may be flown great distances. After the two atomic bomb explosions in tests at Bikini, in July, 1946, radioactive particles were reported in the air as far away as the West Coast of the United States and Paris, France. But the government never officially confirmed the reports.

Lt. Gen. John E. Hull, Pacific commander of army forces, is coordinating the work of the Army, Navy and Air Force in the program.

Sea-Level Canal Proposed

He has been working in such secrecy, it was reported from Honolulu today, that close friends of the General were surprised to learn he had been given the assignment.

The atomic bomb was in the news today from another section of the world—a proposal from the Governor of the Panama Canal Zone that the Panama Canal be made a sea-level waterway. Gov. J. C. Mehaffey said in a report submitted to Congress by President Truman that the present system of locks would be more vulnerable to an atomic bomb explosion.

On Eniwetok, the armed forces will construct installation for scientific equipment; structures where personnel may be protected when tests are underway, control and observation posts and housing for scientists and other personnel.

Tax Is Repealed; City Pays Off Its Theater Patrons

For two years, a city amusement tax added two cents to each ticket. After a long court battle, the law recently was repealed, and $32,000 was set aside to pay off those who contributed.

Biggest sum was being distributed at the Tower Theater, where Mayor Harry T. Laugharn waited on the first customer, Collene Talbott, who collected $4.20. Payment was based on old stubs, which many patrons saved because the issue has been in dispute since its inception.

Pay-Price Freeze Warning Sounded

WASHINGTON, Dec. 1 (AP)—President Truman's chief lieutenant on the economic front told Congress today that a general freeze of prices and wages may become necessary unless the administration's program for curbing inflation is adopted.

Secretary of Commerce Harriman, testifying before the House Banking Committee, said a new inflationary spiral may be set off by a meat shortage in the spring.

"I believe," he testified, "that it is advisable to start developing a program now rather than to risk the need of hasty action later when the only feasible course might be to put on the brakes by some type of general freeze of prices and wages and then to proceed to correct the individual inequities as rapidly as possible."

Saying a high cost of living "emergency is here, very grave, right now," Harriman urged Congress to grant the administration power to impose selective controls over prices and wages and to institute consumer rationing on some items.

This prompted a statement by Banking Chairman Wolcott (R-Mich) that the administration is trying to sell Congress "a pig in a poke" by not proposing detailed legislation for economic controls and not saying specifically how such controls would be applied.

Elixir Didn't Work

HASTINGS, England, Dec. 1 (AP)—Aleinster Crowley, magician and mystic, claimed that when he was 40 he had distilled and drunk the true elixir of life supposed to prolong life forever. Tonight, at 72, he died.

"Indigent" Widow, Ill In Hospital, Owns Investments Worth $150,000

PHILADELPHIA, Dec. 1 (AP) — A 72-year-old "indigent" widow, seriously ill at Philadelphia General Hospital, was disclosed today to be the owner of investments valued at $150,000.

The disclosure came at a hearing before President Judge Curtis Bok at Common Pleas Court on the city's request that a guardian be appointed for Mrs. Mary Murphy, who said she is a former school teacher.

This is the story as unfolded at the hearing:

Mrs. Murphy was remanded to the House of Correction when police found her wandering in the streets, homeless and apparently penniless, subsisting on scraps begged from restaurant kitchens.

She was later transferred to the general hospital where it was found her left foot was infected. Doctors sought to convince her she needed surgery, but she refused to sign papers authorizing an operation, insisting her foot would heal by itself.

It was testified that investigation disclosed the elderly woman owned about $150,000 in securities deposited with E. W. Clark & Company, brokers.

Members of the hospital staff asked the court to rule that an operation be performed on the woman on grounds she is mentally incompetent. Judge Bok held that neither the court nor the appointed guardian could sanction such a step.

More Clashes Occur As Palestine Braces For Strike By Arabs

MRS. LAMARRE RELATES STORY TO GRAND JURY

WASHINGTON, Dec. 1 (AP) — Nervous, but able to laugh afterward, Mrs. Mildred Lamarre told her story today to a federal grand jury inquiring into the case of Maj. Gen. Bennett E. Meyers, who had called her his "girl friend"—a statement she hotly denied.

The young brunette, for whom Meyers has said he set up a business for her husband to run, was with the grand jury more than an hour. She may return again tomorrow, the district attorney's office said.

The grand jury investigation is a followup of the Senate War Investigating Committee's study of charges that Meyers illegally profited by more than $150,000 from aviation subcontracts.

In another followup, the House Armed Services Committee voted today to investigate the validity of disability retirement pensions held by thousands of Army and Navy officers.

Meyers had been drawing a $550-a-month pension but after the senatorial investigation he was deprived of this and also stripped of his military decorations. Meyers, now 52, was retired from the Air Forces in 1945 on a finding that he had undergone a nervous breakdown.

The jaunty General, known as "Benny" to the high officers with whom he worked, told the senators that he set up Mrs. Lamarre's husband, Bleriot, and her brother, Thomas E. Readnower, as officials of the Aviation Electric Company of Ohio because she had been his "girl friend" for four years with her husband's knowledge and approval.

Italian Municipal Strikes Averted

ROME, Tuesday, Dec. 2 (AP) — A nationwide strike of city employes, set to begin later this morning, was averted early today when the Italian government agreed to furnish the municipal governments with sufficient money to allow promised wage increases.

The City Employes' National Federation, announcing the government action, directed its members to continue work "until further notice."

The decision to call off the strike eased some pressure on the national government of Premier Alcide De Gasperi, which also announced settlement last night of a political dispute that caused extensive leftist agitation in Milan Friday and yesterday.

Last night, Interior Minister Mario Scelba said he had reached an agreement with Ettore Troilo, leftist prefect (governor) of Milan province whose announced removal last week resulted in demonstrations.

Scelba said Iroilo would give up his post Thursday and Dr. Celona, now Padva perfect, would govern Milan province until Dr. Vincenzo Siotola, originally chosen for the office, finished a short vacation.

Clue To Missing Plane!

FRANKFURT, Germany, Dec. 1 (AP)—The United States Army Air Force said tonight it had picked up faint radio signals which it believed originated from a C-47 transport plane missing for three days with 20 persons aboard.

One Jew Is Killed And Four Wounded

JERUSALEM, Dec. 1—(AP)—One Jew was killed and four other Jews and two Polish Christians were wounded today as Arab bands, seeking reprisal for the United Nations decision to partition Palestine which they opposed, roved through city streets and the Holy Land countryside, punctuating their protests with gunfire and bomb blasts.

The latest communal clash occurred tonight in border streets between the all-Jewish city of Tel Aviv and all-Arab Jaffa as Palestine authorities prepared for further outbursts of violence tomorrow when a three-day Arab general strike is scheduled to begin.

Four Jews were wounded, one seriously, by an Arab band in Tel Aviv-Jaffa. Jewish sources said the Arab group, containing between 200 and 300 persons, was repulsed by a Jewish fighting force.

Haganah, underground Jewish organization, said the Arab force was formed in Jaffa and "attempted to penetrate" Tel Aviv's Shabazi quarter under the cover of small arms fire and home-made bomb explosions. One Jew was wounded seriously by a bomb. One Jew said the attack was accompanied by two diversionary thrusts—one in Mia Sherim Street, where a Jew was wounded in the hand, and the other in Shuk Hacarmal Street, where two Jews suffered minor wounds.

Haganah sources in Tel Aviv said the Palestine government was "considering a plan" to withdraw all police and military forces from Tel Aviv, Ramat Gan and the Cetah Tiqvah area and handing over their duties to a Jewish command.

This move, the sources said, would constitute the legalization of Haganah security forces and would take place "in the next few days."

In the all-Arab town of Nablus, citizens and tribesmen from the hills gathered in the streets, shouted threats and fired weapons in noisy demonstrations against the decision to carve Palestine into separate Arab and Jewish states. The Arabs of Nablus were already on strike.

U. N. Officials Discuss Question

LAKE SUCCESS, Dec. 1—(AP)—Top United Nations officials moved swiftly today to put into effect the General Assembly's decision to partition Palestine into separate Jewish and Arab countries.

The Palestine question was taken up at a private meeting of Secretary-General Trygve Lie's chief assistants, along with other problems tossed to the secretariat by the Assembly. These problems included sending a special commission to Korea and moving the 1948 session of the Assembly to Europe.

Informed quarters said today's discussions were of a preliminary nature and dealt mainly with the broad outline of what part the various United Nations divisions would be called upon to play.

These quarters said, however, that measures already were being taken to choose personnel and arrange transportation for the special five-nation United Nations Palestine Commission.

No action was taken to bring the current Palestine disturbances to the attention of the Security Council, although that body will have the Holy Land problem before it officially when it meets later in the week on the Indonesian issue.

Produce More, Spend Less Anti-Inflation Program Is Recommended By Sen. Taft

PHILADELPHIA, Dec. 1—(AP)—An anti-inflation program calling on the American people to produce more and spend less was proposed tonight by Sen. Taft (R-Ohio).

He denounced what he characterized as President Truman's request for "unlimited authority" to impose price-wage and rationing controls. Taft said the administration is relying on a return to controls and this "at least raises the question whether it is in good faith its denunciation of high prices."

Taft, who heads the Senate Republican Policy Committee and is an announced presidential candidate, told the St. Andrew's Society in a prepared address that "if we don't want high prices we, and our government will have to spend less."

"We can't build new houses for everyone who wants them," he declared. "We can't export many billions more than we import. We can't spend too much borrowed money. If we don't want to sacrifice any of these pleasant and politically advantageous, activities then we had better face the fact that we will have high prices."

As his solution to the cost of living problem, Taft laid down the following proposals:

1. Conduct a campaign to increase productivity per man through improvement of machinery, methods and "better individual work by the men," conditioning any wage increase "on a more complete day's work."
2. Cut government expenses and taxes.
3. Limit exports to countries outside of Western Europe to balance the imports from them and confine aid to foreign nations "to specific fields which we know can be effective."
4. Restrain the increase in bank credit.
5. Reduce the percentage of government guarantee on housing loans.
6. Limit consumer credit.
7. Carry on a campaign to discourage spending and encourage saving, particular reducing the purchase of scarce foods "by those who can afford to waste less and eat less."
8. Carry out the congressional obligation to support farm prices "with discretion."

"FLIVVER FLIERS" LAND PLANES AT EL PASO, TEX.

EL PASO, Tex., Dec. 1—(INS)—George W. Truman, 39, and Clifford Evans, 27, around-the-world "flivver fliers," landed in El Paso tonight on the return leg of their epochal trip which is scheduled to end at Teterboro, N. J.

The pair flew their Cub planes to El Paso from Phoenix.

The around-the-world fliers said they are "tired of long hops."

Both men showed signs of weariness, and said their trip has been "plenty rugged." So far the flight into Greenland has been the toughest grind.

The fliers, completing a flight which commenced last August 9, finished the 372-mile hop from Phoenix, Ariz., in four hours and 15 minutes.

They will remain in El Paso tonight and fly to Amarillo, Tex., tomorrow.

Truman said they expect to arrive in New York Saturday or Sunday.

BRIDGE CRASH—The pilot of this Navy torpedo bomber was not seriously injured yesterday when his craft developed trouble and crashed into busy John Philip Sousa bridge in Southeast Washington. No vehicular traffic was on the span at the time, it having been stopped when it was obvious the plane was in trouble.

FBI Smashes Hagerstown White Slave Operations

13 Persons In Four States Are Nabbed

WASHINGTON, Dec. 1 (AP)—The arrest of 13 persons in Maryland, Pennsylvania, Virginia and Indiana in connection with the transportation of women to Hagerstown, Md., for purposes of prostitution was announced tonight by the Federal Bureau of Investigation.

J. Edgar Hoover, director of the FBI, said in a statement that eight women and five men have been charged with violating the White Slave Traffic Act or conspiracy to violate the act.

He said those arrested were:

At Lynchburg, Va. — Charles Junior Hudson, Stephen Carl Hudson, Virginia Campbell, Shirley Campbell, Frieda Campbell and Juanita Campbell.

At Longansport, Ind.—Jean Coghill.

At Danphin, Pa.—Viola Grant.

A detainer has been placed against Aaron Johnson who is in custody on a local charge at Indianapolis, Hoover added.

Paul Grant was arrested at Harrisburg, Pa., the FBI chief said.

The FBI said the houses of prostitution involved in the case are located on West Bethel Street, Hagerstown, Md.

One alleged procurer, the FBI related, was reported to have brought his wife across state lines to put her in one of the Hagerstown houses. On one occasion, the FBI said, he personally collected money due her for her week's work.

Another man, the FBI said, allegedly brought his wife from Indiana on a motorcycle in order to share her earnings at Hagerstown, which are said to have reached $350 a week at times.

Among those arrested, the FBI said is a 19-year-old boy who is charged with interstate transportation of a 37-year-old alleged prostitute reported to be the mother of five children who have been placed in orphanages.

It was the second time within a period of slightly over a week that the FBI has moved to break up inter-state transportation of women for immoral purposes.

A recent raid at Ironton, Ohio, resulted in a number of arrests there and in other cities.

Those taken into custody at Hagerstown in connection with tonight's drive will be given a hearing before the United States commissioner at Hagerstown tomorrow.

Man Blames His "Carelessness" As Savings Burn

CLEVELAND, Tenn., Dec. 1 (AP)—James Poe, 60, saw $2,295, bulk of his life savings, go up in a blaze today—and ruefully admitted the loss was caused by "my carelessness."

Poe reported that as he undressed last night he took his billfold, containing the money, out of a pocket and laid it on a coal shovel. This morning, he used the shovel to heave coal into a stove, forgetting he had left his money on the shovel.

All he retrieved from the stove to show for his $2,295 was the zipper on the billfold.

Jury To Get Arms Theft Case Today

AUGUSTA, Ga., Dec. 1 (AP)—Arguments to the jury were completed today at the two-weeks-old United States District Court trial of four men on a two-count indictment that they plotted and executed theft of some 21 Navy machine guns from nearby Bush Field in April.

Judge Frank M. Scarlett announced he would deliver his charge and send the issue to the jury after court reconvenes tomorrow.

On trial are Karl J. Eisenhardt, 50-year-old Ellicott City, Md., businessman, and three former military fliers, Edward Browder, Jr., 30, Amarillo, Tex.; J. Meredith Russell, 24, Baltimore, and Manuel L. Fuego, 38, Miami, Fla., a Cuban native.

Several Latin American countries and high-ranking personalities figured in seven full days of testimony by some 50 witnesses, six FBI agents among them. The international angles, however, were touched lightly in the argument of counsel.

Assistant United States attorneys stressed the mass of government evidence seeking to link the defendants in an alleged conspiracy and theft of government property. Defense counsel emphasized what they pointed out as conflicts in the government testimony and asserted that nothing had been presented placing the four defendants together to conspire at any time.

Brake Failure Blamed For Seattle Plane Crash

SEATTLE, Dec. 1 (AP)—Hydraulic brakes that failed to hold were blamed today by Pilot James E. Farris, 37, Seattle, for the Alaska Airlines transport plane crash at the Seattle-Tacoma airport yesterday which resulted in the death of eight persons. Two others are in critical condition.

In Washington, the Civil Aeronautics Board ordered Alaska Airlines to show cause by December 15 why it should not be required to stop scheduled operations between Anchorage and Seattle. The board said its enforcement section asserted the carrier was providing scheduled service between points not on its established routes and particularly between Seattle and Anchorage.

The transport crashed into an automobile on the highway, killing a blind woman in the car. Then the plane caught fire.

Prosecution Ends Case

NUERNBERG, Germany, Dec. 1 (AP)—The prosection formally concluded its case today against 23 officials of the I. G. Farben chemical combine on trial before a United States military tribunal on war crimes charges. Opening defense arguments will be made December 18, after which the court will adjourn until January 12 when defense will begin presentation of its case.

Oil Slick Examined

KETCHIKAN, Alaska, Dec. 1 (AP)—A huge oil slick, four to five miles in area was being examined as weather permits by Coast Guard cutters today as the search continued for the bodies of 45 seamen missing after the wreck of the Clarksdale Victory on Hippa Island near here last Monday.

Elderly Woman Hitch-Hiker's Plight Stirs Residents Of Cedar Rapids, Ia.

CEDAR RAPIDS, Ia., Dec. 1—(AP)—A proud little old lady, bewildered by the nearly $70 cash, two overcoats, and several offers of a home which have been tendered her since she paused here while hitch-hiking from Detroit to Denver, indicated tonight she probably would continue westward.

Donations and offers of assistance have flooded police headquarters since the public learned of the arrival Sunday of Mrs. Bessie Kennedy, 68.

Mrs. Kennedy, speaking in a rich Irish brogue, asked police for a bite of breakfast and shelter.

She explained she had lost her job as a housekeeper in Denver and was advised to go to her former home, Detroit, to seek old age assistance. When she found regulations there would require a year's residence she decided to return to Denver although her funds were exhausted.

Mrs. Kennedy said she didn't really hitch-hike. She just walked along the highway and if anyone stopped and offered her a ride she would accept. She said it took about 10 days to get here from Detroit.

"I don't know what to think," she said as police told her of the spontaneous public reaction to her plight. She indicated, however, that she believed she wanted to board a bus for Denver tomorrow. She added that she wasn't tired of work—she was just tired of hunting for a job.

House Group Votes Ceiling Of 590 Million

Committee Would Add China To List

WASHINGTON, Dec. 1 (AP)—A bill authorizing $597,000,000 in emergency aid to France, Italy and Austria was passed, 83 to 6, by the Senate late today but the House Foreign Affairs Committee voted soon afterward to hold the amount down to $590,000,000 and add China to the list of countries to be helped.

Supporters of President Truman's full program of helping Western Europe through the winter as one means of fighting Communism appeared certain to press for raising the House figure to the full $597,000,000 for France, Italy and Austria alone.

Immediately after he learned of the Senate action, Mr. Truman telephoned Sens. Vandenberg (R-Mich) and Barkley (D-Ky), to "congratulate them and to thank them for the large part that they had in bringing about this result," Presidential Press Secretary Charles G. Ross reported.

"The President," Ross said, "was much gratified by the size of the majority."

Early House Action Seen

Members of the House Foreign Affairs Committee said they hoped to bring their bill before the House Wednesday or Thursday and Speaker Martin (R-Mass) predicted it would be ready for presidential action by the end of next week.

The committee's bill did not specify any particular amount for China, which was passed over temporarily in the administration's stopgap aid proposals, but members voted earlier to give China $60,000,000.

This would leave $530,000,000 for Austria, Italy and France—$67,000,000 less than the President requested in his message opening the special session of Congress two weeks ago.

The committee last week cut $108,000,000 from the emergency program but restored $38,000,000 today for Italy, most of it to be spent on wheat, and then in a last-minute decision put back $3,000,000 for France.

The committee also wrote into the bill a provision allowing the Reconstruction Finance Corporation to advance up to $150,000,000 of the total to start the program.

The measure, passed today by the Senate without major change, does not carry any actual cash. An appropriation bill must be approved later.

Six Senators Vote "No"

Appealing for swift pasage of the winter relief measure, Chairman Vandenberg, of the Senate Foreign Relations Committee, told his colleagues:

"We can get the most for our money by acting promptly. We can buy the most freedom at the moment by acting with vigor and dispatch."

Before voting the Senate adopted an amendment by Sen. Kem (R-Mo) which would guarantee freedom of American press and radio representatives to watch the operation of the program in the three Western European countries.

Kem's amendment also requires a report to Congress, preferably by next March 31, on the amount of food, fuel and other materials distributed under the program and the number of persons getting them. A proposal by Sen. Taylor (D-Idaho) that the United Nations distribute the European aid was shouted down by voice vote.

Hitler's Father-In-Law Is Fined 2,000 Marks

MUNICH, Germany, Dec. 1 (AP)—Fritz Braun, father-in-law of Adolf Hitler, was fined 2,000 marks ($20) today and placed under probation for a year as a minor offender under the denazification law.

His daughter Eva was believed to have married the German dictator and to have committed suicide with Hitler just before Berlin fell.

Braun's daughter Gretel, widow of SS Gen. Fegelein whom Hitler ordered shot as a deserter in the last few days was one of the few in the court-room audience.

Guards Oust Communists From French Assembly

Communist Refuses To Accept Censure

PARIS, Tuesday, Dec. 2 (AP)—Paris subways resumed operations early today after police had cleared sitdown strikers from six power plants in the Paris area.

Simultaneously Republican guards ousted Communist Deputy Raoul Calas from the National Assembly after he had occupied the speakers' rostrum for more than 10 hours in defiance of a vote of censure decreeing his expulsion.

Fifty other Communist deputies, who had staged a sitdown in the chamber in connection with their campaign to kill the government's stringent anti-strike bill, filed out peacefully with Calas.

The expulsion of Calas was accomplished without violence by four Republican guards armed only with a letter from Assembly President Edouard Herriot.

The Communist sitdown in the Assembly chamber began last night after a tumultuous session which Herriot finally was forced to suspend because of the uproar raised by the leftwingers.

The suspension postponed action on the government's anti-strike bill until tomorrow, when the Assembly will resume debate on the bill at 3 p. m. (9 a. m. E.S.T.).

The power plant strikers, whose refusal to work halted Paris subways yesterday, darkened many Paris homes, crippled other public utilities and closed down theaters and movie houses, were cleared from powerhouses at St. Ouen, Arrighi, St. Denis, Ivry, Genevilliers and Issy Les Moulineaux.

A Communist spokesman said his colleagues were remaining in the hall in case Herriot tried to convene the deputies into session without notifying the Communists, who have been struggling since Saturday afternoon to prevent a final vote.

Disorder broke out in the chamber when the Communist refused to accept the censure and his colleagues supported him with shouts and catcalls.

Tax Is Repealed; City Pays Off Its Theater Patrons

For two years, a city amusement tax added two cents to each ticket. After a long court battle, the law recently was repealed, and $32,000 was set aside to pay off those who contributed.

Biggest sum was being distributed at the Tower Theater, where Mayor Harry T. Laughharn waited on the first customer, Collene Talbott, who collected $4.20. Payment was based on old stubs, which many patrons saved because the issue has been in dispute since its inception.

Pay-Price Freeze Warning Sounded

WASHINGTON, Dec. 1 (AP)—President Truman's chief lieutenant on the economic front told Congress today that a general freeze of prices and wages may become necessary unless the administration's program for curbing inflation is adopted.

Secretary of Commerce Harriman, testifying before the House Banking Committee, said a new inflationary spiral may be set off by a meat shortage in the spring.

"I believe," he testified, "that it is advisable to start developing a program now rather than to risk the need of hasty action later when the only feasible course might be to put on the brakes by some type of general freeze of prices and wages and then to proceed to correct the individual inequities as rapidly as possible."

Saying a high cost of living "emergency is here, very grave, right now," Harriman urged Congress to grant the administration power to impose selective controls over prices and wages and to institute consumer rationing on some items.

This prompted a statement by Banking Chairman Wolcott (R-Mich) that the administration is trying to sell Congress "a pig in a poke" by not proposing detailed legislation for economic controls and not saying specifically how such controls would be applied.

MRS. LAMARRE RELATES STORY TO GRAND JURY

WASHINGTON, Dec. 1 (AP) — Nervous but able to laugh afterward, Mrs. Mildred Lamarre told her story today to a federal grand jury inquiring into the case of Maj. Gen. Bennett E. Meyers, who had called her his "girl friend"—a statement she hotly denied.

The young brunette, for whom Meyers has said he set up a business for her husband to run, was with the grand jury more than an hour. She may return again tomorrow, the district attorney's office said.

The grand jury investigation is a followup of the Senate War Investigating Committee's study of charges that Meyers illegally profited by more than $150,000 from aviation subcontracts.

In another followup, the House Armed Services Committee voted today to investigate the validity of disability retirement pensions held by thousands of Army and Navy officers.

Meyers had been drawing a $550-a-month pension but after the senatorial investigation he was deprived of this and also stripped of his military decorations. Meyers, now 52, was retired from the Air Forces in 1945 on a finding that he had undergone a nervous breakdown.

The jaunty General, known as "Benny" to the high officers with whom he worked, told the senators that he set up Mrs. Lamarre's husband, Bleriot, and her brother, Thomas E. Readnower, as officials of the Aviation Electric Company of Ohio because she had been his "girl friend" for four years with her husband's knowledge and approval.

Italian Municipal Strikes Averted

ROME, Tuesday, Dec. 2 (AP) — A nationwide strike of city employes, set to begin later this morning, was averted early today when the Italian government agreed to furnish the municipal governments with sufficient money to allow promised wage increases.

The City Employes' National Federation, announcing the government action, directed its members to continue work "until further notice."

The decision to call off the strike eased some pressure on the national government of Premier Alcide De Gasperi, which also announced settlement last night of a political dispute that caused extensive leftist agitation in Milan Friday and yesterday.

Last night, Interior Minister Mario Scelba said he had reached an agreement with Ettore Troilo, leftist prefect (governor) of Milan province whose announced removal last week resulted in demonstrations.

Scelba said Iroilo would give up his post Thursday and Dr. Celona, now Padva perfect, would govern Milan province until Dr. Vincenzo Siotola, originally chosen for the office, finished a short vacation.

Clue To Missing Plane!

FRANKFURT, Germany, Dec. 1 (AP)—The United States Army Air Force said tonight it had picked up faint radio signals which it believed originated from a C-47 transport plane missing for three days with 20 persons aboard.

One Jew Is Killed And Four Wounded

JERUSALEM, Dec. 1—(AP)—One Jew was killed and four other Jews and two Polish Christians were wounded today as Arab bands, seeking reprisal for the United Nations decision to partition Palestine which they opposed, roved through city streets and the Holy Land countryside, punctuating their protests with gunfire and bomb blasts.

The latest communal clash occurred tonight in border streets between the all-Jewish city of Tel Aviv and all-Arab Jaffa as Palestine authorities prepared for further outbursts of violence tomorrow when a three-day Arab general strike is scheduled to begin.

Four Jews were wounded, one seriously, by an Arab band in Tel Aviv-Jaffa. Jewish sources said the Arab group, containing between 200 and 300 persons, was repulsed by a Jewish fighting force.

Haganah, underground Jewish organization, said the Arab force was formed in Jaffa and "attempted to penetrate" Tel Aviv's Shabazi quarter under the cover of small arms fire and home-made bomb explosions. One Jew was wounded seriously by a bomb. One Jew said the attack was accompanied by two diversionary thrusts—one in Mia Sherim Street, where a Jew was wounded in the hand, and the other in Shuk Hacarmal Street, where two Jews suffered minor wounds.

Haganah sources in Tel Aviv said the Palestine government was "considering a plan" to withdraw all police and military forces from Tel Aviv, Ramat Gan and the Cetah Tiqvah area and handing over their duties to a Jewish command.

This move, the sources said, would constitute the legalization of Haganah security forces and would take place "in the next few days."

In the all-Arab town of Nablus, citizens and tribesmen from the hills gathered in the streets, shouted threats and fired weapons in noisy demonstrations against the decision to carve Palestine into separate Arab and Jewish states. The Arabs of Nablus were already on strike.

U. N. Officials Discuss Question

LAKE SUCCESS, Dec. 1—(AP)—Top United Nations officials moved swiftly today to put into effect the General Assembly's decision to partition Palestine into separate Jewish and Arab countries.

The Palestine question was taken up at a private meeting of Secretary-General Trygve Lie's chief assistants, along with other problems tossed to the secretariat by the Assembly. These problems included sending a special commission to Korea and moving the 1948 session of the Assembly to Europe.

Informed quarters said today's discussions were of a preliminary nature and dealt mainly with the broad outline of what part the various United Nations divisions would be called upon to play.

These quarters said, however, that measures already were being taken to choose personnel and arrange transportation for the special five-nation United Nations Palestine Commission.

No action was taken to bring the current Palestine disturbances to the attention of the Security Council, although that body will have the Holy Land problem before it officially when it meets later in the week on the Indonesian issue.

PHILADELPHIA, Dec. 1—(AP)—An anti-inflation program calling on the American people to produce more and spend less was proposed tonight by Sen. Taft (R-Ohio).

He denounced what he characterized as President Truman's request for "unlimited authority" to impose price-wage and rationing controls. Taft said the administration is relying on a return to controls and this "at least raises the question whether it is in good faith its denunciation of high prices."

Taft, who heads the Senate Republican Policy Committee and is an announced presidential candidate, told the St. Andrew's Society in a prepared address that "if we don't want high prices we, and our government will have to spend less."

"We can't build new houses for everyone who wants them," he declared. "We can't export many billions more than we import. We can't spend too much borrowed money. If we don't want to sacrifice any of these pleasant and politically advantageous, activities then we had better face the fact that we will have high prices."

As his solution to the cost of living problem, Taft laid down the following proposals:

1. Conduct a campaign to increase productivity per man through improvement of machinery, methods and "better individual work by the men" conditioning any wage increase "on a more complete day's work."
2. Cut government expenses and taxes.
3. Limit exports to countries outside of Western Europe to balance the imports from them and confine aid to foreign nations "to specific fields which we know can be effective."
4. Restrain the increase in bank credit.
5. Reduce the percentage of government guarantee on housing loans.
6. Limit consumer credit.
7. Carry on a campaign to discourage spending and encourage saving, particular reducing the purchase of scarce foods "by those who can afford to waste less and eat less."
8. Carry out the congressional obligation to support farm prices "with discretion."

13 Persons In Four States Are Nabbed

WASHINGTON, Dec. 1 (AP)—The arrest of 13 persons in Maryland, Pennsylvania, Virginia and Indiana in connection with the transportation of women to Hagerstown, Md., for purposes of prostitution was announced tonight by the Federal Bureau of Investigation.

J. Edgar Hoover, director of the FBI, said in a statement that eight women and five men have been charged with violating the White Slave Traffic Act or conspiracy to violate the act.

He said those arrested were:

At Longansport, Ind.—Jean Coghill.

At Danphin, Pa.—Viola Grant.

A detainer has been placed against Aaron Johnson who is in custody on a local charge at Indianapolis, Hoover added.

The FBI said the houses of prostitution involved in the case are located on West Bethel Street, Hagerstown, Md.

One alleged procurer, the FBI related, was reported to have brought his wife across state lines to put her in one of the Hagerstown houses. On one occasion, the FBI said, he personally collected money due her for her week's work.

Another man, the FBI said, allegedly brought his wife from Indiana on a motorcycle in order to share her earnings at Hagerstown, which are said to have reached $350 a week at times.

Among those arrested, the FBI said is a 19-year-old boy who is charged with interstate transportation of a 37-year-old alleged prostitute reported to be the mother of five children who have been placed in orphanages.

It was the second time within a period of slightly over a week that the FBI has moved to break up inter-state transportation of women for immoral purposes.

A recent raid at Ironton, Ohio, resulted in a number of arrests there and in other cities.

Those taken into custody at Hagerstown in connection with tonight's drive will be given a hearing before the United States commissioner at Hagerstown tomorrow.

Man Blames His "Carelessness" As Savings Burn

CLEVELAND, Tenn., Dec. 1 (AP)—James Poe, 60, saw $2,295, bulk of his life savings, go up in a blaze today—and ruefully admitted the loss was caused by "my carelessness."

Poe reported that as he undressed last night he took his billfold, containing the money, out of a pocket and laid it on a coal shovel. This morning, he used the shovel to heave coal into a stove, forgetting he had left his money on the shovel.

All he retrieved from the stove to show for his $2,295 was the zipper on the billfold.

Jury To Get Arms Theft Case Today

AUGUSTA, Ga., Dec. 1 (AP)—Arguments to the jury were completed today at the two-weeks-old United States District Court trial of four men on a two-count indictment that they plotted and executed theft of some 21 Navy machine guns from nearby Bush Field in April.

Judge Frank M. Scarlett announced he would deliver his charge and send the issue to the jury after court reconvenes tomorrow.

On trial are Karl J. Eisenhardt, 50-year-old Ellicott City, Md., businessman, and three former military fliers, Edward Browder, Jr., 30, Amarillo, Tex.; J. Meredith Russell, 24, Baltimore, and Manuel L. Fuego, 38, Miami, Fla., a Cuban native.

Several Latin American countries and high-ranking personalities figured in seven full days of testimony by some 50 witnesses, six FBI agents among them. The international angles, however, were touched lightly in the argument of counsel.

Assistant United States attorneys stressed the mass of government evidence seeking to link the defendants in an alleged conspiracy and theft of government property. Defense counsel emphasized what they pointed out as conflicts in the government testimony and asserted that nothing had been presented placing the four defendants together to conspire at any time.

Brake Failure Blamed For Seattle Plane Crash

SEATTLE, Dec. 1 (AP)—Hydraulic brakes that failed to hold were blamed today by Pilot James E. Farris, 37, Seattle, for the Alaska Airlines transport plane crash at the Seattle-Tacoma airport yesterday which resulted in the death of eight persons. Two others are in critical condition.

In Washington, the Civil Aeronautics Board ordered Alaska Airlines to show cause by December 15 why it should not be required to stop scheduled operations between Anchorage and Seattle. The board said its enforcement section asserted the carrier was providing scheduled service between points not on its established routes and particularly between Seattle and Anchorage.

The transport crashed into an automobile on the highway, killing a blind woman in the car. Then the plane caught fire.

Prosecution Ends Case

NUERNBERG, Germany, Dec. 1 (AP)—The prosecution formally concluded its case today against 23 officials of the I. G. Farben chemical combine on trial before a United States military tribunal on war crimes charges. Opening defense arguments will be made December 18, after which the court will adjourn until January 12 when defense will begin presentation of its case.

Oil Slick Examined

KETCHIKAN, Alaska, Dec. 1 (AP)—A huge oil slick, four to five miles in area was being examined as weather permits by Coast Guard cutters today as the search continued for the bodies of 45 seamen missing after the wreck of the Clarksdale Victory on Hippa Island near here last Monday.

House Group Votes Ceiling Of 590 Million

Committee Would Add China To List

WASHINGTON, Dec. 1 (AP)—A bill authorizing $597,000,000 in emergency aid to France, Italy and Austria was passed, 83 to 6, by the Senate late today but the House Foreign Affairs Committee voted soon afterward to hold the amount down to $590,000,000 and add China to the list of countries to be helped.

Supporters of President Truman's full program of helping Western Europe through the winter as one means of fighting Communism appeared certain to press for raising the House figure to the full $597,000,000 for France, Italy and Austria alone.

Immediately after he learned of the Senate action, Mr. Truman telephoned Sens. Vandenberg (R-Mich) and Barkley (D-Ky), to "congratulate them and to thank them for the large part that they had in bringing about this result," Presidential Press Secretary Charles G. Ross reported.

"The President," Ross said, "was much gratified by the size of the majority."

Early House Action Seen

Members of the House Foreign Affairs Committee said they hoped to bring their bill before the House Wednesday or Thursday and Speaker Martin (R-Mass) predicted it would be ready for presidential action by the end of next week.

The committee's bill did not specify any particular amount for China, which was passed over temporarily in the administration's stopgap aid proposals, but members voted earlier to give China $60,000,000.

This would leave $530,000,000 for Austria, Italy and France—$67,000,000 less than the President requested in his message opening the special session of Congress two weeks ago.

The committee last week cut $108,000,000 from the emergency program but restored $38,000,000 today for Italy, most of it to be spent on wheat, and then in a last-minute decision put back $3,000,000 for France.

The committee also wrote into the bill a provision allowing the Reconstruction Finance Corporation to advance up to $150,000,000 of the total to start the program.

The measure, passed today by the Senate without major change, does not carry any actual cash. An appropriation bill must be approved later.

Six Senators Vote "No"

Appealing for swift pasage of the winter relief measure, Chairman Vandenberg, of the Senate Foreign Relations Committee, told his colleagues:

"We can get the most for our money by acting promptly. We can buy the most freedom at the moment by acting with vigor and dispatch."

Before voting the Senate adopted an amendment by Sen. Kem (R-Mo) which would guarantee freedom of American press and radio representatives to watch the operation of the program in the three Western European countries.

Kem's amendment also requires a report to Congress, preferably by next March 31, on the amount of food, fuel and other materials distributed under the program and the number of persons getting them. A proposal by Sen. Taylor (D-Idaho) that the United Nations distribute the European aid was shouted down by voice vote.

Hitler's Father-In-Law Is Fined 2,000 Marks

MUNICH, Germany, Dec. 1 (AP)—Fritz Braun, father-in-law of Adolf Hitler, was fined 2,000 marks ($20) today and placed under probation for a year as a minor offender under the denazification law.

His daughter Eva was believed to have married the German dictator and to have committed suicide with Hitler just before Berlin fell.

Braun's daughter Gretel, widow of SS Gen. Fegelein whom Hitler ordered shot as a deserter in the last few days was one of the few in the court-room audience.

Elderly Woman Hitch-Hiker's Plight Stirs Residents Of Cedar Rapids, Ia.

CEDAR RAPIDS, Ia., Dec. 1—(AP)—A proud little old lady, bewildered by the nearly $70 cash, two overcoats, and several offers of a home which have been tendered her since she paused here while hitch-hiking from Detroit to Denver, indicated tonight she probably would continue westward.

Donations and offers of assistance have flooded police headquarters since the public learned of the arrival Sunday of Mrs. Bessie Kennedy, 68.

Mrs. Kennedy, speaking in a rich Irish brogue, asked police for a bite of breakfast and shelter.

She explained she had lost her job as a housekeeper in Denver and was advised to go to her former home, Detroit, to seek old age assistance. When she found regulations there would require a year's residence she decided to return to Denver although her funds were exhausted.

Mrs. Kennedy said she didn't really hitch-hike. She just walked along the highway and if anyone stopped and offered her a ride she would accept. She said it took about 10 days to get here from Detroit.

"I don't know what to think," she said as police told her of the spontaneous public reaction to her plight. She indicated, however, that she believed she wanted to board a bus for Denver tomorrow. She added that she wasn't tired of work—she was just tired of hunting for a job.

B. And O. Tracks Blocked After Train-Truck Crash

SALAMANCA, N. Y., Dec. 1 (AP)—All four tracks of the Baltimore and Ohio Railroad's main line were blocked tonight following a collision between a B. and O. "doubleheader" fast freight and a trailer truck loaded with automobiles.

Police reported that no one was injured seriously, although the truck driver, William Wawrzycki, 34, and seven train crew men were given first aid at a hospital.

The crash scattered the truck, four new automobiles, two locomotives and 10 cars over the area. The freight, on a Rochester-Salamanca run, was approaching the yards here and rammed the truck seconds after Wawrzycki leaped off.

"Indigent" Widow, Ill In Hospital, Owns Investments Worth $150,000

PHILADELPHIA, Dec. 1 (AP) — A 72-year-old "indigent" widow, seriously ill at Philadelphia General Hospital, was disclosed today to be the owner of investments valued at $150,000.

The disclosure came at a hearing before President Judge Curtis Bok at Common Pleas Court on the city's request that a guardian be appointed for Mrs. Mary Murphy, who said she is a former school teacher.

This is the story as unfolded at the hearing:

Mrs. Murphy was remanded to the House of Correction when police found her wandering in the streets, homeless and apparently penniless, subsisting on scraps begged from restaurant kitchens.

She was later transferred to the general hospital where it was found her left foot was infected. Doctors sought to convince her she needed surgery, but she refused to sign papers authorizing an operation, insisting her foot would heal by itself.

It was testified that investigation disclosed the elderly woman owned about $150,000 in securities deposited with E. W. Clark & Company, brokers.

Members of the hospital staff asked the court to rule that an operation be performed on the woman on grounds she is mentally incompetent. Judge Bok held that neither the court nor the appointed guardian could sanction such a step.

"FLIVVER FLIERS" LAND PLANES AT EL PASO, TEX.

EL PASO, Tex., Dec 1—(INS)—George W. Truman, 39, and Clifford Evans, 27, around-the-world "flivver fliers," landed in El Paso tonight on the return leg of their epochal trip which is scheduled to end at Teterboro, N. J.

The pair flew their Cub planes to El Paso from Phoenix.

The around-the-world fliers said they are "tired of long hops."

Both men showed signs of weariness, and said their trip has been "plenty rugged." So far the flight into Greenland has been the toughest grind.

The fliers, completing a flight which commenced last August 9, finished the 372-mile hop from Phoenix, Ariz., in four hours and 15 minutes.

They will remain in El Paso tonight and fly to Amarillo, Tex., tomorrow.

Truman said they expect to arrive in New York Saturday or Sunday.

Merger Of Three Western German Zones Is Likely

Accord Continues To Elude Big Four

LONDON, Dec. 1 (AP) — Convoking of a three-power conference to merge the American, British and French zones of Germany appeared a possibility tonight as the Foreign Ministers Conference staggered from disagreement to disagreement amid a flood of Soviet attacks against the Western Powers.

Soviet Foreign Minister V. M. Molotov again devoted most of today's two hour and 50 minute session to portraying Russia as the only defender of Germany against the "imperialistic" western countries who want to turn the beaten nation into a helpless "colony", conference sources said.

Minor Agreements Reached

Minor agreements were reached on peace treaty procedural matters without touching on fundamental issues. One agreement provides the Big Four Foreign Ministers will write the treaty itself, taking into consideration both the two-thirds votes and the majority of all the Allied nations attending the peace conference. A similar provision was used in preparing the treaties for Germany's satellites.

Today's session was the sixth of the current meeting. Failure of the four powers to agree thus far even on fundamentals appeared to lend added significance to a statement earlier today by French Foreign Minister Georges Bidault. If this conference fails, Bidault declared, France may merge her zone with the economically united American and British occupation areas.

Western Zone Merger Seen

Both the American and British delegations have stated repeatedly that no definite plans exist for establishment of a Western German government. Conference observers, however, considered it a strong possibility that immediate steps would be taken by the United States, Britain and France to work out a western zone merger if this Big Four meeting fails.

During today's session the United States, Britain and Russia agreed a German government should sign a peace treaty, and France reserved her position on this question, briefing officials told newsmen.

Rubber Terms "Unfair" To American Product

WASHINGTON, Dec. 1 (AP) — Synthetic rubber made in the United States ought to be called "American rubber" and natural rubber produced abroad should be called "crude rubber," President John L. Collyer, of the B. F. Goodrich Company, said today.

The presently used terms of "synthetic" and "natural" are unfair to the American product, he contended.

Vishinsky Not Satisfied With Recent U.N. Session

SOUTHAMPTON, England, Tuesday, Dec. 2 (AP)—Andrei Y. Vishinsky, Soviet Vice-Minister of Foreign Affairs, said today he was "not completely satisfied" with the recent United Nations Assembly session in New York.

Arriving at Southampton from New York aboard the Queen Mary, Vishinsky told interviewers in his cabin that "some of the United Nations' work was good. Some was bad. I am not completely satisfied."

Smiling broadly, Vishinsky declined to specify what aspects of the session he approved and which he did not approve.

tioning of Palestine. The presence of two former leaders of Arab revolts in the Holy Land caused speculation that preparations were under way for imminent action against the Jews.

The rioting, which paralyzed all business in the Syrian capital, was a continuation of the Sunday demonstrations in which four persons were killed and nine wounded during an attack upon the Soviet Cultural Center and Communist Party Leadquarters.

The mob also hurled stones at the American legation, set fire to three automobiles in front of the building, and tore down an American flag. Police and fire brigades were summoned to disperse the group.

Arab Leaders To Meet

CAIRO, Egypt, Dec. 1—(AP)—The premiers and foreign ministers of seven Arab states will meet in Cairo in about 12 days to take steps for combatting the United Nations decision to partition Palestine, the secretary-general of the Arab League announced tonight.

Abdel Rahman Azzam Pasha, the league official, announced the decision to meet about December 12 after conferring by phone with the heads of several governments in the league, and with Prince Emir Feisal, of Saudi Arabia, who is in New York City.

Six Die In Blaze At Philadelphia

PHILADELPHIA, Dec. 1—(AP)—Six persons died today in a fire that raged through a four-story building housing a dormitory for homeless men.

Seventeen other persons were burned and critically injured as the flames, which firemen said started in an overstuffed chair in a first floor store, whipped quickly through the building.

Firemen battled the blaze in subfreezing weather. Water turned to ice as the fire fighters trained their hoses on the building. Despite their pleas not to jump, one man leaped from a third story window—to his death.

It was the second major lodging house fire in Philadelphia in less than a year. Six men died and 40 were injured in a blaze at Abe's Hotel on December 18, 1946.

About 40 persons who were asleep when the fire was discovered at 12:40 a. m. (EST) escaped unharmed. Some fled down a stairway and over a fire escape. Some were rescued by firemen with ladders.

The whole interior of the North Philadelphia headquarters of the Volunteers of America, Inc., was wrecked. The flames destroyed furniture, clothing and hundreds of Christmas toys on which the men—some street corner Santa Clauses—had been at work.

Truman Helps Dedicate Memorial To Roosevelt

WASHINGTON, Dec. 1 — (AP) — President Truman called today for mobilization of the world's "moral forces" for peace, as he helped dedicate the children's wing of the Georgetown University Hospital.

The children's wing, he said, is an illustration of what the people of the United States are trying to do to mobolize for peace.

Mr. Truman unveiled a plaque honoring the memory of President Roosevelt. It was placed there by the CIO, which contributed $55,000 toward equipping the wing.

The President noted that the contribution was made up of five-cent donations from individual members. He added that the people should think "what a contribution all of us could make if we mobilized on that basis for the peace of the world."

fuse to answer the government's call-up order. The government has increased the strength of the military force by 300,000 men since the strike crisis began two weeks ago.

Calas, a deputy from the Herault Department, refused to leave the speaker's rostum after the vote of censure which also directed his temporary expulsion from the chamber. Herriot thereupon suspended the session until this afternoon to avoid having to expel the Communist by force.

The Communists remained in their seats as the other deputies finally filed out. Florimond Bonte, the Communist spokesman, said Herriot wanted to reconvene the Assembly in such a way that "some parties would not receive the convocation order."

Shortly after the session broke up Herriot sent the colonel in command of the Assembly's police into the chamber to request Calas to leave the building. Calas refused.

Mother Is Indicted For Neglecting Children

COLUMBUS, O., Dec. 1 (AP) — A 23-year-old mother was indicted today by the Franklin County Grand Jury on a charge of failing to support her four children.

Prosecutor Ralph J. Bartlett said the indictment against Mrs. Wanda Patricia Herron was the first of its kind in the county.

Mrs. Herron's husband, Harry H. Herron, now is in the Mansfield Reformatory following his 1944 conviction of manslaughter in the death of an 18-month-old niece. He was charged with throwing a shoe at her.

Prosecutor Bartlett said Mrs. Herron was being held in Winston-Salem, N. C., and would be returned to Ohio. Bartlett said juvenile court records show she was sentenced to the Marysville Reformatory on charge of child neglect after Herron was sent to prison, and her fourth child was born in the reformatory.

Merger Of Three Western German Zones Is Likely

Accord Continues To Elude Big Four

LONDON, Dec. 1 (AP) — Convoking of a three-power conference to merge the American, British and French zones of Germany appeared a possibility tonight as the Foreign Ministers Conference staggered from disagreement to disagreement amid a flood of Soviet attacks against the Western Powers.

Soviet Foreign Minister V. M. Molotov again devoted most of today's two hour and 50 minute session to portraying Russia as the only defender of Germany against the "imperialistic" western countries who want to turn the beaten nation into a helpless "colony", conference sources said.

Minor Agreements Reached

Minor agreements were reached on peace treaty procedural matters without touching on fundamental issues. One agreement provides the Big Four Foreign Ministers will write the treaty itself, taking into consideration both the two-thirds votes and the majority of all the Allied nations attending the peace conference. A similar provision was used in preparing the treaties for Germany's satellites.

Today's session was the sixth of the current meeting. Failure of the four powers to agree thus far even on fundamentals appeared to lend added significance to a statement earlier today by French Foreign Minister Georges Bidault. If this conference fails, Bidault declared, France may merge her zone with the economically united American and British occupation areas.

Western Zone Merger Seen

Both the American and British delegations have stated repeatedly that no definite plans exist for establishment of a Western German government. Conference observers, however, considered it a strong possibility that immediate steps would be taken by the United States, Britain and France to work out a western zone merger if this Big Four meeting fails.

During today's session the United States, Britain and Russia agreed a German government should sign a peace treaty, and France reserved her position on this question, briefing officials told newsmen.

Rubber Terms "Unfair" To American Product

WASHINGTON, Dec. 1 (AP) — Synthetic rubber made in the United States ought to be called "American rubber" and natural rubber produced abroad should be called "crude rubber," President John L. Collyer, of the B. F. Goodrich Company, said today.

The presently used terms of "synthetic" and "natural" are unfair to the American product, he contended.

Vishinsky Not Satisfied With Recent U.N. Session

SOUTHAMPTON, England, Tuesday, Dec. 2 (AP)—Andrei Y. Vishinsky, Soviet Vice-Minister of Foreign Affairs, said today he was "not completely satisfied" with the recent United Nations Assembly session in New York.

Arriving at Southampton from New York aboard the Queen Mary, Vishinsky told interviewers in his cabin that "some of the United Nations' work was good. Some was bad. I am not completely satisfied."

Smiling broadly, Vishinsky declined to specify what aspects of the session he approved and which he did not approve.

Milder Weather Moves Into Mid-Atlantic States

Milder weather moved into the chilled Middle Atlantic and New England states Monday and moderate temperatures were forecast for the northeastern area Tuesday.

The Great Lakes region and the Ohio and Tennessee Valleys had substantial relief Monday from the season's first full-dress cold wave after temperatures dropped to 18 at Nashville, Tenn., 19 at Raleigh, N. C., 22 at Washington, and 23 at Birmingham, Ala., Monday.

tioning of Palestine. The presence of two former leaders of Arab revolts in the Holy Land caused speculation that preparations were under way for imminent action against the Jews.

The rioting, which paralyzed all business in the Syrian capital, was a continuation of the Sunday demonstrations in which four persons were killed and nine wounded during an attack upon the Soviet Cultural Center and Communist Party headquarters.

The mob also hurled stones at the American legation, set fire to three automobiles in front of the building, and tore down an American flag. Police and fire brigades were summoned to disperse the group.

Arab Leaders To Meet

CAIRO, Egypt, Dec. 1—(AP)—The premiers and foreign ministers of seven Arab states will meet in Cairo in about 12 days to take steps for combatting the United Nations decision to partition Palestine, the secretary-general of the Arab League announced tonight.

Abdel Rahman Azzam Pasha, the league official, announced the decision to meet about December 12 after conferring by phone with the heads of several governments in the league, and with Prince Emir Feisal, of Saudi Arabia, who is in New York City.

Six Die In Blaze At Philadelphia

PHILADELPHIA, Dec. 1—(AP)—Six persons died today in a fire that raged through a four-story building housing a dormitory for homeless men.

Seventeen other persons were burned and critically injured as the flames, which firemen said started in an overstuffed chair in a first floor store, whipped quickly through the building.

Firemen battled the blaze in subfreezing weather. Water turned to ice as the fire fighters trained their hoses on the building. Despite their pleas not to jump, one man leaped from a third story window—to his death.

It was the second major lodging house fire in Philadelphia in less than a year. Six men died and 40 were injured in a blaze at Abe's Hotel on December 18, 1946.

About 40 persons who were asleep when the fire was discovered at 12:40 a. m. (EST) escaped unharmed. Some fled down a stairway and over a fire escape. Some were rescued by firemen with ladders.

The whole interior of the North Philadelphia headquarters of the Volunteers of America, Inc., was wrecked. The flames destroyed furniture, clothing and hundreds of Christmas toys on which the men—some street corner Santa Clauses—had been at work.

Truman Helps Dedicate Memorial To Roosevelt

WASHINGTON, Dec. 1 — (AP) — President Truman called today for mobilization of the world's "moral forces" for peace, as he helped dedicate the children's wing of the Georgetown University Hospital.

The children's wing, he said, is an illustration of what the people of the United States are trying to do to mobolize for peace.

Mr. Truman unveiled a plaque honoring the memory of President Roosevelt. It was placed there by the CIO, which contributed $55,000 toward equipping the wing.

The President noted that the contribution was made up of five-cent donations from individual members. He added that the people should think "what a contribution all of us could make if we mobilized on that basis for the peace of the world."

fuse to answer the government's call-up order. The government has increased the strength of the military force by 300,000 men since the strike crisis began two weeks ago.

Calas, a deputy from the Herault Department, refused to leave the speaker's rostum after the vote of censure which also directed his temporary expulsion from the chamber. Herriot thereupon suspended the session until this afternoon to avoid having to expel the Communist by force.

The Communists remained in their seats as the other deputies finally filed out. Florimond Bonte, the Communist spokesman, said Herriot wanted to reconvene the Assembly in such a way that "some parties would not receive the convocation order."

Shortly after the session broke up Herriot sent the colonel in command of the Assembly's police into the chamber to request Calas to leave the building. Calas refused.

Mother Is Indicted For Neglecting Children

COLUMBUS, O., Dec. 1 (AP) — A 23-year-old mother was indicted today by the Franklin County Grand Jury on a charge of failing to support her four children.

Prosecutor Ralph J. Bartlett said the indictment against Mrs. Wanda Patricia Herron was the first of its kind in the county.

Mrs. Herron's husband, Harry H. Herron, now is in the Mansfield Reformatory following his 1944 conviction of manslaughter in the death of an 18-month-old niece. He was charged with throwing a shoe at her.

Prosecutor Bartlett said Mrs. Herron was being held in Winston-Salem, N. C., and would be returned to Ohio. Bartlett said juvenile court records show she was sentenced to the Marysville Reformatory on charge of child neglect after Herron was sent to prison, and her fourth child was born in the reformatory.

Two U. S. Correspondents Chased By Arab Mob

AMMAN, Trans-Jordan, Dec. 1—(AP)—Two American news correspondents, Phil Potter, of the Baltimore Sun, and Miss Charlotte Ebener, of the Women's National News Agency, were held in protective custody tonight in the little Arab town of Zerqa, north of Amman, after being chased by an Arab mob earlier in the day.

Potter reported by telephone to Jerusalem that he and Miss Ebener, who were making a trip to this Trans-Jordan capital, were rescued from the mob by a British army major and were taken to the Trans-Jordan frontier force headquarters at Zerqa.

Santa Should Exercise Care In Selecting Toys

In order to assist readers of this newspaper in the selection of toys for Santa Claus, a member of our reportial staff went on a browsing expedition through toylands set up by various stores. The writer of that article found many intriguing items to bring joy to the heart of any child, but if our readers were observant they probably noticed that we left out of the list all types of toys that could prove harmful to youngsters.

Little children are trusting souls. They do not read reports of accident prevention groups. They are unaware of many of the hazards of modern life. When they receive toys at Christmastime, they are overcome with delight, and they have no reason to believe that all toys are not as safe as they are intriguing. But some Christmas toys are dangerous, and it is the duty of parents to see that such gifts do not go to children.

The Greater New York Safety Council recently issued a warning against this hazard. James Tanham, chairman of the executive committee, phrased the admonition dramatically when he said:

"Don't kill Junior with kindness by giving him a toy that will set him afire, poison him, cut him, choke him, or make it easy for him to injure others."

Tanham said that toys for small children should be large enough so that children cannot swallow or choke on them, and should be colored with non-poisonous dye or paint. Toy animals should not have shoe-buttoned-type eyes, he added, and costumes not be inflammable.

The tragedies which befell several children in Allegany county and nearby points in West Virginia as a result of play-costumes catching fire are still too fresh in the minds of people to ignore this admonition. One chap has not yet fully recovered from burns suffered, although he has been under treatment for months.

With toys as plentiful and attractive as they are today, there is no reason for overstepping the bounds of safety in pleasing the youngsters. Above all, there is no excuse for giving children toys which they can swallow or on which they can choke, because many modern toys are so large that even Goliath, were he alive today, couldn't swallow them.

Fire, of course, is an ever-present hazard, and Christmastime is no exception. Every effort must be made to prevent that cause of injury and death through careful selection of toys.

Consumer-Control Was Dragged In By The Ears

Whether you regard it as an honest mistake or a piece of political shenanigans, President Truman was wrong in linking an anti-inflation program with his request to Congress for stop-gap aid to France, Italy and Austria.

In his speech to the Senate, urging quick approval of the interim aid, Senator Vandenberg deplored that linkage because it "invited an erroneous public reaction." That is stating the matter very politely. What the President did was to give the country the impression that voting $597,000,000 in stop-gap aid to three countries would endanger the national welfare unless the Administration was also given power to restore price-and-wage controls and rationing.

That is, of course, untrue. It is recognized as untrue by all informed opinion at Washington, both in and out of the Administration. Testifying before Senate and House committees on last Wednesday, Secretary of Agriculture Anderson urged that Congress restore to the President wartime consumer controls as "good insurance" for the future under the long-range Marshall Plan. "If we were to provide foreign aid for only the next few months, "Anderson added, "then I would say we might get by without any authority for controlling prices or rationing."

Of course, the very purpose of the relief section of the President's message was to provide aid for the next few months. Truman was not proposing long-term aid under the Marshall Plan. He will not do that, as he made clear, until after the first of the year, when the regular session of Congress meets.

His sole purpose in the message was—or should have been—to speed help over the Winter months to three hard-pressed countries. Yet he chose to confuse the issue and to provoke opposition in Congress by dragging in a long-range program of consumer controls.

The consumer-control issue must have been dragged in, though naturally Secretary Anderson does not say so, for political reasons.

Devil Of Haste

How short a work week would Americans need to keep in fine fettle, physically, mentally and spiritually, and still not be in a hurry? The thought arises from an announcement by the Greater New York Safety Council to the effect that, for the first time in history, Saturday has become the most dangerous day to be on the road.

The council said that Sunday dropped to second place as the day of the week on which most fatal accidents occur. Harold K. Kramer, chairman of the council's operating committee, concludes that the Saturday driver is the same old Sunday driver with a five-day work week.

This would seem to buttress the school of thought which opposes the five-day week on the ground that it is deleterous to the nation's economy, is largely responsible for the inflationary spiral by cutting production, and does not benefit the worker who indulges in "recreation" two days out of every seven.

It may be said, in view of the fact that accidents do not happen, but are caused, that many of them result from speeding on the part of motorists, hurrying on the part of pedestrians, and general lack of mental alertness on the part of both.

It is obvious that an extra free day a week has failed to overcome the national habit of hurrying. It is obvious that Americans, even with an extra free day, do not get sufficient sleep to keep their minds in fine fettle. Old Ben Franklin had something when he preached the doctrine that work is the route to health, wealth and happiness, but in recent years he has been regarded as a fuddy-duddy in high places.

Even in inflation, with money more plentiful than ever before, a man runs into debt but has to crawl out.

HOW TO KEEP WELL

By Dr. Theodore R. Van Dellen

To the limit of space, questions pertaining to the prevention of disease will be answered. Personal replies will be made, under proper limitations, when return stamped envelope is enclosed. Dr. Van Dellen will not make diagnoses or prescribe for individual diseases.

WHY CHILDREN VOMIT

VOMITING is common during the early months of life. It rarely means disease and, in the majority, a change in the feeding technic is effective. The symptom must not be allowed to continue because, in tiny children, it can become a habit.

The most common cause is air swallowing, which all babies do. When the volume ingested is excessive they attempt to alleviate discomfort by burping. But all too often regurgitation ensues and some of the gastric contents returns to the mouth and trickles down the chin.

Sometimes the mother is at fault especially if nursing is done improperly or the nipple is retracted or malformed. Occasionally there is an inadequte supply of milk nd considerble quantities of air are imbibed by the youngster in a vain attempt to take nourishment. As a result, he is underfed and cries while suckling. Vomiting only adds to his plight. By furnishing supplementary bottles, starvation is rectified.

Now and then the trouble lies with the infant. The muscles employed in the process of obtaining milk may have been injured at birth or a defect such as a cleft palate exists. In addition, the nasal passages may be obstructed by mucus, making it difficult for the baby to breathe correctly while nursing. By removing the obstruction with a pledget of cotton, vomiting will not occur.

Youngsters who really vomit lose most of the food consumed. This is a more serious situation and, unless checked, will lead to weight loss and wasting. In some tots the digestive tract rebels against the formula particularly when artificial mixtures with a high fat content are given. The manifestation usually disappears after adjustments are made.

Others will react in this fashion because they have contracted a gastrointestinal infection from one of the parents. The symptoms are the same as those exhibited by adults with food poisoning because diarrhea and vomiting generally coexist.

In pyloric stenosis, vomiting is forceful and occurs soon after or even in the middle of every meal. In this disorder, the muscular valve at the exit of the stomach fails to open as it should because the fibers are thickened or in a state of spasm. Consequently, nutriment cannot pass through and, when the gastric pouch reaches its capacity, it has no alternative than to go into reverse.

The disturbance rarely manifests itself before the second week of life and is most prevalent in the third to eighth week. The little victim drops weight rapidly and pain is apparently present because he is restless while feeding and often draws up his legs in an effort to counteract distress.

Smaller but more frequent meals are advised. In addition, spasm-relieving drugs are administered but such measures will not help if the muscles are thickened. The only other recourse is surgery but the outcome is miraculous because as soon as food can travel through the stomach at a normal rate, the tike picks up quickly.

SOMEWHAT VEGETATIVE

C. D. writes: Every night I eat a heavy meal at 8 p. m. As soon as I finish, I go to bed and remain there until six the next morning. Is this practice injurious to the health?

REPLY

No, but some would consider it dull.

YES, INDEED

D. S. writes: Do you approve of bowling for women?

REPLY

Yes, as it is an excellent sport.

CANCER OF THE SKIN

Yes, provided it is recognized early and treated adequately. Skin cancers grow slowly and, unless neglected shamefully, are more amenable to treatment than any other form of malignancy.

It Says Here

By BOB HOPE

I accepted the Army's invitation to fly to occupied Germany to entertain our troops.

We took off from London in a European transport plane. The pilot told us not to worry as he helped us with our parachutes.

It was wonderful flying over the channel . . . the blue water was a fitting contrast to the green of my face.

We landed in occupied Weisbaden, and from the quick landing I knew the pilot couldn't wait to occupy it.

I got a wonderful reception from the fellows in uniform. They all wanted to know about by command performance.

I didn't want to talk about how I met the King and Queen, so I showed them the pictures we took together.

From Weisbaden we went to the famous Kronberg Castle in Frankfort. Everyone knew we were coming. They put an extra sentry near the jewelcase.

They gave me a bedroom that belonged to the Princess of Hesse—now I know what Amber went through.

I asked to have a look at the crown jewels which were hidden in a vault, two hours later I got an eviction notice.

Kronberg Castle outdoes anything you've seen in pictures. Any moment I expected to hear Cecil B. Demille yell: "Take it down—we're through with this set"

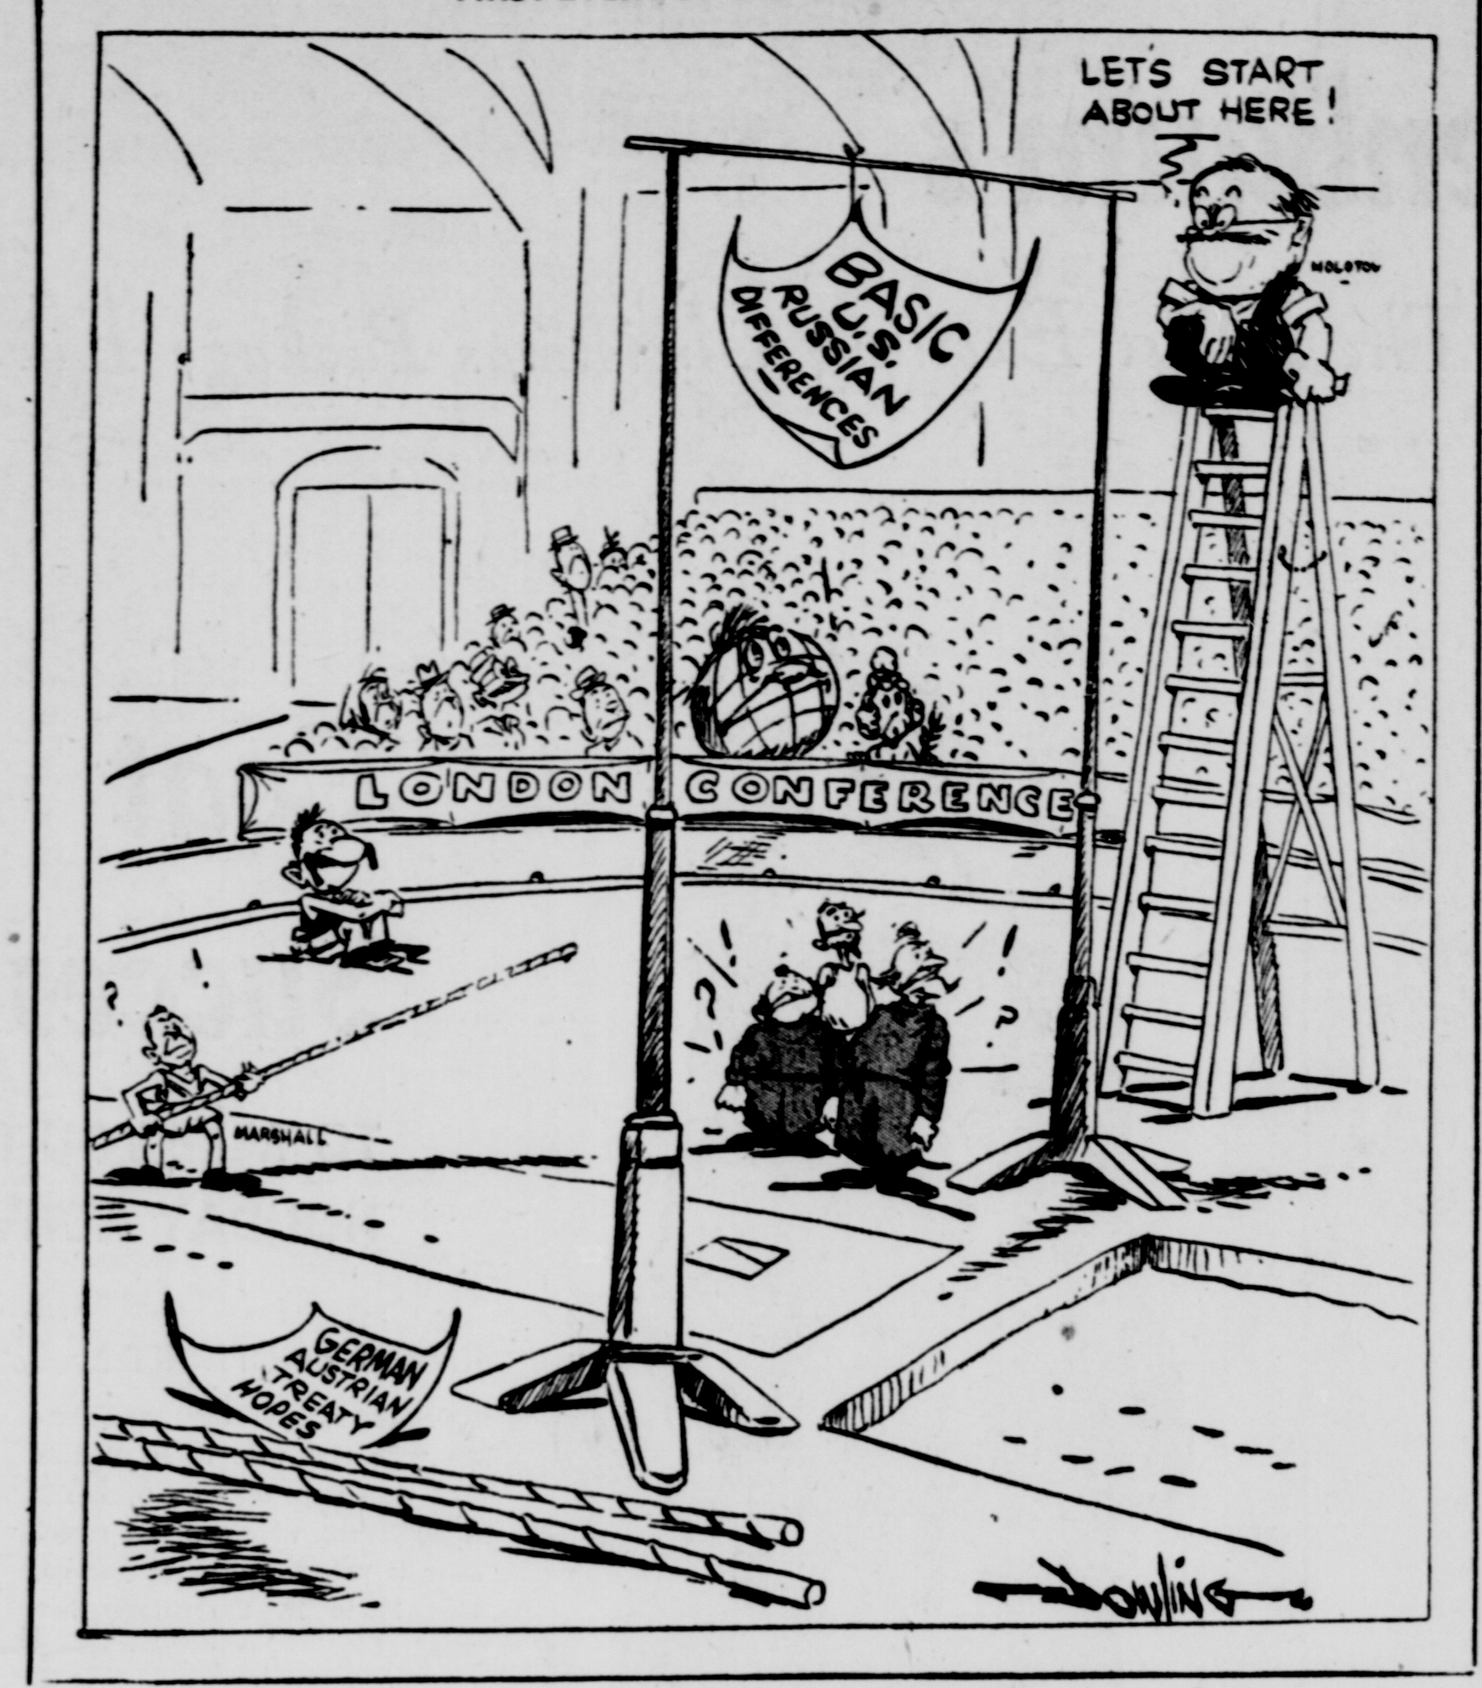
FIRST EVENT OF THE INDOOR SEASON



The Washington Merry-Go-Round

Says DREW PEARSON

WASHINGTON, Dec. 1.—One of the most tragic blunders of the war was the shooting down of 800 American paratroopers by Allied gunners over Sicily. After losing 23 U. S. transport planes loaded with 400 paratroopers on July 13, 1943, we lost 21 planes loaded with almost 400 men on July 14—chiefly shot down by Allied gunners.

Although this column published some of the facts at the time, part of the story of this tragic loss was hushed up by wartime censorship.

Last week, however, Stuart Symington, Secretary for Air, proclaimed that he wanted no brass hats protected when it came to shenanigans inside the Air Corps.

Actually if all the truth came out regarding certain Air Corps operations, it would hit very near to some of Symington's own close Air Corps friends. Nevertheless, with the Army trying to get compusory military training adopted for the first time in peacetime history, it is important that military blunders—and graft—be carefully scrutinized. And one danger of military conscription is that peacetime militarism prevents their discussion even during peace.

How tyrannical a military system can be and how it can crack down on anyone who wants to expose mistakes is illustrated not merely by the Gen. Benny Meyers scandal, but by the scandal of the wantonly murdered paratroopers over Sicily.

Tried To Tell

In the case of General Meyers, this column has already told how Meyers deceived Congress and the White House on airplane production—and how other brass hats condoned it. But in the case of the needlessly killed paratroopers, one man who tried to prevent future tragedies of this kind—Lieut. Col. David Laux—was exiled to the Army's Siberia.

One day after he urged the Secretary of War to investigate failure to protect paratroopers, Laux was flown to Nome, Alaska, nearest American point to the real Siberia, to sit there, idle, for the duration of the war.

Another officer, Brig. Gen. Ray Aloysius Dunn, who protested against failure to safeguard paratroopers over Sicily, was broken to the rank of Colonel and sent to the Pacific.

Burned To Cinders

He wasn't wanted around Washington, where he might talk to newspapermen. The whole tragic story of Army coverup revolves around the fact that a small group of officers tried to get paratrooper transport planes equipped with armor plate around the pilot's seat and with self-sealing gasoline tanks. Without self-sealing tanks, a bullet penetrating the transport's gas, tanks caused it to burst into flames. The paratroopers inside were burned to cinders before they had half a chance to bail out.

Efforts to get this protection on transport planes were increased after the Sicilian tragedy. It was well known that come D-Day, with thousands of U. S. paratroopers flying over Normandy, more men might be lost unless their transports were equipped at least with self-sealing tanks.

This paratrooper protection was approved by Maj. Gen. P. L. Williams and by Col. Ralph Bagby, Chief of Staff of Airborne Infantry in the Mediterranean. Finally an order was written and sent to Gen. Bennett Meyers, in charge of Airplane procurement. He was to install self-sealing tanks in paratroop transports.

But nothing happened. Weeks dragged by. The cross-Channel invasion of France was coming closer. But still nothing happened. Finally Colonel Laux, one of the officers who had seen men murdered over Sicily, sat down and wrote a letter to Secretary of War Stimson. And to make sure Stimson got it, Laux and delivered it personally to Mrs. Stimson.

For doing this, Colonel Laux next morning was ordered to Nome, Alaska.

Text Of Laux Letter

This columnist has now obtained a copy of Laux's letter, dated June 1, 1944. Pertinent portions follow:

"In commenting upon the loss of troop-carrier aircraft at Catania, Sicily, last July 13-14, you stated: 'To say that the Army will tolerate blundering or endeavor to cover it up is simply not true.'

"In view of your statement," continued Colonel Laux, "I feel confident that you would not tolerate the situation which exists in connection with self-sealing tanks for troop-carrier aircraft, if you knew the facts.

"When Mr. Lovett (then Assistant Secretary of War for Air, now Under Secretary of State) indicated that Drew Pearson was about to release an article showing that the Army Air Forces were asleep at the switch on this subject, I was directed by my immediate superior to prepare a defense for the Army Air Forces in these words:

"'Even though we all recognize the necessity for self-sealing tanks in troop-carrier aircraft, that is not the point. The Army Air Forces are being attacked and our job is to protect The Chief (Gen. Hap. Arnold). It is now up to us to present all the reasons why we should not have self-sealing tanks.'

"I declined to prepare such a document . . .

"Little Short Of Murder"

"I have recently completed 18 months overseas duty, participating in both Sicilian and Italian troop-carrier operations. At Catania, Sicily on the night of July 13-14, I stood in the navigator's dome of the leading troop-carrier aircraft and watched the Navy and the enemy shoot down our planes.

"Consequenaly, I realize the necessity of self-sealing tanks to a degree that cannot be appreciated by anyone who has not gone into combat in troop-carrier aircraft. That belief is shared by every troop-carrier pilot and every troop-carrier officer who has been charged with the responsibility of sending his men into combat.

"It is little short of murder. I have waged many battles within this Headquarters in an effort to correct the situation—without success. However, a copy of the latest staff study on the subject is attached for your information.

"The actual record of self—sealing tanks for troop-carrier aircraft will show they have been demanded consistently for a period of a year and a half—that the material is available—that the priority of other Air Forces projects would not be affected—and that the tanks could have been produced and delivered to the United Kingdom in time for the coming invasion."

Secretary of War Stimson, however, merely referred this letter to one of the officers who had opposed self-sealing tanks—Gen. Barney Giles—and later in the day Col. Laux, the man who dared correct a bad Army blunder, found himself flying to Nome, Alaska, with no orders other than to sit there for the war's duration.

If Secretary for Air Symington really wants to clean up brass—hat blunders he might call Colonel Laux to get the full story. If not, the rest of the story will be told in this column shortly.

Undue Expansion And Undue Misuse Of Credit Explosive

By MARK SULLIVAN

In Congress, three committees are dealing with President Truman's proposals for checking inflation and high prices. Before one or another of the committees appeared last week the country's top two fiscal authorities, Secretary of the Treasury, John W. Snyder and Chairman of the Federal Reserve Board, Marriner S. Eccles. Both stated important views, in most cases agreeing. Upon one point the two did not coincide last week, though the difference between them is only partial: it can be reconciled and one gathers that it will be.

This point was made by Mr. Eccles and it goes deep to the heart of the problem. Throughout, Mr. Eccles made a distinction between proposals of President Truman and others. He said that some proposals are "curbs rather than cures," and deal with "effects rather than causes." Definitely going deep into cause and cure is the proposal by Mr. Eccles. Stated briefly, it would limit the amount of credit banks may extend.

Quantity of Credit Enormous

The quantity of credit already existing is enormous. Just what the quantity is cannot be stated exactly. There is a partial index of it in one familiar statistic, namely the quantity of demand deposits and money in banks. This has multiplied three times during the past eight years. The figures are: In 1939, 33 billions; today, 105 billions.

This immense quantity of credit is in existing conditions, unwholesome. It is a chief cause of the inflation that already exists, and unless the increase is checked, will be a cause of more, calamitously more.

Understanding of credit as a cause of inflation begins with recognizing that credit is the equivalent of money. The act of creating credit is in effect an act of creating money. On this point I quote from a book by Mr. Edgar M. Queeny, prise." It is appropriate to say that Mr. Queeny is a thorough scholar, who brings high intelligence to discussion of the economic system of free enterprise which he defends, and is by vocation a businessman in the top level of American industry, head of the Monsanta Chemical Company:

"If John Smith, businessman, for instance, requires one hundred thousand dollars for his business, he borrows this sum from a bank in exchange for his company's note. The bank, in turn, credits John Smith's account with one hundred thousand dollars. The bank has, in effect, created one hundred thousand dollars."

The credit transactions which in effect create money are by no means limited to the large amounts Mr. Queeny mentions as an example, nor to transactions that take place between banks and businessmen. Credit is created, and hence in effect money created, by millions of other transactions. These include installment selling contracts, in which a customer in effect gets credit for amounts as small as twenty or thirty dollars. Limitation on this form of credit is included in the proposals before Congress. So is limitation on the use of credit in speculative transactions. Mr. Eccles would comprehensively limit the amount of credit banks may extend.

Credit Cause Of Inflation

Recognition that credit is a form of money and that increase of credit is, in the present condition, a cause of inflation, calls upon Congress, as it moves to check inflation, for entry into an extremely complex field of thought. On this point I quote a book written by Mr. Garet Garrett soon after the boom and collapse of the 1920's called, most appropriately, "The Bubble that Broke the World."

"In all the discoveries and inventions by which we live and die this is . . . the least comprehended and, except high explosives, the most dangerous. All the bankers themselves really know about it is how it works from day to day Beyond that it is a gift from Pandora . . Modern credit, as we know it, or think we know it, is a new and amazing power, still evolving, still untamed. Men have been much more anxious to release the power of credit, to employ it and exploit it, than to control it or even to understand it."

In the economic cycle we are now at a stage roughly comparable to about 1926-7. It is a stage calling with the utmost urgency for recognition that credit, while normally beneficent, can by undue expansion and misuse become an explosive

Not A Shred Of Support In Congress For Full Controls

By DAVID LAWRENCE

WASHINGTON, Dec. 1—Politically speaking, there isn't a shred of support in Congress for any overall controls of the national economy.

Inside both parties, there is genuine opposition to anything that even remotely resembles the OPA.

Yet some form of control is likely to be voted in order to determine how much goods shall be allocated for export under the Marshall Plan and how much shall be allocated for distribution inside the United States.

The real question is how such controls, even though sharply limited, are to be administered.

The Administration, recognizing possible opposition to an over-all agency like the OPA, has centered its attention on a formula whereby each governmental department would handle the problems directly related to its normal functions.

Presumably, the Department of Commerce would have most to do with industrial or production allocations. The big question is how the present staff of the Department of Commerce or any other department is going to be able to survey the distribution processes in any given industry and come up with a scheme that will not be arbitrary and that will not actually operate to retard production.

Operation of Economic System

Inasmuch as the American economic system operates under incentives that are related to price and to possible profit and possible loss, government officials are reluctant to order certain things to be done which could conceivably result in financial damage to particular units of an industry and in unemployment.

During a period of high-level employment and great demands for goods, it is easy enough to say that an arbitrary amount shall be allocated for export and that the rest can be distributed internally. But sharp fluctuations in employment may be expected if needed materials are withheld and bottlenecks develop that cause the closing down of factories.

There is every evidence that the Truman Administration is well aware of the complexity of the whole problem and does not want to allow itself to get into the position where political blame can be attached to it for any maladjustments that may emerge out of a system of controls.

Hence, whether it is palatable or not, the only answer that has come up thus far which appears to have any chance of adoption is one that calls for a maximum of cooperation between industry and government. This is the best assurance against regimentation or totalitarian edicts which so many opponents of a system of controls frequently cite as its worst implication.

If some scheme can be worked out that will enable each industry to have a considerable voice in methods used in allocations, subject of course to approval by the government as the representative of the public interest, a brake on the inflationary trend may possibly be exerted. Indeed, if at the end of a year or so of government and industry collaboration the plan does work well, an extension through the critical years that lie ahead becomes a possibility.

Unfortunately, as has happened so often in American history, an economic crisis coincides with a presidential election campaign. It may well be that all controls and Marshall Plan measures may become "stopgap" until the American people make up their minds to which political party they wish to entrust power.

If, on the other hand, the Truman Administration is able to develop a constructive program to which industrialists and labor leaders will give their assent—as it is desirable that both groups be invited to participate in discussion of any over-all plan—the European situation will not become involved in the domestic political campaign. At present, it does look, however, as if the real debate on the method of control will not come until January or February and until that question is resolved the long-range scope of the Marshall Plan itself will not be known.

These Days

By GEORGE E. SOKOLSKY

Where Does It Come From?

MONEY, it has been said, does not grow on trees. Of course if you are raising apples or oranges, it does. That is the trouble with most generalizations; they are only true as long as they happen not to be untrue from a particular point of view.

It is like that process called "common sense." Whose common sense yours or mine? Lecompte du Nouy, in his magnificent study of fallacy, "Human Destiny", has this to say of common sense:

"...Common sense cannot be trusted. It is common sense that leads us to think that the earth is flat; that two plumb lines are parallel (they are both directed toward the center of the earth and consequently form an angle) ..."

He adds:

"If, therefore, the starting point, the premise, of a reasoning is false, the conclusion will, necessarily, logically, be false."

The particular fallacy to which we address ourselves now is the world-wide general assumption that the United States is so rich that it can pour out its wealth in endless profligacy and not go broke. The war cost us about $300,000,000,000. And we have been spending like madmen since the war's end. For instance, about $20,000,000,000 has gone into Europe and Asia and there is little to show for it.

We spend with equal profligacy at home. The President makes a terrific holler about high prices, but the Government keeps basic agricultural prices high by subsidies and government-buying. Is it a case of the left eye refusing to see what the right eye sees or is the mouth being more speedy than the hand? Put it whichever way you like, this country spent $13,600,000,000 on farm subsidies between 1934 and 1946 and that amount will rise to $15,200,000,000 by next July.

True, if you are a farmer, you want subsidies. If you are a Senator or a Representative from a farm state, you will shriek for farm subsidies while, at the same time you will demand that the price of manufactured goods come down. And all the time you will know that you are a false prophet and a demagogue because that cost of food (often as a labor cost) goes into manufactured goods which runs about 85 per cent labor costs. Therefore, when you demand subsidies for farm products, you ipso facto demand high prices for manufactured goods. Of course, deny that on the general fallacy of common sense, but the figures do not uphold that kind of common sense. They simply uphold the fact that someone is exceedingly common in the use of his senses.

The same is true of the foreign aid called the Marshall Plan. In Europe, they call it ERP, meaning the European Relief Plan. Whether it is called the Marshall Plan or ERP, it comes to the same thing, about $20,000,000,000. Maybe we have to do that, too. Maybe there is no way out. But let us be absolutely honest about it. If we send $20,000,000,000 out of the country for relief, we shall have to have scarcity here and high prices. That is certain.

So, the appeal ought to be on that basis, because whatever is sent out of the country cannot remain in it. We already suffer scarcity because of the backlog from the war years. If goods must become more scarce and prices must become higher. What is the use of shouting about power prices as a part of a $20,000,000,000 export program. The two are incongruous. They do not add up.

Instead we should be told the truth, which is that it is the judgment of our government and Senator Vandenberg that it is essential for political purposes that certain countries be subsidized by the United States in order to counteract Russian policies in those countries.

To achieve that political end, it is necessary for the American people to tax themselves twice; once by actually paying high taxes to the government; and the second time, by paying higher prices for the goods they buy and for the things they need and use. That is the truthful statement of the case, but the politicos garb it in fulsome language.

Today's Talk

By GEORGE MATTHEW ADAMS

Success Easier Than Failure

Many years ago, my friend E. W. Howe, the late famous editor of the Atchinson Globe and author of many books, once sent me a little booklet with his essay, entitled "Success is Easier than Failure." And he marked a passage that I here quote:

"Success in life is actually easier than failure. If civilization is more desirable than savagery, this must be true. Good conduct should never have been taught for any other reason that that it is easier than bad."

There are those who try to take short-cuts to success, but usually they fail miserably and then blame everyone but themselves. It is not only easier, but more profitable to live a clean life, and a useful one, than to choose the opposite. It has been proven so time and time again. The foundation of all success rests upon character.

Law abiding people are respected, whereas the violator hurts himself and society at large. He who disregards all law helps to remove the very props that assure him honest security, and the security of his fellow man. We are not only our own keeper but our brother's as well. Civilization cannot endure on any other basis. We live happily only as a co-operative whole.

Decency is a stimulus, and an example in addition, to an entire community. And the successful man, or woman, stands out. Everyone is an uplift to all with whom one comes in contact. The better we live and behave, the happier we are and the more successful. And I don't mean mere money success, but useful success—a good example wherever we are and in all that we do.

Common sense is a great consultant! Those who take it as a guide go far. Too many people dodge the obvious in their decisions. My friend, Robert, Updegraff, once wrote an inspiring little book, which he called "Obvious Adams" (no connection with the writer of this talk) and he showed how a chap in a concern inspired his firm to move ahead by doing the obvious thing, rather than wasting time on useless starts.

No matter what your objective may be, if you apply yourself, and put your heart into it, you can, and will succeed. It is so much easier to do so than to fail!

Santa Should Exercise Care In Selecting Toys

In order to assist readers of this newspaper in the selection of toys for Santa Claus, a member of our reportial staff went on a browsing expedition through toylands set up by various stores. The writer of that article found many intriguing items to bring joy to the heart of any child, but if our readers were observant they probably noticed that we left out of the list all types of toys that could prove harmful to youngsters.

Little children are trusting souls. They do not read reports of accident prevention groups. They are unaware of many of the hazards of modern life. When they receive toys at Christmastime, they are overcome with delight, and they have no reason to believe that all toys are not as safe as they are intriguing. But some Christmas toys are dangerous, and it is the duty of parents to see that such gifts do not go to children.

The Greater New York Safety Council recently issued a warning against this hazard. James Tanham, chairman of the executive committee, phrased the admonition dramatically when he said:

"Don't kill Junior with kindness by giving him a toy that will set him afire, poison him, cut him, choke him, or make it easy for him to injure others."

Tanham said that toys for small children should be large enough so that children cannot swallow or choke on them, and should be colored with non-poisonous dye or paint. Toy animals should not have shoe-buttoned-type eyes, he added, and costumes not be inflammable.

The tragedies which befell several children in Allegany county and nearby points in West Virginia as a result of play-costumes catching fire are still too fresh in the minds of people to ignore this admonition. One chap has not yet fully recovered from burns suffered, although he has been under treatment for months.

With toys as plentiful and attractive as they are today, there is no reason for overstepping the bounds of safety in pleasing the youngsters. Above all, there is no excuse for giving children toys which they can swallow or on which they can choke, because many modern toys are so large that even Goliath, were he alive today, couldn't swallow them.

Fire, of course, is an ever-present hazard, and Christmastime is no exception. Every effort must be made to prevent that cause of injury and death through careful selection of toys.

Consumer-Control Was Dragged In By The Ears

Whether you regard it as an honest mistake or a piece of political shenanigans, President Truman was wrong in linking an anti-inflation program with his request to Congress for stop-gap aid to France, Italy and Austria.

In his speech to the Senate, urging quick approval of the interim aid, Senator Vandenberg deplored that linkage because it "invited an erroneous public reaction." That is stating the matter very politely. What the President did was to give the country the impression that voting $597,000,000 in stop-gap aid to three countries would endanger the national welfare unless the Administration was also given power to restore price-and-wage controls and rationing.

That is, of course, untrue. It is recognized as untrue by all informed opinion at Washington, both in and out of the Administration. Testifying before Senate and House committees on last Wednesday, Secretary of Agriculture Anderson urged that Congress restore to the President wartime consumer controls as "good insurance" for the future under the long-range Marshall Plan. "If we were to provide foreign aid for only the next few months, "Anderson added, "then I would say we might get by without any authority for controlling prices or rationing."

Of course, the very purpose of the relief section of the President's message was to provide aid for the next few months. Truman was not proposing long-term aid under the Marshall Plan. He will not do that, as he made clear, until after the first of the year, when the regular session of Congress meets.

His sole purpose in the message was—or should have been—to speed help over the Winter months to three hard-pressed countries. Yet he chose to confuse the issue and to provoke opposition in Congress by dragging in a long-range program of consumer controls.

The consumer-control issue must have been dragged in, though naturally Secretary Anderson does not say so, for political reasons.

Devil Of Haste

How short a work week would Americans need to keep in fine fettle, physically, mentally and spiritually, and still not be in a hurry? The thought arises from an announcement by the Greater New York Safety Council to the effect that, for the first time in history, Saturday has become the most dangerous day to be on the road.

The council said that Sunday dropped to second place as the day of the week on which most fatal accidents occur. Harold K. Kramer, chairman of the council's operating committee, concludes that the Saturday driver is the same old Sunday driver with a five-day work week.

This would seem to buttress the school of thought which opposes the five-day week on the ground that it is deleterous to the nation's economy, is largely responsible for the inflationary spiral by cutting production, and does not benefit the worker who indulges in "recreation" two days out of every seven.

It may be said, in view of the fact that accidents do not happen, but are caused, that many of them result from speeding on the part of motorists, hurrying on the part of pedestrians, and general lack of mental alertness on the part of both.

It is obvious that an extra free day a week has failed to overcome the national habit of hurrying. It is obvious that Americans, even with an extra free day, do not get sufficient sleep to keep their minds in fine fettle. Old Ben Franklin had something when he preached the doctrine that work is the route to health, wealth and happiness, but in recent years he has been regarded as a fuddy-duddy in high places.

Even in inflation, with money more plentiful than ever before, a man runs into debt but has to crawl out.

HOW TO KEEP WELL

By Dr. Theodore R. Van Dellen

To the limit of space, questions pertaining to the prevention of disease will be answered. Personal replies will be made, under proper limitations, when return stamped envelope is enclosed. Dr. Van Dellen will not make diagnoses or prescribe for individual diseases.

WHY CHILDREN VOMIT

VOMITING is common during the early months of life. It rarely means disease and, in the majority, a change in the feeding technic is effective. The symptom must not be allowed to continue because, in tiny children, it can become a habit.

The most common cause is air swallowing, which all babies do. When the volume ingested is excessive they attempt to alleviate discomfort by burping. But all too often regurgitation ensues and some of the gastric contents returns to the mouth and trickles down the chin.

Sometimes the mother is at fault especially if nursing is done improperly or the nipple is retracted or malformed. Occasionally there is an inadequte supply of milk nd considerble quantities of air are imbibed by the youngster in a vain attempt to take nourishment. As a result, he is underfed and cries while suckling. Vomiting only adds to his plight. By furnishing supplementary bottles, starvation is rectified.

Now and then the trouble lies with the infant. The muscles employed in the process of obtaining milk may have been injured at birth or a defect such as a cleft palate exists. In addition, the nasal passages may be obstructed by mucus, making it difficult for the baby to breathe correctly while nursing. By removing the obstruction with a pledget of cotton, vomiting will not occur.

Youngsters who really vomit lose most of the food consumed. This is a more serious situation and, unless checked, will lead to weight loss and wasting. In some tots the digestive tract rebels against the formula particularly when artificial mixtures with a high fat content are given. The manifestation usually disappears after adjustments are made.

Others will react in this fashion because they have contracted a gastrointestinal infection from one of the parents. The symptoms are the same as those exhibited by adults with food poisoning because diarrhea and vomiting generally coexist.

In pyloric stenosis, vomiting is forceful and occurs soon after or even in the middle of every meal. In this disorder, the muscular valve at the exit of the stomach fails to open as it should because the fibers are thickened or in a state of spasm. Consequently, nutriment cannot pass through and, when the gastric pouch reaches its capacity, it has no alternative than to go into reverse.

The disturbance rarely manifests itself before the second week of life and is most prevalent in the third to eighth week. The little victim drops weight rapidly and pain is apparently present because he is restless while feeding and often draws up his legs in an effort to counteract distress.

Smaller but more frequent meals are advised. In addition, spasm-relieving drugs are administered but such measures will not help if the muscles are thickened. The only other recourse is surgery but the outcome is miraculous because as soon as food can travel through the stomach at a normal rate, the tike picks up quickly.

Yes, provided it is recognized early and treated adequately. Skin cancers grow slowly and, unless neglected shamefully, are more amenable to treatment than any other form of malignancy.

It Says Here

By BOB HOPE

I accepted the Army's invitation to fly to occupied Germany to entertain our troops.

We took off from London in a European transport plane. The pilot told us not to worry as he helped us with our parachutes.

It was wonderful flying over the channel . . . the blue water was a fitting contrast to the green of my face.

We landed in occupied Weisbaden, and from the quick landing I knew the pilot couldn't wait to occupy it.

I got a wonderful reception from the fellows in uniform. They all wanted to know about by command performance.

I didn't want to talk about how I met the King and Queen, so I showed them the pictures we took together.

From Weisbaden we went to the famous Kronberg Castle in Frankfort. Everyone knew we were coming. They put an extra sentry near the jewelcase.

They gave me a bedroom that belonged to the Princess of Hesse—now I know what Amber went through.

I asked to have a look at the crown jewels which were hidden in a vault, two hours later I got an eviction notice.

Kronberg Castle outdoes anything you've seen in pictures. Any moment I expected to hear Cecil B. DeMille yell: "Take it down—we're through with this set"

Says DREW PEARSON

WASHINGTON, Dec. 1.—One of the most tragic blunders of the war was the shooting down of 800 American paratroopers by Allied gunners over Sicily. After losing 23 U. S. transport planes loaded with 400 paratroopers on July 13, 1943, we lost 21 planes loaded with almost 400 men on July 14—chiefly shot down by Allied gunners.

Although this column published some of the facts at the time, part of the story of this tragic loss was hushed up by wartime censorship.

Last week, however, Stuart Symington, Secretary for Air, proclaimed that he wanted no brass hats protected when it came to shenanigans inside the Air Corps.

Actually if all the truth came out regarding certain Air Corps operations, it would hit very near to some of Symington's own close Air Corps friends. Nevertheless, with the Army trying to get compusory military training adopted for the first time in peacetime history, it is important that military blunders—and graft—be carefully scrutinized. And one danger of military conscription is that peacetime militarism prevents their discussion even during peace.

How tyrannical a military system can be and how it can crack down on anyone who wants to expose mistakes is illustrated not merely by the Gen. Benny Meyers scandal, but by the scandal of the wantonly murdered paratroopers over Sicily.

Tried To Tell

In the case of General Meyers, this column has already told how Meyers deceived Congress and the White House on airplane production—and how other brass hats condoned it. But in the case of the needlessly killed paratroopers, one man who tried to prevent future tragedies of this kind—Lieut. Col. David Laux—was exiled to the Army's Siberia.

One day after he urged the Secretary of War to investigate failure to protect paratroopers, Laux was flown to Nome, Alaska, nearest American point to the real Siberia, to sit there, idle, for the duration of the war.

Another officer, Brig. Gen. Ray Aloysius Dunn, who protested against failure to safeguard paratroopers over Sicily, was broken to the rank of Colonel and sent to the Pacific.

Burned To Cinders

He wasn't wanted around Washington, where he might talk to newspapermen. The whole tragic story of Army coverup revolves around the fact that a small group of officers tried to get paratrooper transport planes equipped with armor plate around the pilot's seat and with self-sealing gasoline tanks. Without self-sealing tanks, a bullet penetrating the transport's gas, tanks caused it to burst into flames. The paratroopers inside were burned to cinders before they had half a chance to bail out.

Efforts to get this protection on transport planes were increased after the Sicilian tragedy. It was well known that come D-Day, with thousands of U. S. paratroopers flying over Normandy, more men might be lost unless their transports were equipped at least with self-sealing tanks.

This paratrooper protection was approved by Maj. Gen. P. L. Williams and by Col. Ralph Bagby, Chief of Staff of Airborne Infantry in the Mediterranean. Finally an order was written and sent to Gen. Bennett Meyers, in charge of Airplane procurement. He was to install self-sealing tanks in paratroop transports.

But nothing happened. Weeks dragged by. The cross-Channel invasion of France was coming closer. But still nothing happened. Finally Colonel Laux, one of the officers who had seen men murdered over Sicily, sat down and wrote a letter to Secretary of War Stimson. And to make sure Stimson got it, Laux [illegible] and delivered it personally to Mrs. Stimson.

For doing this, Colonel Laux next morning was ordered to Nome, Alaska.

Text Of Laux Letter

This columnist has now obtained a copy of Laux's letter, dated June 1, 1944. Pertinent portions follow:

"In commenting upon the loss of troop-carrier aircraft at Catania, Sicily, last July 13-14, you stated: 'To say that the Army will tolerate blundering or endeavor to cover it up is simply not true.'

"In view of your statement," continued Colonel Laux, "I feel confident that you would not tolerate the situation which exists in connection with self-sealing tanks for troop-carrier aircraft, if you knew the facts.

"When Mr. Lovett (then Assistant Secretary of War for Air, now Under Secretary of State) indicated that Drew Pearson was about to release an article showing that the Army Air Forces were asleep at the switch on this subject, I was directed by my immediate superior to prepare a defense for the Army Air Forces in these words:

"'Even though we all recognize the necessity for self-sealing tanks in troop-carrier aircraft, that is not the point. The Army Air Forces are being attacked and our job is to protect The Chief (Gen. Hap. Arnold). It is now up to us to present all the reasons why we should not have self-sealing tanks.'

"I declined to prepare such a document . . .

"Little Short Of Murder"

"I have recently completed 18 months overseas duty, participating in both Sicilian and Italian troop-carrier operations. At Catania, Sicily on the night of July 13-14, I stood in the navigator's dome of the leading troop-carrier aircraft and watched the Navy and the enemy shoot down our planes.

"Consequenaly, I realize the necessity of self-sealing tanks to a degree that cannot be appreciated by anyone who has not gone into combat in troop-carrier aircraft. That belief is shared by every troop-carrier pilot and every troop-carrier officer who has been charged with the responsibility of sending his men into combat.

"It is little short of murder. I have waged many battles within this Headquarters in an effort to correct the situation—without success. However, a copy of the latest staff study on the subject is attached for your information.

"The actual record of self—sealing tanks for troop-carrier aircraft will show they have been demanded consistently for a period of a year and a half—that the material is available—that the priority of other Air Forces projects would not be affected—and that the tanks could have been produced and delivered to the United Kingdom in time for the coming invasion."

Secretary of War Stimson, however, merely referred this letter to one of the officers who had opposed self-sealing tanks—Gen. Barney Giles—and later in the day Col. Laux, the man who dared correct a bad Army blunder, found himself flying to Nome, Alaska, with no orders other than to sit there for the war's duration.

If Secretary for Air Symington really wants to clean up brass—hat blunders he might call Colonel Laux to get the full story. If not, the rest of the story will be told in this column shortly.

Undue Expansion And Undue Misuse Of Credit Explosive

By MARK SULLIVAN

In Congress, three committees are dealing with President Truman's proposals for checking inflation and high prices. Before one or another of the committees appeared last week the country's top two fiscal authorities, Secretary of the Treasury, John W. Snyder and Chairman of the Federal Reserve Board, Marriner S. Eccles. Both stated important views, in most cases agreeing. Upon one point the two did not coincide last week, though the difference between them is only partial: it can be reconciled and one gathers that it will be.

This point was made by Mr. Eccles and it goes deep to the heart of the problem. Throughout, Mr. Eccles made a distinction between proposals of President Truman and others. He said that some proposals are "curbs rather than cures," and deal with "effects rather than causes." Definitely going deep into cause and cure is the proposal by Mr. Eccles. Stated briefly, it would limit the amount of credit banks may extend.

Quantity of Credit Enormous

The quantity of credit already existing is enormous. Just what the quantity is cannot be stated exactly. There is a partial index of it in one familiar statistic, namely the quantity of demand deposits and money in banks. This has multiplied three times during the past eight years. The figures are: In 1939, 33 billions; today, 105 billions.

This immense quantity of credit is in existing conditions, unwholesome. It is a chief cause of the inflation that already exists, and unless the increase is checked, will be a cause of more, calamitously more.

Understanding of credit as a cause of inflation begins with recognizing that credit is the equivalent of money. The act of creating credit is in effect an act of creating money. On this point I quote from a book by Mr. Edgar M. Queeny, which he calls "The Spirit of Enterprise." It is appropriate to say that Mr. Queeny is a thorough scholar, who brings high intelligence to discussion of the economic system of free enterprise which he defends, and is by vocation a businessman in the top level of American industry, head of the Monsanta Chemical Company:

"If John Smith, businessman, for instance, requires one hundred thousand dollars for his business, he borrows this sum from a bank in exchange for his company's note. The bank, in turn, credits John Smith's account with one hundred thousand dollars. The bank has, in effect, created one hundred thousand dollars."

The credit transactions which in effect create money are by no means limited to the large amounts Mr. Queeny mentions as an example, nor to transactions that take place between banks and businessmen. Credit is created, and hence in effect money created, by millions of other transactions. These include installment selling contracts, in which a customer in effect gets credit for amounts as small as twenty or thirty dollars. Limitation on this form of credit is included in the proposals before Congress. So is limitation on the use of credit in speculative transactions. Mr. Eccles would comprehensively limit the amount of credit banks may extend.

Credit Cause Of Inflation

Recognition that credit is a form of money and that increase of credit is, in the present condition, a cause of inflation, calls upon Congress, as it moves to check inflation, for entry into an extremely complex field of thought. On this point I quote a book written by Mr. Garet Garrett soon after the boom and collapse of the 1920's called, most appropriately, "The Bubble that Broke the World."

"In all the discoveries and inventions by which we live and die this totally [illegible] is . . . the least comprehended and, except high explosives, the most dangerous. All the bankers themselves really know about it is how it works from day to day Beyond that it is a gift from Pandora . . Modern credit, as we know it, or think we know it, is a new and amazing power, still evolving, still untamed. Men have been much more anxious to release the power of credit, to employ it and exploit it, than to control it or even to understand it."

In the economic cycle we are now at a stage roughly comparable to about 1926-7. It is a stage calling with the utmost urgency for recognition that credit, while normally beneficent, can by undue expansion and misuse become an explosive

By DAVID LAWRENCE

WASHINGTON, Dec. 1—Politically speaking, there isn't a shred of support in Congress for any overall controls of the national economy.

Inside both parties, there is genuine opposition to anything that even remotely resembles the OPA.

Yet some form of control is likely to be voted in order to determine how much goods shall be allocated for export under the Marshall Plan and how much shall be allocated for distribution inside the United States.

The real question is how such controls, even though sharply limited, are to be administered.

The Administration, recognizing possible opposition to an over-all agency like the OPA, has centered its attention on a formula whereby each governmental department would handle the problems directly related to its normal functions.

Presumably, the Department of Commerce would have most to do with industrial or production allocations. The big question is how the present staff of the Department of Commerce or any other department is going to be able to survey the distribution processes in any given industry and come up with a scheme that will not be arbitrary and that will not actually operate to retard production.

Operation of Economic System

Inasmuch as the American economic system operates under incentives that are related to price and to possible profit and possible loss, government officials are reluctant to order certain things to be done which could conceivably result in financial damage to particular units of an industry and in unemployment.

During a period of high-level employment and great demands for goods, it is easy enough to say that an arbitrary amount shall be allocated for export and that the rest can be distributed internally. But sharp fluctuations in employment may be expected if needed materials are withheld and bottlenecks develop that cause the closing down of factories.

There is every evidence that the Truman Administration is well aware of the complexity of the whole problem and does not want to allow itself to get into the position where political blame can be attached to it for any maladjustments that may emerge out of a system of controls.

Hence, whether it is palatable or not, the only answer that has come up thus far which appears to have any chance of adoption is one that calls for a maximum of cooperation between industry and government. This is the best assurance against regimentation or totalitarian edicts which so many opponents of a system of controls frequently cite as its worst implication.

If some scheme can be worked out that will enable each industry to have a considerable voice in methods used in allocations, subject of course to approval by the government as the representative of the public interest, a brake on the inflationary trend may possibly be exerted. Indeed, if at the end of a year or so of government and industry collaboration the plan does work well, an extension through the critical years that lie ahead becomes a possibility.

Unfortunately, as has happened so often in American history, an economic crisis coincides with a presidential election campaign. It may well be that all controls and Marshall Plan measures may become "stopgap" until the American people make up their minds to which political party they wish to entrust power.

If, on the other hand, the Truman Administration is able to develop a constructive program to which industrialists and labor leaders will give their assent—as it is desirable that both groups be invited to participate in discussion of any over-all plan—the European situation will not become involved in the domestic political campaign. At present, it does look, however, as if the real debate on the method of control will not come until January or February and until that question is resolved the long-range scope of the Marshall Plan itself will not be known.

These Days

By GEORGE E. SOKOLSKY

Where Does It Come From?

MONEY, it has been said, does not grow on trees. Of course if you are raising apples or oranges, it does. That is the trouble with most generalizations; they are only true as long as they happen not to be untrue from a particular point of view.

It is like that process called "common sense." Whose common sense yours or mine? Lecompte du Nouy, in his magnificent study of fallacy, "Human Destiny", has this to say of common sense:

"...Common sense cannot be trusted. It is common sense that leads us to think that the earth is flat; that two plumb lines are parallel (they are both directed toward the center of the earth and consequently form an angle) . . ."

He adds:

"If, therefore, the starting point, the premise, of a reasoning is false, the conclusion will, necessarily, logically, be false."

The particular fallacy to which we address ourselves now is the world-wide general assumption that the United States is so rich that it can pour out its wealth in endless profligacy and not go broke. The war cost us about $300,000,000,000. And we have been spending like madmen since the war's end. For instance, about $20,000,000,000 has gone into Europe and Asia and there is little to show for it.

We spend with equal profligacy at home. The President makes a terrific holler about high prices, but the Government keeps basic agricultural prices high by subsidies and government-buying. Is it a case of the left eye refusing to see what the right eye sees or is the mouth being more speedy than the hand? Put it whichever way you like, this country spent $13,600,000,000 on farm subsidies between 1934 and 1946 and that amount will rise to $15,200,000,000 by next July.

True, if you are a farmer, you want subsidies. If you are a Senator or a Representative from a farm state, you will shriek for farm subsidies while, at the same time, you will demand that the price of manufactured goods come down. And all the time you will know that you are a false prophet and a demagogue because that cost of food (often as a labor cost) goes into manufactured goods which runs about 85 per cent labor costs. Therefore, when you demand subsidies for farm products, you ipso facto demand high prices for manufactured goods. Of course, deny that on the general fallacy of common sense, but the figures do not uphold that kind of common sense. They simply uphold the fact that someone is exceedingly common in the use of his senses.

The same is true of the foreign aid called the Marshall Plan. In Europe, they call it ERP, meaning the European Relief Plan. Whether it is called the Marshall Plan or ERP, it comes to the same thing, about $20,000,000,000. Maybe we have to do that, too. Maybe there is no way out. But let us be absolutely honest about it. If we send $20,000,000,000 out of the country for relief, we shall have to have scarcity here and high prices. That is certain.

So, the appeal ought to be on that basis, because whatever is sent out of the country cannot remain in it. We already suffer scarcity because of the backlog from the war years. If goods must become more scarce and prices must become higher, What is the use of shouting about power prices as a part of a $20,000,000,000 export program. The two are incongruous. They do not add up.

Instead we should be told the truth, which is that it is the judgment of our government and Senator Vandenberg that it is essential for political purposes that certain countries be subsidized by the United States in order to counteract Russian policies in those countries.

To achieve that political end, it is necessary for the American people to tax themselves twice; once by actually paying high taxes to the government; and the second time, by paying higher prices for the goods they buy and for the things they need and use. That is the truthful statement of the case, but the politicos garb it in fulsome language.

Today's Talk

Success Easier Than Failure

Many years ago, my friend E. W. Howe, the late famous editor of the Atchinson Globe and author of many books, once sent me a little booklet with his essay, entitled "Success is Easier than Failure." And he marked a passage that I here quote:

"Success in life is actually easier than failure. If civilization is more desirable than savagery, this must be true. Good conduct should never have been taught for any other reason that that it is easier than bad."

There are those who try to take short-cuts to success, but usually they fail miserably and then blame everyone but themselves. It is not only easier, but more profitable to live a clean life, and a useful one, than to choose the opposite. It has been proven so time and time again. The foundation of all success rests upon character.

Law abiding people are respected, whereas the violator hurts himself and society at large. He who disregards all law helps to remove the very props that assure him honest security, and the security of his fellow man. We are not only our own keeper but our brother's as well. Civilization cannot endure on any other basis. We live happily only as a co-operative whole.

Decency is a stimulus, and an example in addition, to an entire community. And the successful man, or woman, stands out. Every one is an uplift to all with whom one comes in contact. The better we live and behave, the happier we are and the more successful. And I don't mean mere money success, but useful success—a good example wherever we are and in all that we do.

Common sense is a great consultant! Those who take it as a guide go far. Too many people dodge the obvious in their decisions. My friend, Robert, Updegraff, once wrote an inspiring little book, which he called "Obvious Adams" (no connection with the writer of this talk) and he showed how a chap in a concern inspired his firm to move ahead by doing the obvious thing, rather than wasting time on useless starts.

No matter what your objective may be, if you apply yourself, and put your heart into it, you can, and will succeed. It is so much easier to do so than to fail!

PITCHING HORSESHOES

by Billy Rose

Don't try to phone me tomorrow night. I won't be in. I'll be at the Barrymore Theatre seeing the opening of Tennessee Williams' new play, "A Streetcar Named Desire." And I'll be rootin' for it to be a hit.

Billy Rose

Why? Do I own a piece of it? No. Am I stuck on one of the girls in the show? I don't even know who's in the cast. Then why have I appointed myself a one-man cheering section?

Not so fast, mister. I've got a column to fill and you'll have to let me tell it my way.

When the curtain goes up tomorrow night at the Barrymore, I'll be seeing two shows—one onstage and one off. The offstage drama concerns itself with a gal named Irene Selznick, the producer of Mr. Williams' new play.

Irene Selznick? Who dat? Well, I guess you've never worked in Hollywood. If you had, you'd know that Irene is the daughter of the man who put the final "M" in M-G-M—Louis B. Mayer. Mention L. B.'s name on the West Coast, and everybody kneels in the direction of Mecca.. For years, his take-home money as head of the Metro studios has been something like a million per. Everybody would like a smile from Hedy Lamarr. Hedy is happy when she gets a smile from Mr. Mayer.

That's Irene's pop, and it's my hunch her childhood must have been something like living in the shadow of Popocatepetl (big mountain in Mexico, you mug).

When Irene got to be a big girl, she married David O. Selznick. It must have been quite a wedding—Irene, daughter of the Biggest Man in Hollywood, was being hitched to David, the Biggest Man in Hollywood. I don't know what the home life of the royal couple was like, but during the years when David was producing such till-filling tidbits as "Gone With the Wind," I imagine it was considered obscene around their house to mention any number under seven figures. Again our heroine was getting the Popocatepetl treatment.

And then a couple of years ago something happened. Irene left David and moved to New York. Last Winter I ran into her at this and that party, and she shaped up like a nice gal. She seemed interested in the theatre and asked a lot of questions. I got the feeling this babe wasn't going to sit around Manhattan crying over spilt champagne.

This Spring, Irene produced a show. It wasn't much of a show. After an out-of-town tryout, she closed it. That didn't prove her to be a good producer, but it did show she wasn't a bad producer. Learning when to close is as important as knowing when to open.

During the next few months, Miss Selznick burned the midnight fluorescents and read a lot of scripts. Then she announced she was going to produce the new Tennessee Williams play. Williams had won the Critics' Award for "The Glass Menagerie" and I knew a lot of producers were after his new show. It figured that Irene must have impressed "Tennessee" with something besides her checkbook.

A couple of weeks later, I read that Irene had signed Elia Kazan to direct the play. I did a double when I saw this item. Kazan is one of the major talents on the Broadway-Vine Street shuttle. I know Elia well enough to know you can't hire him with money. He has to be excited about the show and the setup.

And so, tomorrow night a girl who has been overshadowed all her life is going to try to throw a shadow of her own. And she is going to try it in the toughest end of the entertainment business—the legit theatre. That's the backstage story that's going to be rattling around in my head when the lights dim at the Barrymore. Somewhere in the back of the theatre, Miss Selznick will be chewing her nails. Somewhere down front, her celebrated pop will be crossing his fingers and hoping his kid gives a good account of herself. Somewhere on the West Coast, the great David figures to be near a telephone. It's my guess he'll be plenty curious to learn how the missus made out.

The whole production of "Streetcar" won't have cost as much as one of his sets in "Gone With the Wind." There will be no one in the cast who can draw ten customers a night. Nothing will be riding but talent and know-how. Out front will be the regular assortment of first night sourpusses and professional runners-down. Irene will be rolling square dice—no Clark Gables or million-dollar advertising campaigns, no buffalo stampedes or bang-up earthquakes. And she'll have to hit her dice up against a brick wall—the New York dramatic critics.

Knowing the play behind the play, I'll be rootin' for this tinseled tot to roll a seven.

PITCHING HORSESHOES

by Billy Rose

Don't try to phone me tomorrow night. I won't be in. I'll be at the Barrymore Theatre seeing the opening of Tennessee Williams' new play, "A Streetcar Named Desire." And I'll be rootin' for it to be a hit.

Billy Rose

Why? Do I own a piece of it? No. Am I stuck on one of the girls in the show? I don't even know who's in the cast. Then why have I appointed myself a one-man cheering section?

Not so fast, mister. I've got a column to fill and you'll have to let me tell it my way.

When the curtain goes up tomorrow night at the Barrymore, I'll be seeing two shows—one onstage and one off. The offstage drama concerns itself with a gal named Irene Selznick, the producer of Mr. Williams' new play.

Irene Selznick? Who dat? Well, I guess you've never worked in Hollywood. If you had, you'd know that Irene is the daughter of the man who put the final "M" in M-G-M—Louis B. Mayer. Mention L. B.'s name on the West Coast, and everybody kneels in the direction of Mecca.. For years, his take-home money as head of the Metro studios has been something like a million per. Everybody would like a smile from Hedy Lamarr. Hedy is happy when she gets a smile from Mr. Mayer.

That's Irene's pop, and it's my hunch her childhood must have been something like living in the shadow of Popocatepetl (big mountain in Mexico, you mug).

When Irene got to be a big girl, she married David O. Selznick. It must have been quite a wedding — Irene, daughter of the Biggest Man in Hollywood, was being hitched to David, the Biggest Man in Hollywood. I don't know what the home life of the royal couple was like, but during the years when David was producing such till-filling tidbits as "Gone With the Wind," I imagine it was considered obscene around their house to mention any number under seven figures. Again our heroine was getting the Popocatepetl treatment.

And then a couple of years ago something happened. Irene left David and moved to New York. Last Winter I ran into her at this and that party, and she shaped up like a nice gal. She seemed interested in the theatre and asked a lot of questions. I got the feeling this babe wasn't going to sit around Manhattan crying over spilt champagne.

Carolers To Greet B & O Christmas Travelers Here

Local CTP To Sponsor Annual Caroling

Continuing the tradition of the Queen City of the Alleganies and the Baltimore and Ohio Railroad playing important joint roles, since the latter reached Cumberland, November 5, 1842, the local Co-operative Traffic Program of the Baltimore and Ohio, will again sponsor it's annual Christmas caroling at the Queen City Station, and be the only CTP of the system greeting holiday travelers on the Baltimore and Ohio.

The program will be presented entirely by young people from the various schools, singing each night from December 18 to the 24th inclusive. The carols will begin at 8:30 in the station, with the singers introduced over the public address system, and the carolers will meet the Capitol Limited and each train thereafter until about 10 o'clock.

Decorations at the Queen City station, under the direction of Charles Wheeler, chairman of the Men's CTP, will include a huge Christmas tree, wreaths and lights. Program arrangements have been made by Mrs. Mary Conn, secretary of the Women's CTP.

St. Mary's Glee Club, directed by Rev. Joseph A. Graciani, will open the program of caroling, December 18. The group consists of 60 girls accompanied on their own portable organ and accordion.

Fort Hill High School Glee Club of approximately 50 young people, will sing December 19, with Miss Annetta Yates directing.

Ursuline Academy Girls, directed by Sister Cyprian will sing the carols, December 20. There are 80 members in this group.

Catholic Girls Central High School, with 85 members, will sing under the direction of Sister Mary Aquinette, December 21. This group of girls is accompanied in all activities by Sister Superior, Sister Mary Julia and Sister Marie, principal.

Miss Dorothy Willison will present the Junior and Senior Glee Clubs of Allegany High School, December 22 and 23. These groups have approximately 65 boys and girls in them.

On Christmas Eve, Carver High School will present a group of 45 pupils, directed by Aden Lewis. They will be accompanied by Earl Bracy, principal, and Mrs. Bracy.

Local CTP To Sponsor Annual Caroling

Continuing the tradition of the Queen City of the Alleganies and the Baltimore and Ohio Railroad playing important joint roles, since the latter reached Cumberland, November 5, 1842, the local Co-operative Traffic Program of the Baltimore and Ohio, will again sponsor it's annual Christmas caroling at the Queen City Station, and be the only CTP of the system greeting holiday travelers on the Baltimore and Ohio.

The program will be presented entirely by young people from the various schools, singing each night from December 18 to the 24th inclusive. The carols will begin at 8:30 in the station, with the singers introduced over the public address system, and the carolers will meet the Capitol Limited and each train thereafter until about 10 o'clock.

Program arrangements have been made by Mrs. Mary Conn, secretary of the Women's CTP.

St. Mary's Glee Club, directed by Rev. Joseph A. Graciani, will open the program of caroling, December 18. The group consists of 60 girls accompanied on their own portable organ and accordion.

Fort Hill High School Glee Club of approximately 50 young people, will sing December 19, with Miss Annetta Yates directing.

Ursuline Academy Girls, directed by Sister Cyprian will sing the carols, December 20. There are 80 members in this group.

Catholic Girls Central High School, with 85 members, will sing under the direction of Sister Mary Aquinette, December 21. This group of girls is accompanied in all activities by Sister Superior, Sister Mary Julia and Sister Marie, principal.

Miss Dorothy Willison will present the Junior and Senior Glee Clubs of Allegany High School, December 22 and 23. These groups have approximately 65 boys and girls in them.

On Christmas Eve, Carver High School will present a group of 45 pupils, directed by Aden Lewis. They will be accompanied by Earl Bracy, principal, and Mrs. Bracy.

Analysis Shows B. And O. Trends To Be Favorable

An analysis of the Baltimore and Ohio Railroad shows favorable trends in tonnage, earnings and growth prospects as well as efficiency of operations.

Among the Eastern trunk lines, Baltimore and Ohio compares favorably in the trend of its own revenues since 1929, according to the analysis, made by Kidder, Peabody and Company. Its proportion of operating revenues to those of all Class I roads increased about eight per cent, whereas the other three Eastern trunk lines lost ground in this relation.

B. and O. also showed the largest gain in originated coal traffic of any of the six leading bituminous coal roads in the 1936-45 period according to the analysis, and its increase since 1936 was computed at 80 per cent.

Development of the Gauley-Sewell coal district in West Virginia was made possible by extensive additions and betterments to B. and O. lines having exclusive access to that area, the report stated.

Of the four Eastern trunk lines, B. and O. has the most favorable transportation ratio and it has carried the largest percentage of revenues to net railway operating income from 1937 to 1946.

As a result of its debt adjustment program now completed, the B. and O. reduced annual fixed charges from around $31,500,000 a year to around $18,600,000 exclusive of about $7,870,000 contingent interest.

On a pro-forma basis the firm noted that 1937-46 average earnings covered B. and O. fixed charges 2.30 times as compared with 1.77 times for Pennsylvania Railroad and 1.51 times for New York Central.

It was noted that Baltimore and Ohio is primarily a freight service railroad and that its passenger service is relatively less important than that of its larger competitors.

Dear Miss Fairfax:

I am a young fellow of 26. I am steadily employed and always have been. I dress well at all times. I like all types of sports, movies, stage shows, and a variety of other things.

But I can't seem to get acquainted with any nice young women of my own age, and I so much want to do so as I am very lonely and don't like to go out alone. Could you possibly give me any ideas as to what steps I could take to make friends, such as clubs, etc. Ordinarily I would not write to a stranger about a question like this, but I am at a point now where I need some good advice, as I'm just about at my wit's end.

Dear "Disgusted":

Do you know what is going to happen when readers of this column see your letter? I'll tell you. I'm going to get a barrage of letters from girls who want to meet you. And I am going to have to tell these girls that I do not believe in introducing people through the mails.

I mention this in order to show you that there are a great many nice girls in every community who are eager to meet young men of your type, so that it really shouldn't be hard for you to find congenial companions of the other sex. You ask about clubs where you might meet such companions. If you are interested in some sort of hobby, such as photography, stamp collecting, or the like, there are many clubs from which you might select one to join. If you haven't already a hobby, why not take one up and join a group engaged in that activity? NEW YORK, Dec. 1—(INS)—Sideglances at celebrities:

Princess Elizabeth remains "heiress presumptive," not the "heiress apparent." Fine distinction, and it's all bound up with a British law of noble succession which Americans will find difficult to understand.

If George VI died today—which, heaven forbid—Elizabeth would be proclaimed queen. But the actual coronation would not take place for 11 months, due to the ancient law which takes into account the possibility of an 11-month period of gestation for a male heir of the king. Happened once in the case of a lesser noble.

Victoria, the last ruling British queen, was proclaimed queen upon the death of her uncle, William IV, but the proclamation contained the proviso that in the event a son, or daughter, was born to Queen Adelaide, she (Victoria) would forthwith forfeit her rights to the throne.

In Elizabeth's case, the birth of a son to her mother, in the event of King George's death, would deprive her of her realm and good-looking Philip of his role as consort.

Adolf Hitler's dental plate was reportedly found in the bunker at the chancellery in Berlin recently—according to a widespread whispered report—but the British say that that's not possible.

"As you know, we have made a very thorough search of the ground in the bunker were Hitler was cremated,' 'a cool voice at the British Information Service told us. "So have many others. It is not possible that such a device could have been found at this late date. He is dead."

Suits us.

Anthony P. Cima, New York author, has embarked upon the most ambitious literary program of the century. He proposes to collect and edit a 72-volume treatise entitled "The Fathers of the Church."

It has taken Mr. Cima four years to turn out the first two volumes, but it does not necessarily follow that he will need 140 years to produce the 70 remaining books. Number Three is due December 10 and No. 4 will come along at the end of December.

It is a tremendous undertaking, and one that has had as much acclamation from Protestants and Jews as Catholics. It is, also, mainly a labor of love. Cima has devoted his life and his inadequate funds to this work, "one of the notable events of the century," a Congregational minister, Rev. Richard K. Morton, has said.

He is working currently on more than 60 of the 72 volumes, compiled in the main by a host of Catholic scholars. It will "take its rank with the most important religious scholarship of our time," the "Christian Advocate," official Methodist organ, asserts.

Powel Crosley, builder of the Crosley automobile, radios, refrigerators and other devices, including, he hopes, a pennant for the Cincinnati Reds, is one of the reasons why youngsters should never lose faith in the opportunities which abound in America.

Crosley was a low-paid worker who entered the radio industry as casually as all get-out. In the course of building a crystal set for his kids he decided radio was a good field, so he entered it and, since, has manufactured some untold millions of radios.

His ball club, the Reds, have a history without compare in baseball. The Reds remain one of the true civic fixtures left in the game. If you don't believe that, you should have read a neat little announcement sent out by the club the other day, stating that all the tickets to opening game—next April—already have been sold.

Harold Stassen, the Republican presidential candidate, could have won in a walk if it were left up to the people who swarmed around him recently when he appeared at the two St. Paul bookstores promising to autograph copies of his "Where I Stand," a blunt recital of his beliefs.

He set a new intersectional literary record for autographing copies of a book. In a comparatively short day he signed 4,000 copies, with appropriate salutations to friends. Try it sometime, if you doubt that it's a physical feat.

NEW YORK, Dec. 1—(INS)—Sideglances at celebrities:

Princess Elizabeth remains "heiress presumptive," not the "heiress apparent." Fine distinction, and it's all bound up with a British law of noble succession which Americans will find difficult to understand.

If George VI died today—which, heaven forbid—Elizabeth would be proclaimed queen. But the actual coronation would not take place for 11 months, due to the ancient law which takes into account the possibility of an 11-month period of gestation for a male heir of the king. Happened once in the case of a lesser noble.

Victoria, the last ruling British queen, was proclaimed queen upon the death of her uncle, William IV, but the proclamation contained the proviso that in the event a son, or daughter, was born to Queen Adelaide, she (Victoria) would forthwith forfeit her rights to the throne.

In Elizabeth's case, the birth of a son to her mother, in the event of King George's death, would deprive her of her realm and good-looking Philip of his role as consort.

Adolf Hitler's dental plate was reportedly found in the bunker at the chancellery in Berlin recently—according to a widespread whispered report—but the British say that that's not possible.

"As you know, we have made a very thorough search of the ground in the bunker were Hitler was cremated,' 'a cool voice at the British Information Service told us. "So have many others. It is not possible that such a device could have been found at this late date. He is dead."

Suits us.

Anthony P. Cima, New York author, has embarked upon the most ambitious literary program of the century. He proposes to collect and edit a 72-volume treatise entitled "The Fathers of the Church."

It has taken Mr. Cima four years to turn out the first two volumes, but it does not necessarily follow that he will need 140 years to produce the 70 remaining books. Number Three is due December 10 and No. 4 will come along at the end of December.

It is a tremendous undertaking, and one that has had as much acclamation from Protestants and Jews as Catholics. It is, also, mainly a labor of love. Cima has devoted his life and his inadequate funds to this work, "one of the notable events of the century," a Congregational minister, Rev. Richard K. Morton, has said.

He is working currently on more than 60 of the 72 volumes, compiled in the main by a host of Catholic scholars. It will "take its rank with he|most important religious scholarship of our time," the "Christian Advocate," official Methodist organ, asserts.

Powel Crosley, builder of the Crosley automobile, radios, refrigerators and other devices, including, he hopes, a pennant for the Cincinnati Reds, is one of the reasons why youngsters should never lose faith in the opportunities which abound in America.

Crosley was a low-paid worker who entered the radio industry as casually as all get-out. In the course of building a crystal set for his kids he decided radio was a good field, so he entered it and, since, has manufactured some untold millions of radios.

His ball club, the Reds, have a history without compare in baseball. The Reds remain one of the true civic fixtures left in the game. If you don't believe that, you should have read a neat little announcement sent out by the club the other day, stating that all the tickets to opening game—next April—already have been sold.

Harold Stassen, the Republican presidential candidate, could have won in a walk if it were left up to the people who swarmed around him recently when he appeared at the two St. Paul bookstores promising to autograph copies of his "Where I Stand," a blunt recital of his beliefs.

He set a new intersectional literary record for autographing copies of a book. In a comparatively short day he signed 4,000 copies, with appropriate salutations to friends. Try it sometime, if you doubt that it's a physical feat.

Allegany's Deer Kill Is Record For Single Day

The Sports Grill

By PAT ROBINSON
INTERNATIONAL NEWS SERVICE SPORTS WRITER

NEW YORK, Dec. 1 (INS)—You can have your rose, sugar, orange, cotton, salt and all other kinds of bowl games, and I'll take the 23rd annual East-West Shrine game in San Francisco.

We have nothing against any of those other bowl games. In fact, we wish them all well. But they don't mean a thing to us whereas we are intensely interested in the welfare of the Shrine game.

The reason is simple—it's the only game that really means anything to anybody except a few football nuts.

And what a charity—crippled children of the poor.

We wish everybody in the United States could go with Bill Coffman, who has been staging these games all these years, when he takes the football players on a visit to the children in the Shriners' Hospital for Crippled Children in San Francisco.

Invariably these big husky football stars look on these poor kids with wondering pity. Then shyly one by one you are likely to see some big lug who takes great delight in rocking and socking, sit down on the edge of a youngster's bed.

Then you'll see him put his arm around the youngster and maybe take the kid on his lap. And then if you watch closely you'll see those big fellows wiping a furtive tear away.

That's why we say this is the finest game in the country.

In the past the game has turned over to the Shriners' hospitals a total of $1,017,000.

The proceeds from this game make the San Francisco hospital self-supporting so that it does not have to draw on the Shriners' national fund. Therefore, the money that would ordinarily be taken from the general fund for San Francisco is split up among the other hospitals for crippled youngsters.

The game is staged in Kezar Stadium which holds 62,000 and you will not be surprised to learn that it was sold out last July for New Year's Day.

Coffman says the only solution is a bigger and better stadium and knowing San Franciscans we feel sure he'll have it.

The game will draw $190,000 and the net will run around $106,000. Taxes take $35,000 off the $190,000 and the expense of bringing the players from their homes, etc. eat up the balance.

What do the players get out of it? A little wrist watch as a memento. That's all. And what does anybody else except the kids get? Not a thin dime. Those crippled youngsters get it all.

Louis Respects Walcott Punch

Jersey Joe Confident He Can Whip Champion

BY GALE TALBOT

POMPTON LAKES, N. J., Dec. 1 (AP)—Although it is not obvious to the naked eye, heavyweight champion Joe Louis concedes that he is easier to hit than he was 10 years ago—doesn't seem to be able to slip a punch quite the way he did in his youth.

"I think I hit as hard as when I won the title 10 years ago from Jim Braddock," he said today, "but I think I have slowed down in blocking punches. I get hit now with punches I used to be able to get away from."

Joe brought up the point in discussing the hitting prowess of Jersey Joe Walcott, the slightly shopworn negro challenger whom he meets in the 24th defense of his title riday nighrt at the Garden. What Louis had to say of his opponent was about the nicest thing he has uttered to date about the father of six children.

"I regard Jersey Joe as a dangerous puncher," he said without a trace of a smile. "You got to have respect in that ring for any man who can punch. I don't think he's as good a boxer as Billy Conn and Tommy Farr were, but they couldn't hit me the way he does, either.

"You got to be on the lookout with him. I've seen him fight a couple of times and he sneaks those punches in pretty good."

Both men relaxed today except for the usual road work. The champion plans to box four rounds tomorroy and wind it up with four more on Wednesday.

Walcott, training at Grenloch, N. J., will complete his boxing tomorrow and plans no more than light exercising behind closed doors on Wednesday and Thursday. His handlers say he is in top shape and confident of victory.

"I predict he will turn the trick by a knockout," burbled Joe Webster, Jersey Joe's manager, today.

New York Yanks Reported Angling For Nats' Hurler

Walter Masterson And Wynn Mentioned

By JACK HAND

MIAMI, Fla., Dec. 1 (AP) — Trade winds kept the baseball lobby buzzing with rumors about a bid deal by the New York Yankees today but no concrete action resulted from the winter meeting speculation.

Persistent reports had pitcher Walter Masterson or Early Wynn of the Washington Senators headed for the Yankee Stadium in a major swap still in the tentative stage.

Manager Bucky Harris of the world champions would admit nothing beyond a statement that a deal for a pitcher quite likely would be made. If such a transaction is completed the Yanks plan to hold up the announcement for the major league meetings next year at New York.

Last march the Yanks were hot for a deal with Washington for first baseman Mickey Vernon. Although they reportedly offered catcher Aaron Robinson, outfielder Johnny Lindell and others at the time, owner Clark Griffith of the Sens turned them down cold.

The Yankees weren't the only club trying to stir up business. Although this is a minor league convention, it is largely a meeting of the majors and their farm connection. Even more important than technical changes in the intricate baseball law, is the desire of each club to improve its roster for next season.

Bill Veeck, president of the Cleveland Indians, blew into town and went into a huddle with Bill DeWitt, head of the St. Louis Browns who said yesterday he would deal outfielder Jeff Heath and all men over 28, except pitcher Nelson Potter.

Veeck came out of the short conference without biting at the Browns' bait. He already had acquired pitcher Bob Muncrief and Wally Judnich from the St. Louis club two weeks ago.

Lujack Is Winner Of Heisman Trophy

Notre Dame's Star Receives 742 Votes

NEW YORK, Dec. 1 (INS)—Johnny Lujack, All-American Notre Dame quarterback, emerged today as the winner of the Heisman Trophy, awarded annually by the Downtown Athletic Club to the "outstanding college football player in the United States."

The award is based on voting of the nation's sports writers and broadcasters. Presentation will be made at the club Dec. 10.

Lujack, with 742 votes, won easily. Bob Chappuis, Michigan halfback, was second with 555 votes. Doak Walker, of Southern Methodist, was third, followed by Charley Conerly, Mississippi; Harry Gilmer, Alabama; Bobby Layne, Texas; Charley Bednarik, Pennsylvania; and Bill Swiacki, Columbia.

Except for Bednarik, who is a center, and Swiacki, who is an end, all these players are backs.

In the voting by sections, Lujack topped the balloting in the east, south and far west. Chappuis led in the mid-west; and Walker in the Southwest.

The first four players in the balloting — Lujack, Chappuis, Walker and Conerly — comprised the first team backfield of the International News Service 1947 All-America team announced Sunday.

Winter Racing Season Hits Snag In Florida

Horsemen's Strike Closes Gulfstream

By JAMES F. FOWLER

MIAMI, Fla., Dec. 1 (AP)—Florida's prospective glittering winter racing season opened on a gloomy note today, when a strike of horsemen demanding an increase in minimum purses forced Gulfstream Park to announce that there would be no racing tomorrow and the track would remain closed until an agreement is reached.

The feud between horsemen and Gulfstream's management opened Sunday when some 200 horse owners voted to demand that minimum purses for the 40-day meeting be upped from $2,000 to $2,500 and minimum daily purses—exclusive of stake events — be not less than $22,000.

Today, after Gulfstream president James Donn announced that the track rejected the demand, the feud broke out into a bitter name-calling affray in which horsemen accused Donn of "long history of unsatisfactory relations" and Donn branding the accusation as "absolutely false."

Following a day long series of meetings, Donn announced at the close of the eight-race program that "Gulfstream will not open tomorrow."

"Barring any last minute settlement—and I can't see any in view—the track will close tomorrow and will remain closed until we can come to terms."

The day's racing, however, went off without a hitch. Few of the 13,642 people who attended the colorful winter season racing debut realized the tense drama being enacted behind the scenes.

Woolford Farm Stable's veteran campaigner, Delegate, won the $7,500 Inaugural Handicap over a field of 11 in the six-furlong feature event. H. A. Dabson's Nance's Ace was second and S. D. Sidell's Iodine, third. The winner returned $15.90, $3.60 and $6.70 for a $2 investment.

Maryland Eleven To Play Georgia At Jacksonville

Teams To Clash Jan. 1 In 'Gator Bowl Game

JACKSONVILLE, Fla., Dec. 1 (AP)—Maryland of the Southern Conference and Georgia of the Southeastern Conference were named today as the foes in the third annual Gator Bowl football game here Jan. 1.

It will be the first appearance for both teams in the New Year's Day game here and the first bowl engagement for the Maryland Terrapins. The Georgia Bulldogs have made four bowl appearances, once each in the Rose, Sugar, Orange and Oil, and won all four.

Although Maryland is new in the bowl business, its Coach Jim Tatum is not. He brought the Oklahoma Sooners here last New Year's Day for a 34-13 victory over North Carolina State. Tatum also coached the Jacksonville Naval Air Station eleven during the war years.

Georgia won seven games while losing four this season. Maryland also won seven, tied one and lost two. Neither is a champion in its conference, the Bulldogs splitting even in six Southeastern games and the Terrapins winning three, tying one and losing two.

At College Park, Md., Tatum today said the Maryland team will hold practice sessions Wednesday and Friday and get back to heavy daily workouts next week. The players will spend Christmas at home and leave for Jacksonville Dec. 26.

Forty-Six Bucks Reported Slain On Opening Day

31 Fall In Washington; 124 Bagged In Garrett

An all-time record for a single day's deer kill was established in Allegany county yesterday when a total of 46 bucks fell before hunters' guns as the six-day season got under way.

This total was reported by five checking stations—four in Allegany county and one in Washington county—at 7 p. m., the closing hour.

Joseph A. Minke reported that prior to last year the record for a six-day season in this county was 48. Yesterday's kill was two short of the one-time six-day mark. The new record hung up for Allegany in 1946 was 85.

The largest number of Allegany county kills were checked at Lewis' Store, Oldtown, by John T. Shewbridge, district warden, who is serving his 18th year. Seventeen were checked there.

Graydon "Swede" Dunlap, deputy game warden, reported 15 were checked at Shipway's Inn at Green Ridge, while the Maryland State Police sub-station, LaVale, checked a total of 18, six of which were bagged in Garrett county. Burza Hanlin, chief of police at Westernport, said six deer, all Garrett county kills, were checked at police headquarters in Westernport. All were bagged by Allegany countians.

A new high for a single day also was established in Washington county where 31 deer were killed yesterday. Last year only six were killed on opening day. A total of 33 bucks were checked at Powers' Service Station in Hancock, two of the animals having been killed in Allegany county.

Garrett Kills Total 124

Up to 6 p. m. yesterday, 124 kills were reported in Garrett county. The reports came from five Garrett checking stations and LaVale and Westernport. Oakland checked 38, Grantsville 30, Deep Creek 25, Swanton 16, Friendsville 3, Westernport 6 and LaVale 6. Garrett's six-day record is 517, established in 1946.

The high mark for Washington county is 44.

Twenty-eight deer were reported felled in Frederick county and 30 in Worcester county on opening day.

Two illegal kills were recorded in Garrett county and one in Allegany. Two Baltimoreans, charged with shooting rabbits during the closed season, were arrested yesterday by game wardens, Regional Warden Minke announced. Collateral was posted pending a hearing.

Allegany's Deer Kill Is Record For Single Day

The Sports Grill

By PAT ROBINSON
INTERNATIONAL NEWS SERVICE SPORTS WRITER

NEW YORK, Dec. 1 (INS)—You can have your rose, sugar, orange, cotton, salt and all other kinds of bowl games, and I'll take the 23rd annual East-West Shrine game in San Francisco.

We have nothing against any of those other bowl games. In fact, we wish them all well. But they don't mean a thing to us whereas we are intensely interested in the welfare of the Shrine game.

The reason is simple—it's the only game that really means anything to anybody except a few football nuts.

And what a charity—crippled children of the poor.

We wish everybody in the United States could go with Bill Coffman, who has been staging these games all these years, when he takes the football players on a visit to the children in the Shriners' Hospital for Crippled Children in San Francisco.

Invariably these big husky football stars look on these poor kids with wondering pity. Then shyly one by one you are likely to see some big lug who takes great delight in rocking and socking, sit down on the edge of a youngster's bed.

Then you'll see him put his arm around the youngster and maybe take the kid on his lap. And then if you watch closely you'll see those big fellows wiping a furtive tear away.

That's why we say this is the finest game in the country.

In the past the game has turned over to the Shriners' hospitals a total of $1,017,000.

The proceeds from this game make the San Francisco hospital self-supporting so that it does not have to draw on the Shriners' national fund. Therefore, the money that would ordinarily be taken from the general fund for San Francisco is split up among the other hospitals for crippled youngsters.

The game is staged in Kezar Stadium which holds 62,000 and you will not be surprised to learn that it was sold out last July for New Year's Day.

Coffman says the only solution is a bigger and better stadium and knowing San Franciscans we feel sure he'll have it.

The game will draw $190,000 and the net will run around $106,000. Taxes take $35,000 off the $190,000 and the expense of bringing the players from their homes, etc. eat up the balance.

What do the players get out of it? A little wrist watch as a memento. That's all. And what does anybody else except the kids get? Not a thin dime. Those crippled youngsters get it all.

Louis Respects Walcott Punch

BY GALE TALBOT

POMPTON LAKES, N. J., Dec. 1 (AP)—Although it is not obvious to the naked eye, heavyweight champion Joe Louis concedes that he is easier to hit than he was 10 years ago—doesn't seem to be able to slip a punch quite the way he did in his youth.

"I think I hit as hard as when I won the title 10 years ago from Jim Braddock," he said today, "but I think I have slowed down in blocking punches. I get hit now with punches I used to be able to get away from."

Joe brought up the point in discussing the hitting prowess of Jersey Joe Walcott, the slightly shopworn negro challenger whom he meets in the 24th defense of his title riday nighrt at the Garden. What Louis had to say of his opponent was about the nicest thing he has uttered to date about the father of six children.

"I regard Jersey Joe as a dangerous puncher," he said without a trace of a smile. "You got to have respect in that ring for any man who can punch. I don't think he's as good a boxer as Billy Conn and Tommy Farr were, but they couldn't hit me the way he does, either.

"You got to be on the lookout with him. I've seen him fight a couple of times and he sneaks those punches in pretty good."

Both men relaxed today except for the usual road work. The champion plans to box four rounds tomorroy and wind it up with four more on Wednesday.

Walcott, training at Grenloch, N. J., will complete his boxing tomorrow and plans no more than light exercising behind closed doors on Wednesday and Thursday. His handlers say he is in top shape and confident of victory.

"I predict he will turn the trick by a knockout," burbled Joe Webster, Jersey Joe's manager, today.

New York Yanks Reported Angling For Nats' Hurler

By JACK HAND

MIAMI, Fla., Dec. 1 (AP) — Trade winds kept the baseball lobby buzzing with rumors about a bid deal by the New York Yankees today but no concrete action resulted from the winter meeting speculation.

Persistent reports had pitcher Walter Masterson or Early Wynn of the Washington Senators headed for the Yankee Stadium in a major swap still in the tentative stage.

Manager Bucky Harris of the world champions would admit nothing beyond a statement that a deal for a pitcher quite likely would be made. If such a transaction is completed the Yanks plan to hold up the announcement for the major league meetings next year at New York.

Last march the Yanks were hot for a deal with Washington for first baseman Mickey Vernon. Although they reportedly offered catcher Aaron Robinson, outfielder Johnny Lindell and others at the time, owner Clark Griffith of the Sens turned them down cold.

The Yankees weren't the only club trying to stir up business. Although this is a minor league convention, it is largely a meeting of the majors and their farm connection. Even more important than technical changes in the intricate baseball law, is the desire of each club to improve its roster for next season.

Bill Veeck, president of the Cleveland Indians, blew into town and went into a huddle with Bill DeWitt, head of the St. Louis Browns who said yesterday he would deal outfielder Jeff Heath and all men over 28, except pitcher Nelson Potter.

Veeck came out of the short conference without biting at the Browns' bait. He already had acquired pitcher Bob Muncrief and Wally Judnich from the St. Louis club two weeks ago.

Lujack Is Winner Of Heisman Trophy

Notre Dame's Star Receives 742 Votes

NEW YORK, Dec. 1 (INS)—Johnny Lujack, All-American Notre Dame quarterback, emerged today as the winner of the Heisman Trophy, awarded annually by the Downtown Athletic Club to the "outstanding college football player in the United States."

The award is based on voting of the nation's sports writers and broadcasters. Presentation will be made at the club Dec. 10.

Lujack, with 742 votes, won easily. Bob Chappuis, Michigan halfback, was second with 555 votes. Doak Walker, of Southern Methodist, was third, followed by Charley Conerly, Mississippi; Harry Gilmer, Alabama; Bobby Layne, Texas; Charley Bednarik, Pennsylvania; and Bill Swiacki, Columbia.

Except for Bednarik, who is a center, and Swiacki, who is an end, all these players are backs.

In the voting by sections, Lujack topped the balloting in the east, south and far west. Chappuis led in the mid-west; and Walker in the Southwest.

The first four players in the balloting — Lujack, Chappuis, Walker and Conerly — comprised the first team backfield of the International News Service 1947 All-America team announced Sunday.

Winter Racing Season Hits Snag In Florida

By JAMES F. FOWLER

MIAMI, Fla., Dec. 1 (AP)—Florida's prospective glittering winter racing season opened on a gloomy note today, when a strike of horsemen demanding an increase in minimum purses forced Gulfstream Park to announce that there would be no racing tomorrow and the track would remain closed until an agreement is reached.

The feud between horsemen and Gulfstream's management opened Sunday when some 200 horse owners voted to demand that minimum purses for the 40-day meeting be upped from $2,000 to $2,500 and minimum daily purses—exclusive of stake events — be not less than $22,000.

Today, after Gulfstream president James Donn announced that the track rejected the demand, the feud broke out into a bitter name-calling affray in which horsemen accused Donn of "long history of unsatisfactory relations" and Donn branding the accusation as "absolutely false."

Following a day long series of meetings, Donn announced at the close of the eight-race program that "Gulfstream will not open tomorrow."

"Barring any last minute settlement—and I can't see any in view—the track will close tomorrow and will remain closed until we can come to terms."

The day's racing, however, went off without a hitch. Few of the 13,642 people who attended the colorful winter season racing debut realized the tense drama being enacted behind the scenes.

Woolford Farm Stable's veteran campaigner, Delegate, won the $7,500 Inaugural Handicap over a field of 11 in the six-furlong feature event. H. A. Dabson's Nance's Ace was second and S. D. Sidell's Iodine, third. The winner returned $15.90, $8.60 and $6.70 for a $2 investment.

Maryland Eleven To Play Georgia At Jacksonville

Teams To Clash Jan. 1 In 'Gator Bowl Game

JACKSONVILLE, Fla., Dec. 1 (AP)—Maryland of the Southern Conference and Georgia of the Southeastern Conference were named today as the foes in the third annual Gator Bowl football game here Jan. 1.

It will be the first appearance for both teams in the New Year's Day game here and the first bowl engagement for the Maryland Terrapins. The Georgia Bulldogs have made four bowl appearances, once each in the Rose, Sugar, Orange and Oil, and won all four.

Although Maryland is new in the bowl business, its Coach Jim Tatum is not. He brought the Oklahoma Sooners here last New Year's Day for a 34-13 victory over North Carolina State. Tatum also coached the Jacksonville Naval Air Station eleven during the war years.

Georgia won seven games while losing four this season. Maryland also won seven, tied one and lost two. Neither is a champion in its conference, the Bulldogs splitting even in six Southeastern games and the Terrapins winning three, tying one and losing two.

At College Park, Md., Tatum today said the Maryland team will hold practice sessions Wednesday and Friday and get back to heavy daily workouts next week. The players will spend Christmas at home and leave for Jacksonville Dec. 26.

This total was reported by five checking stations—four in Allegany county and one in Washington county—at 7 p. m., the closing hour.

Joseph A. Minke reported that prior to last year the record for a six-day season in this county was 48. Yesterday's kill was two short of the one-time six-day mark. The new record hung up for Allegany in 1946 was 85.

Twenty-eight deer were reported felled in Frederick county and 30 in Worcester county on opening day.

KEEPING UP WITH

HOLLYWOOD

By LOUELLA PARSONS

Esther Williams

HOLLYWOOD, Dec. 1—(INS)—I must say the reaction to Ronald Reagan's speech before the congressional committee in Washington was very favorable. I heard praise on all sides for the intelligent answers Ronnie gave, both as an individual and as president of the Screen Actors Guild.

You may be sure Jack Warner, who is fighting communism in Hollywood with our other producers, is giving Ronnie the breaks he deserves. When I asked Jack what next for Ronnie, he said, "Montana," an adventure drama by Ernest Haycox.

The days of the big movie money for plays and novels are over, Too many best sellers have gone sour, and too many plays haven't brought adequate returns for the money spent in producing them.

I was talking to Otto Preminger, who had just bought "House By the River" by A. B. Herbert, a novelette that was published 17 years ago. It is a dramatic story of two close male friends who become involved in a murder. One is guilty, but the innocent man is accused, and the guilty one refuses to talk.

Chit chat: I liked Esther Williams' reply when a young man in the audience, where she was on a personal appearance tour, shouted "what about subversive activities in Hollywood?"

Replied Esther, "I wouldn't be knowing about that—all my activities are submersive!"

Esther did so well on her eastern appearance that large theaters in eastern cities are offering her as high as $10,000 a week for return engagements. She proved to be very bright in her repartee and she went over surprisingly well.

James Cain has just finished his longest book, "The Moth," a 200,000 word story dealing with the impressions of a young man who hoboed his way through the country looking for work. Alfred Knopf is bringing it out, and I am wondering if this is the novel in which Cain's ex-wife, Aileen Pringle shares in the profits? She took a percentage of his novel in lieu of alimony.

Snapshots of Hollywood collected at random:

A romance that will bear watching is that of Joan Caulfield and Jimmy Stewart.

The seven beauties who appear with Errol Flynn will be exploited much after the same idea as the Goldwyn girls. They will be called "The Don Juan Beauties."

Pat Smart is in San Francisco at the bedside of her mother, Mrs. Monteagle, socialite, who has been very ill.

Hal Pritchard, who flew to New York with Grace Hayes for Peter Lind Hayes' opening, is flying to Honolulu to see Zella Mae Sowder, author of "Best of Luck." He's certainly a flying gent.

Paul Douglas will be the house guest of Humphrey Bogart when he comes here to test for "Born Yesterday." Although Bogey was up for the role himself, he is now plugging for Douglas.

So many of the youngsters in New York stopped me to ask when Lew Ayres was going to arrive. Well, he is in New York now, his first visit in the east for years.

Fred and Lily MacMurray get in town in a few days. They are now in Chicago, the guests of the Gene Tracys.

Writer John McClaine, popular boy around town, left today to become a huckster with one of the big advertising agencies in New York.

Paula Stone is very proud of a personal letter from Mrs. Harry Truman accepting Paula's invitation to attend the opening of "Sweethearts" in Washington, December 8.

That's all today.

Be Quick To Treat Bronchitis
Chronic bronchitis may develop if your cough, chest cold, or acute bronchitis is not treated and you cannot afford to take a chance with any medicine less potent than Creomulsion which goes right to the seat of the trouble to help loosen and expel germ laden phlegm and aid nature to soothe and heal raw, tender, inflamed bronchial mucous membranes.
Creomulsion blends beechwood creosote by special process with other time tested medicines for coughs. It contains no narcotics.
No matter how many medicines you have tried, tell your druggist to sell you a bottle of Creomulsion with the understanding you must like the way it quickly allays the cough, permitting rest and sleep, or you are to have your money back. (Adv.)

Announcing the new 1948 Studebakers

IN MEMORIAM

In loving memory of our dear Mother, Mary E. Breighner, who left us 9 years ago, December 2nd.

We do not need a special day
To bring you to our mind,
The days we do not think of you
Are very hard to find.
If all this world were ours to give,
We would give it, yes and more,
To see the face of our dear Mother
Come smiling through the door.

Sadly missed by her Family.

SNELSON—In loving memory of James E. Snelson, who died December 2, 1940.

A tender father hence has gone,
His loss is great to every one.
Had we asked him well we'd know,
We would cry, O spare this blow.
Yet with streaming tears we say,
Lord we love him, let him stay.
His memory is as dear today,
As in the hour he passed away.

Sadly missed by his Wife, Children & Grandchildren.

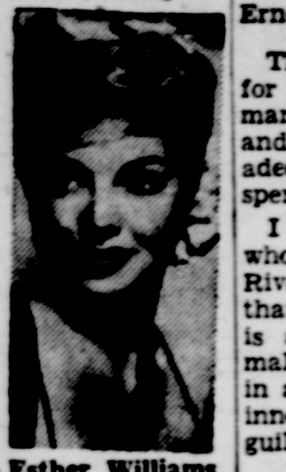
By LOUELLA PARSONS

HOLLYWOOD, Dec. 1—(INS)—I must say the reaction to Ronald Reagan's speech before the congressional committee in Washington was very favorable. I heard praise on all sides for the intelligent answers Ronnie gave, both as an individual and as president of the Screen Actors Guild.



Esther Williams

You may be sure Jack Warner, who is fighting communism in Hollywood with our other producers, is giving Ronnie the breaks he deserves. When I asked Jack what next for Ronnie, he said, "Montana," an adventure drama by Ernest Haycox.

The days of the big movie money for plays and novels are over. Too many best sellers have gone sour, and too many plays haven't brought adequate returns for the money spent in producing them.

I was talking to Otto Preminger, who had just bought "House By the River" by A. B. Herbert, a novelette that was published 17 years ago. It is a dramatic story of two close male friends who become involved in a murder. One is guilty, but the innocent man is accused, and the guilty one refuses to talk.

Chit chat: I liked Esther Williams' reply when a young man in the audience, where she was on a personal appearance tour, shouted "what about subversive activities in Hollywood?"

Replied Esther, "I wouldn't be knowing about that—all my activities are submersive!"

Esther did so well on her eastern appearance that large theaters in eastern cities are offering her as high as $10,000 a week for return engagements. She proved to be very bright in her repartee and she went over surprisingly well.

James Cain has just finished his longest book, "The Moth," a 200,000 word story dealing with the impressions of a young man who hoboed his way through the country looking for work. Alfred Knopf is bringing it out, and I am wondering if this is the novel in which Cain's ex-wife, Aileen Pringle shares in the profits? She took a percentage of his novel in lieu of alimony.

Snapshots of Hollywood collected at random:

A romance that will bear watching is that of Joan Caulfield and Jimmy Stewart.

The seven beauties who appear with Errol Flynn will be explcited much after the same idea as the Goldwyn girls. They will be called "The Don Juan Beauties."

Pat Smart is in San Francisco at the bedside of her mother, Mrs. Monteagle, socialite, who has been very ill.

Hal Pritchard, who flew to New York with Grace Hayes for Peter Lind Hayes' opening, is flying to Honolulu to see Zella Mae Sowder, author of "Best of Luck." He's certainly a flying gent.

Paul Douglas will be the house guest of Humphrey Bogart when he comes here to test for "Born Yesterday." Although Bogey was up for the role himself, he is now plugging for Douglas.

So many of the youngsters in New York stopped me to ask when Lew Ayres was going to arrive. Well, he is in New York now, his first visit in the east for years.

Fred and Lily MacMurray get in town in a few days. They are now in Chicago, the guests of the Gene Tracys.

Writer John McClaine, popular boy around town, left today to become a huckster with one of the big advertising agencies in New York.

Paula Stone is very proud of a personal letter from Mrs. Harry Truman accepting Paula's invitation to attend the opening of "Sweethearts" in Washington, December 8.

That's all today.

Be Quick To Treat Bronchitis

Chronic bronchitis may develop if your cough, chest cold, or acute bronchitis is not treated and you cannot afford to take a chance with any medicine less potent than Creomulsion which goes right to the seat of the trouble to help loosen and expel germ laden phlegm and aid nature to soothe and heal raw, tender, inflamed bronchial mucous membranes. Creomulsion blends beechwood creosote by special process with other time tested medicines for coughs. It contains no narcotics.

No matter how many medicines you have tried, tell your druggist to sell you a bottle of Creomulsion with the understanding you must like the way it quickly allays the cough, permitting rest and sleep, or you are to have your money back. (Adv.)

Announcing the new 1948 Studebakers

IN MEMORIAM

In loving memory of our dear Mother, Mary E. Breighner, who left us 9 years ago, December 2nd.

We do not need a special day
To bring you to our mind,
The days we do not think of you
Are very hard to find.
If all this world were ours to give,
We would give it, yes and more,
To see the face of our dear Mother
Come smiling through the door.

Sadly missed by her Family.

SNELSON—In loving memory of James E. Snelson, who died December 2, 1940.

A tender father hence has gone,
His loss is great to every one.
Had we asked him well we'd know,
We would cry, O spare this blow.
Yet with streaming tears we say,
Lord we love him, let him stay.
His memory is as dear today,
As in the hour he passed away.

Sadly missed by his Wife, Children & Grandchildren.

Three Forums Are Scheduled On Networks Tonight

By C. E. BUTTERFIELD

NEW YORK Dec. 1.—(AP)—Tuesday having taken on the aspects of Forum Night on the networks more than any other night in the week, now is displaying three programs in that category on as many networks for a total of two and a half-hours of broadcasting. Incidentally, none is competition to the other, so that a listener can hear all consecutively, if desired.

At 8:30 on ABC comes America's Town Meeting, which after two overseas visits is confining itself to its New York headquarters to discuss "Are Civil Liberties Threatened in America?" Helping out from the talk standpoint will be Harold L. Ickes and Rep. Edward H. Rees of Kansas.

Next at 10 comes the America, Forum of MBS, now a half-hour instead of the former 45 minutes. Topic listed is "Will Controls Lead To a Police State?" Argument will come from Sens. Joseph Ball of Minnesota, John Sparkman of Ala., and Francis J. Myers of Pa., and one other.

Finally at 10:30, CBS carries forth with its Opening Hearing, in which members of Congress discuss current legislative problems.

Geraldine Fitzgerald has been picked to do the top acting in the CBS Studio One at 9:30, when the announced play is "Earth and High Heaven," based on novel about a mixture of love, bigorty and intolerance.

The Boston Symphony orchestra, now on tour, will do its ABC hour at 9:30 from Pittsburgh. It will be an all-Russian program, says a network announcement.

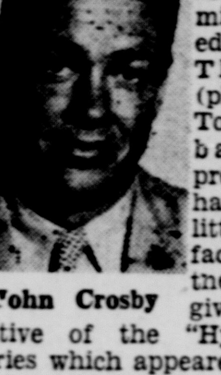
RADIO IN REVIEW

By JOHN CROSBY

The First Thanksgiving

Among all the special Thanksgiving programs last week, many of them excellent, I should like to pick out just one, presented on the "Cavalcade of America." It was an amusing and touching version of the first Thanksgiving as related by an immigrant in adult education class. The immigrant (played by George Tobias) had the basic principles pretty well in hand but was a little hazy on his facts. His story of the first Thanksgiving was suggestive of the "Hyman Kaplan" stories which appeared in "The New Yorker" and later in a book and has some of the qualities of innocent charm of "The Green Pastures".



John Crosby

In his story, which faded rapidly into straight drama, all the characters, the Pilgrims and even the Indians, spoke in a thick Slavic accent, employing contemporary idiom. As the story opens, a man identified only as the Boss Pilgrim (also played by George Tobias) was walking down the street of the old country—any old country—complaining to his friend Joe about the lack of religious freedom in the place.

"Nobody got religious freedom in 1620," said Joe, philosophically. "1620" he added. "That's this year."

"They got it in America," said the Boss Pilgrim.

"What's America?"

"Is new country Columbus discover."

A few moments later the boss got a personal directive from God to take the Pilgrims to America, or the U. S. A. as it was sometimes called. This took a bit of persuasion. Joe wanted to know what he would do with his fruit stand if they were to go tearing off to this strange land. The boss pointed out that people had to eat in America too. A couple of dubious Pilgrims wanted reassurance about their guaranty of religious freedom. "It's in the Constitution," said the boss firmly.

"Then I vote we go there," cried a Pilgrim named Benny.

"We go tomorrow night. In harbor is boat called Mayflower. Third class steerage tickets very reasonable," declared the boss.

The Mayflower, it developed, was not a sailing vessel; it was a large steamship but still it was a rough voyage. There were storms and fogs; the kids caught cold, the Pilgrims lost heart. All but the boss, who kept a running conversation with God throughout the trip. Despite his reassurance that everything was going according to plan, the boss almost had a revolt on his hands when suddenly they sighted land. "It's America," cried the boss.

"How do you know it's America?" asked Benny cautiously.

"I can see Statue of Liberty," replied the boss. He read a few lines of the inscription .... "Give me your tired, your poor, your huddled masses yearning to breathe free."

Joe, the pessimist, was still disgruntled. He conceded the Statue of Liberty was a nice piece of statuary but pointed out there wasn't anything else in the U.S.A. "This God's country" he muttered, "is nothing but a lot of woods, and I sold my fruit stand."

The Pilgrims disembarked at Ellis Island (then known as Plymouth Rock) and set about building homes, Joe still complained. Presently some primitive and rather unlikely looking people with feathers in their hair emerged from the woods.

"I chief of friendly Indians," explained the head man in an accent that might be described as first generation Pittsburgh.

"You fellows live around here?" asked the boss.

"Long time," said the chief.

"You fellows new around here, ain't you?"

"Just got off Mayflower."

"Proud to meet people who come over on Mayflower," said the chief gravely.

It was a tough winter for everyone, even the Indians. The chief Indian got lost in the woods and would have died of starvation if the Boss Pilgrim hadn't found him and revived him with sandwiches he happened to have in his pocket. Later the Pilgrims were on the brink of starvation when the door burst open and in walked the chief Indian and his whole tribe bearing sixteen thousand sandwiches accompanied by sixteen thousand dill pickles. "Chief of friendly Indians never forget," said the chief.

In payment for this rather staggering kindness, the Pilgrims naturally invited the Indians over for Thanksgiving dinner. The main course naturally, was turkey. The Boss Pilgrim had won it in a raffle.

I think it's a rather pleasant little story about Thanksgiving and it isn't much more inaccurate than the one I learned at school.

Recovery Rules Market In Initial December Session; Dealings Slack

NEW YORK, Dec. 1 (AP)—Recovery ruled today's stock market in its first December session, and, while dealings were relatively slack throughout, the overall average recorded its first advance in almost two weeks.

The Associated Press 60-stock composite was up .4 of a point at 64.2, the first plus sign since November 20. It was the broadest market since November 31. Of 998 issues, 469 rose and 314 fell.

Ahead one to two or better were United States Steel at 75¾, Bethlehem Steel 99, Youngstown Sheet 76⅝, Southern Railway 34¾, American Can 80, du Pont 186½, Owens-Illinois 69¾, and Standard Gas $4 preferred 22¾.

Among forward Curb leaners were Kaiser-Frazer and United Light. Turnover here was 180,000 shares versus 250,000 in the previous full session.

The bond market came up with a few fairly wide gains after an uncertain start but the main corporate list still inclined to drag mostly as a result of light but persistent offerings in the rails.

The carrier group sank to a new low since 1944 in the Associated Press averages. Other domestic groups ended unchanged. Sales totaled $4,381,000 compared with $4,000,000 on Friday.

United States governments closed in outside markets unchanged to off 2-32.

Baering Down On The News

By ARTHUR "BUGS" BAER

Our agenda team is in London for the memorandum tournament. This is the fifth series of the four-stacker circuit of foreign premiers. Now Molotov is sore because the St. Louis franchise may go to Baltimore.

Marshall, Bevin, Molotov and Bidault open the elimination contest with heavy duty portfolios, beachhead preambles and mop-up compromises.

This Kaffee-Klatsch is another milestone in what started out as a hundred-yard dash.

The perpetual debate can be classified as group insurance. So long as they are all together they know what the other guys are doing.

The lie direct was passed in Congress and some members took a second helping. There is a House rule restraining inmates from publishing derogatory summaries. But like the son smoking sign in the powder factory it didn't say positively.

The insulted individual has the choice of retaliatory weapons and should select oyster knives at different banquets.

Both of the contestants in the abrasive debate are Democrats. With its present slim margin the party cannot stand a fatal duel. I suggest the lads shake hands and jump back and count their fingers.

We got rid of the Fascists, we are after the Commies and pretty soon a common citizen will not be so rare.

Australia Plans Aluminum Industry

CANBERRA, Australia—(AP)—Australia's aluminum commission has recommended that 10,000 tons of aluminum be produced annually in the nation's $12 million industry planned for Tasmania.

A report presented by Sen. John Armstrong says the commission controls 800,000 tons of bauxite in Tasmania, 100,000 tons in Victoria, 120,000 tons in New South Wales. It is believed this supply is sufficient to keep the industry going for 30 years and other supplies are known to exist in Australia.

Sheriff Destroys 70 Slot Machines At Martinsburg

MARTINSBURG, W. Va. — The most recent chapter in the long story of slot machine seizures in this city and Berkeley County was completed Saturday with the destruction of 70 of the confiscated devices which had been stored in the basement of the courthouse by Sheriff W. Strong Lewis, assisted by State Police.

The machines were estimated to have a value of $20,000. It was understood between $4,000 and $5,000 had been taken from them when they were seized in two raids by State Police last summer.

Half of the confiscated money is to be retained by the county, while the other half, according to State law, must go to the State Police disability and retirement fund. Some 50 persons arrested were given suspended jail sentences, fined $100 and costs and put under $100 bonds for the next year.

Two Men Killed By Cincinnatian

MARTINSBURG, W. Va.—Two New York men were killed instantly and the son of one of them injured when the car in which they were riding was struck by the crack B. and O. streamliner, "The Cincinnatian," on the Hedgesville grade crossing Friday evening.

State Police identified the dead as Machel Schreiber, 54, of 210 Rivington Street, New York City, a restaurant owner; and Raphael Kleinman, about 55, 146 Hewes Street, Brooklyn. Slightly injured was Abraham Schreiber, 25, who was treated at a local hospital for minor cuts, shock and bruises.

State Police charged young Schreiber, driver of the car, with manslaughter but said a hearing is not expected for several weeks. He was released on bond.

The men were going to Washington, from Hot Springs, Ark., State Police said, and apparently sought to take State Route 9 east of Charles Town. They lost their direction and were traveling west, police said. The train struck the right rear side of the car, knocking it to one side and throwing the elder Schreiber out of the machine. The car, a 1947 Kaiser, was badly damaged.

Police said the red blinker lights at the crossing were operating but young Schreiber said he did not see them, according to police.

School Lunch Costs Are Studied Here

Every effort will be made to continue serving hot lunches in Allegany County Public School cafeterias at the present cost of 20 cents a meal, according to Dr. Charles L. Kopp, superintendent of schools.

Kopp explained that the federal subsidy in the county per lunch dropped from nine cents to four cents. The amount of federal money for Maryland is the same but more schools have started lunch programs with the result that the total has to be spread thinner.

Kopp said there is no immediate prospect of the hike in prices, but indicated that the cost may be increased if a survey now under way shows that the cafeterias are operating at a loss.

Keyser Streets

Mr. Shockey, the son of David and Christene (Muledy) Shockey, was born in Hampshire County. He was a resident of Keyser until he bought a farm at Fountain a year ago. He was an employe of the West Virginia Pulp and Paper Company at Luke.

Surviving are his widow, Mrs. Verna (Hiser) Shockey, and two daughters, Mrs. Floyd Payne and Miss Christene Shockey, Keyser; two brothers, James R. Shockey, Wiley Ford, and Jacob T. Shockey, Junction, W. Va.; two sisters, Mrs. L. J. Staggs, Burlington and Miss Sarah Jane Shockey, New York, N. Y.; two grandchildren and several nieces and nephews.

Funeral service will be held Wednesday at 2:30 p. m. at the Evangelical United Brethren Church with Rev. L. G. Bridgers, pastor, officiating. Interment will be in the Queens Point Cemetery. The body will lie in state at the church from 1:30 Wednesday until time for the service.

James Hiner Dies

James Henry Hiner, 91, a retired farmer, died Sunday at the home of his son, Ernest N. Hiner, near Fort Ashby, after a long illness. He was born in Highland County, Va., in 1857.

Besides his son, he is survived by his widow, the former Lucy Alice Eddins, and several nephews and nieces.

Funeral services will be held this afternoon at 2:30 o'clock from the home of his son, Ernest, at Fort Ashby. Interment will be in the Fort Ashby Cemetery.

Evans Is Released

A 21-year-old Keyser resident was released yesterday on a charge of contributing to the delinquency of a minor when a justice of the peace ruled that there was not sufficient evdience to convict him.

At a hearing in Keyser Justice of the Peace George C. Ludwig discussed charges against Theodore Clifton Evans and returned his $500 bond to him.

Evans, who has been on parole for some time, had been sentenced to one to 10 years by Judge Ernest A. See during the October term of Mineral County Circuit Court when it was learned that Evans had been arrested on the juvenile delinquency charge.

Evans is now on a $1,000 bond while his attorneys, Donald C. Hott and H. P. Shores, take an appeal to the West Virginia Supreme Court on the parole violation.

The case against Evans on the juvenile delinquency charge was dropped by Justice of the Peace Ludwig on the technicality that the man had not been given a preliminary hearing before being sentenced by Judge See.

Three Forums Are Scheduled On Networks Tonight

By C. E. BUTTERFIELD

NEW YORK Dec. 1.—(AP)—Tuesday having taken on the aspects of Forum Night on the networks more than any other night in the week, now is displaying three programs in that category on as many networks for a total of two and a half-hours of broadcasting. Incidentally, none is competition to the other, so that a listener can hear all consecutively, if desired.

At 8:30 on ABC comes America's Town Meeting, which after two overseas visits is confining itself to its New York headquarters to discuss "Are Civil Liberties Threatened in America?" Helping out from the talk standpoint will be Harold L. Ickes and Rep. Edward H. Rees of Kansas.

Next at 10 comes the America, Forum of MBS, now a half-hour instead of the former 45 minutes. Topic listed is "Will Controls Lead To a Police State?" Argument will come from Sens. Joseph Ball of Minnesota, John Sparkman of Ala., and Francis J. Myers of Pa., and one other.

Finally at 10:30, CBS carries forth with its Opening Hearing, in which members of Congress discuss current legislative problems.

Geraldine Fitzgerald has been picked to do the top acting in the CBS Studio One at 9:30, when the announced play is "Earth and High Heaven," based on novel about a mixture of love, bigorty and intolerance.

The Boston Symphony orchestra, now on tour, will do its ABC hour at 9:30 from Pittsburgh. It will be an all-Russian program, says a network announcement.

RADIO IN REVIEW

By JOHN CROSBY

The First Thanksgiving

Among all the special Thanksgiving programs last week, many of them excellent, I should like to pick out just one, presented on the "Cavalcade of America." It was an amusing and touching version of the first Thanksgiving as related by an immigrant in adult education class. The immigrant (played by George Tobias) had the basic principles pretty well in hand but was a little hazy on his facts. His story of the first Thanksgiving was suggestive of the "Hyman Kaplan" stories which appeared in "The New Yorker" and later in a book and has some of the qualities of innocent charm of "The Green Pastures".

John Crosby

In his story, which faded rapidly into straight drama, all the characters, the Pilgrims and even the Indians, spoke in a thick Slavic accent, employing contemporary idiom. As the story opens, a man identified only as the Boss Pilgrim (also played by George Tobias) was walking down the street of the old country—any old country—complaining to his friend Joe about the lack of religious freedom in the place.

"Nobody got religious freedom in 1620," said Joe, philosophically. "1620" he added. "That's this year."

"They got it in America," said the Boss Pilgrim.

"What's America?"

"Is new country Columbus discover."

A few moments later the boss got a personal directive from God to take the Pilgrims to America, or the U. S. A. as it was sometimes called. This took a bit of persuasion. Joe wanted to know what he would do with his fruit stand if they were to go tearing off to this strange land. The boss pointed out that people had to eat in America too. A couple of dubious Pilgrims wanted reassurance about their guaranty of religious freedom. "It's in the Constitution," said the boss firmly.

"Then I vote we go there," cried a Pilgrim named Benny.

"We go tomorrow night. In harbor is boat called Mayflower. Third class steerage tickets very reasonable," declared the boss.

The Mayflower, it developed, was not a sailing vessel; it was a large steamship but still it was a rough voyage. There were storms and fogs; the kids caught cold, the Pilgrims lost heart. All but the boss, who kept a running conversation with God throughout the trip. Despite his reassurance that everything was going according to plan, the boss almost had a revolt on his hands when suddenly they sighted land. "It's America," cried the boss.

"How do you know it's America?" asked Benny cautiously.

"I can see Statue of Liberty," replied the boss. He read a few lines of the inscription .... "Give me your tired, your poor, your huddled masses yearning to breathe free."

Joe, the pessimist, was still disgruntled. He conceded the Statue of Liberty was a nice piece of statuary but pointed out there wasn't anything else in the U.S.A. "This God's country" he muttered, "is nothing but a lot of woods, and I sold my fruit stand."

The Pilgrims disembarked at Ellis Island (then known as Plymouth Rock) and set about building homes, Joe still complained. Presently some primitive and rather unlikely looking people with feathers in their hair emerged from the woods.

"I chief of friendly Indians," explained the head man in an accent that might be described as first generation Pittsburgh.

"You fellows live around here?" asked the boss.

"Long time," said the chief.

"You fellows new around here ain't you?"

"Just got off Mayflower."

"Proud to meet people who come over on Mayflower," said the chief gravely.

It was a tough winter for everyone, even the Indians. The chief Indian got lost in the woods and would have died of starvation if the Boss Pilgrim hadn't found him and revived him with sandwiches he happened to have in his pocket. Later the Pilgrims were on the brink of starvation when the door burst open and in walked the chief Indian and his whole tribe bearing sixteen thousand sandwiches accompanied by sixteen thousand dill pickles. "Chief of friendly Indians never forget," said the chief.

In payment for this rather staggering kindness, the Pilgrims naturally invited the Indians over for Thanksgiving dinner. The main course naturally, was turkey. The Boss Pilgrim had won it in a raffle.

I think it's a rather pleasant little story about Thanksgiving and it isn't much more inaccurate than the one I learned at school.

Recovery Rules Market In Initial December Session; Dealings Slack

NEW YORK, Dec. 1 (AP)—Recovery ruled today's stock market in its first December session, and, while dealings were relatively slack throughout, the overall average recorded its first advance in almost two weeks.

The Associated Press 60-stock composite was up .4 of a point at 64.2, the first plus sign since November 20. It was the broadest market since November 31. Of 998 issues, 469 rose and 314 fell.

Ahead one to two or better were United States Steel at 75¾, Bethlehem Steel 99, Youngstown Sheet 76⅝, Southern Railway 34¾, American Can 80, du Pont 186½, Owens-Illinois 69¾, and Standard Gas $4 preferred 22¾.

Among forward Curb leaners were Kaiser-Frazer and United Light. Turnover here was 180,000 shares versus 250,000 in the previous full session.

The bond market came up with a few fairly wide gains after an uncertain start but the main corporate list still inclined to drag mostly as a result of light but persistent offerings in the rails.

The carrier group sank to a new low since 1944 in the Associated Press averages. Other domestic groups ended unchanged. Sales totaled $4,381,000 compared with $4,000,000 on Friday.

United States governments closed in outside markets unchanged to off 2-32.

Baering Down On The News

By ARTHUR "BUGS" BAER

Our agenda team is in London for the memorandum tournament. This is the fifth series of the four-stacker circuit of foreign premiers. Now Molotov is sore because the St. Louis franchise may go to Baltimore.

Marshall, Bevin, Molotov and Bidault open the elimination contest with heavy duty portfolios, beachhead preambles and mop-up compromises.

This Kaffee-Klatsch is another milestone in what started out as a hundred-yard dash.

The perpetual debate can be classified as group insurance. So long as they are all together they know what the other guys are doing.

The lie direct was passed in Congress and some members took a second helping. There is a House rule restraining inmates from publishing derogatory summaries. But like the son smoking sign in the powder factory it didn't say positively.

The insulted individual has the choice of retaliatory weapons and should select oyster knives at different banquets.

Both of the contestants in the abrasive debate are Democrats. With its present slim margin the party cannot stand a fatal duel. I suggest the lads shake hands and jump back and count their fingers.

We got rid of the Fascists, we are after the Commies and pretty soon a common citizen will not be so rare.

Australia Plans Aluminum Industry

CANBERRA, Australia—(AP)—Australia's aluminum commission has recommended that 10,000 tons of aluminum be produced annually in the nation's $12 million industry planned for Tasmania.

A report presented by Sen. John Armstrong says the commission controls 800,000 tons of bauxite in Tasmania, 100,000 tons in Victoria, 120,000 tons in New South Wales. It is believed this supply is sufficient to keep the industry going for 30 years and other supplies are known to exist in Australia.

City Airport Body Opens Three Bids; Will Determine Status Of Lease

Commission To Meet Again This Week

Three bids for operation of Cumberland's Municipal Airport in 1948 were opened by the Airport Commission last night, but action was deferred until it can be determined definitely if terms of the present lease with Cumberland Airways, Inc., have been complied with in every respect.

To get the answer to this question, Edmund S. Burke, commission chairman, appointed T. Donald Shires, secretary, and Oscar Gurley as a committee to confer with City Attorney Charles Z. Heskett for his advice. Heskett, who was out of the city, was unable to attend last night's meeting.

The uncertainty about the present lease with Cumberland Airways, of which William J. Graham, Pittsburgh, is president, apparently lies in the provision that both parties shall endeavor to establish a rental basis.

Will Meet Again

This point is expected to be cleared up quickly and another meeting of the commission will be held Wednesday night or Friday night.

Bids for operation of the airport, beginning January 1, were submitted by Valley Airways, Inc., York, Pa.; the H. W. French School of Aviation, Baltimore, and the Jenkins-De la Grange Corporation, Cumberland. While Graham did not submit a bid last night, one he mailed to Burke last September was presented.

Two proposals for management of the airport in event it becomes a city-operated business also were submitted, one from Lawrence L. Wagner, Route 4, Oldtown Road, and another from Arthur A. Belt, Shanks, W. Va., operator of the Belt Aircraft Corporation formerly located at Flushing Airport, Flushing, L. I.

While he submitted no proposal for operation of the airport, W. Donald Smith, local flier, appeared before the commission in the interest of flying enthusiasts here and recommended that the port be city-managed or operated by a local private individual.

Smith, who appeared with Fred Borden, another local flier, told the commission he wanted to prohibit the airport from being "milked" and local fliers being "eased out."

Once there is more private flying from the local field, Smith said the overhead problem will be answered.

Offered Services Free

He offered to donate his services to the commission to act as "go-between" between the commission and the airport manager should the city decide to operate the field.

A resolution urging city management of the field was presented to the commission by James Raupach, president of the Cumberland Flying Club.

Valley Airways, of which Charles T. Frew, Jr., is president, submitted two proposals, one by which it would operate the entire airport and would pay the city a percentage of gross proceeds plus a minimum rental. Under the other proposal Valley Airways would operate services and facilities excluding renting hangers and would pay the city on a percentage basis with no minimum rental.

Its proposed activities include aircraft sales and accessories, both civilian and veteran flight training, aircraft services and maintenance and gasoline and oil sales.

The Jenkins-Dela Grange Corporation proposed to lease the hangars, installation and concessions from the city for one year with rentals to be adjusted at the end of that time. They proposed that the manager of the corporation be acting manager of the airport and offered a system of subleases for flight training, charter and passenger flights, dealers and repair facilities.

Composing the corporation are Dela Grange, a former captain in the Army Air Force; Fred Jenkins, of the Astor Cab Company, and Lt. Sanford Jenkins, of the U. S. Army Air Forces.

Would Operate School

The French School of Aviation, in its bid signed by E. R. Fenimore, chairman of the Board of directors, and former secretary-director of aeronautics of the State Aviation Commission, proposed a guaranteed minimum rent plus a percentage of gross business.

This firm would operate a flight training school, ground school, repair station, sightseeing and nonscheduled air carrier service for the public.

Post said he believes leasing the field will hurt the city's chances of getting a commercial airline to stop here and added that the city is not too concerned about what it spends at the airport so long as service for which the airport was built can be offered to the people of Cumberland.

Water Is Found At 50-Feet Depth

A 200-foot well, already under construction, is expected to solve the water situation at Flintstone High School, where a shortage earlier this year caused a suspension of classes for a brief period, according to Dr. Charles L. Kopp, superintendent of schools.

Dr. Kopp said drilling work on the new well was begun Thanksgiving Day and added he was informed yesterday that after going 50 feet water was found.

Despite the presence of water at the 50 foot level, Dr. Kopp said he will have the well sunk 200 feet with the hope that it will prove to be an adequate and lasting supply of water for the school.

On October 8, this year, the acute shortage of water forced the close of school for the day. On the following Monday the regular schedule was resumed but later in the day it was necessary to discontinue classes again and they operated on a part time schedule until the following Wednesday.

Several meetings were held by the parents of school children, as well as the Parent-Teacher Association and the Flintstone Volunteer Fire Company in a effort to work out a solution to the problem, which was caused by a lengthy dry spell and aggravated by an exceptionally large enrollment.

Later school officials solved the problem temporarily by piping water from Flintstone creek for uses other than drinking, with the idea that this would provide an adequate water supply for drinking purposes.

Until this year the water for the school had been obtained from a well that was drilled several years ago, Dr. Kopp explained. He said that the school was originally supplied from a spring on a nearby hill and after it went dry a 15 foot well was drilled.

Later, Kopp said, this well proved inadequate and a 37 foot well was sunk. It was the 37-foot well that failed to supply the school needs this year.

Kopp said he believes by sinking a 200 foot well the school's water supply troubles will be answered for a good many years.

Hunters Warned Against Shooting At Towers

Warning was issued yesterday to all hunters, by William A. Parr, district forester, against the practice of shooting at fire towers.

Parr said in past hunting seasons, particularly in deer season, which is open this week, some sportsmen have made a practice of firing high-powered rifles at the towers.

The forester said the practice is extremely dangerous, as many of the district's fire towers are manned, and some hunter may shoot a fire watcher. Due to the dry weather this fall, and the lack of rain and snowfall, the towers are being manned later than usual, as there is still some danger of fire.

Any persons, known to fire at towers, will be prosecuted, Parr said.

The company is planning a community celebration and dedication of the new apparatus and building, and plans for these activities will be announced later, members said.

LaVale Motorist Sued For $7,500 In Circuit Court

Three civil suits were filed in Circuit Court, yesterday, one a suit for wages allegedly due, another a damage suit involving a traffic mishap, and another a suit by titling.

The damage suit was filed by E. J. Ryan, for Fred Van Pelt by his father and next friend, Claude Van Pelt, Dawson, against Paul Roberson, LaVale. Ryan said damages of $7,500 will be asked in a bill of particulars to be filed later.

The attorney explained that the Van Pelt boy was standing along the highway at Danville on Route 220, October 13, last, when Roberson's car approached. Two dogs ran on to the highway and Roberson, attempting to avoid hitting the animals, sewerved too far to the right of the road and struck the boy, fracturing his right leg.

The suit shows Buskirk worked 684 hours for Beeman for which he is claiming $1.30 per hour. It is also shown that Beeman paid the man $522, and claims a total of $889.20 was due him. Ryan is attorney for the plaintiff.

Radio Station Site Is Proposed For West Side Area

Pyle Makes Appeal To Zoning Board

Milton O. Pyle, manager of Cumberland's proposed new radio station, WCUM, filed an appeal with the Board of Zoning Appeals yesterday for a permit to use 18 vacant lots fronting on Fairmont and Thompson Avenues for building a transmitter, studio building and a 167-foot high radio tower.

The structures would be located on lots in Block 12 and part of Block 13, Rose Hill Addition, and all of Block 5, Ridgedale Addition. Owner of the lots was listed as James C. Shriver, 540 Rose Hill Avenue.

Pyle appealed to the board when his application was denied by City Engineer Ralph L. Rizer because the lots are located in a Residential B zoning district.

The next meeting of the Board of Zoning Appeals is scheduled for Wednesday, December 10.

In his application, Pyle said the studio building will be one story high, measuring 40 by 50 feet, with a concrete block foundation, brick and concrete block walls and a composition roof.

Pyle made the application in the name of the Tower Realty Company, Baltimore, owner of the proposed radio station. He said the company holds a 45-day option on the lots.

Meanwhile, at yesterday's meeting of the Mayor and Council, Pyle withdrew his original request to erect the radio tower on Luray Street near the new naval armory, explaining the location was termed unsatisfactory by the company's engineer.

After submitting a request for use of the property in Rose Hill and Ridgedale Additions, Pyle was granted permission to run wires under Rose Hill Avenue, which at that point is a "paper" street. He said the antenna will not interfere with radio reception in homes of the area or with the police radio.

The bid of the Colt Manufacturing Company, Hartford, Conn., of $43.30 each for 49 Colt official police revolvers was accepted. Delivery in about 90 days of the five-inch barrel guns was promised.

The bid of the Lyle Signs, Inc., Minneapolis, of $1,775.12 for 210 four-way street markers was accepted.

Collections last month were reported as follows: Fines, $1,448; engineer's office, $746.66; water office, $1,185; collector's office, $39,911.33, of which $25,115.41 is for water rent; general licenses, $19.50; movie taxes, $1,151.35 and bingo taxes, $599.70.

Hazel Scott's Piano Boogie Numbers Feature Of Concert Given Here

Artist Applauded By 1,500 Persons

Three of her own boogie compositions, "Hora Staccato" played in swing tempo and a rhythmic arrangement of Youman's popular classic "Tea For Two" were the highlights of the concert given last night by Hazel Scott, famed colored pianist, before an audience of 1,500 at Fort Hill High School auditorium.

Although the first half of the concert was devoted to classical music and one of Miss Scott's own more serious compositions, "Caribbean Fete," her interpretations of swing favorites drew even greater applause.

The noted star of radio, movies and Broadway night clubs gave evidence of her versatility especially in "Fur Elise" and "Hora Staccato," beginning each composition in a serious vein and shifting rapidly into swing tempo with sure, powerful rhythm.

Her playing of Graun's "Gigue," a Bach prelude and fugue and Mendelssohn's "Rondo Capriccioso", as well as three Chopin preludes, two Liszt selections and Rachmaninoff's "Etude-Tableau No. 7" was of concert quality.

Miss Scott's "Caribbean Fete", a suite composed against the colorful background of her native Trinidad, ranged from the barbaric to the delicate in tone, describing in music the last three days preceding Ash Wednesday and the ushering in of Lent. The composition ends on a religious note as the revelers enter the cathedral to celebrate mass.

In her popular album selections, Miss Scott gave delightful interpretations of the late "Fats" Waller's "Ain't Misbehavin'" and "Honeysuckle Rose".

Her own three boogie compositions which closed the program were "Bumblebee Boogie," "Bules in the Nightmare" and "A Rainy Night in G."

Undergoes Operation In Memorial Hospital

Four-year-old Naomi Conrad, who swallowed an inch-and-a-half long open safety pin, yesterday morning, was getting along fine in Memorial Hospital last night after the pin was removed from her esophagus, and the child's only worry seemed to be "Will I get home in time for Christmas?"

Actually Naomi was being a good girl yesterday morning when she swallowed the pin, but an unexpected jerk by her six-year-old sister, Delores, sent Mr. and Mrs. Leo Conrad, Artemas, Pa., rushing to the hospital with their daughter fearing for her life.

Mrs. Conrad said Naomi was in the kitchen putting on a snow suit so she could go out in the yard and play, and was holding the pin between her teeth so it would be handy to attach a pair of suspenders to the trousers when she got them on.

Delores, who watches over her sister when Mrs. Conrad is busy "just" gave the trouser leg a pull "to help" and Naomi gasped and down went the pin.

When Mrs. Conrad returned from a trip to the back porch to get some wood, she found Naomi lying on the floor crying and trying desperately to get the pin out of her throat. Delores had to tell her mother what had happened.

Mr. Conrad, who had retired after working the night shift at the Kelly-Springfield Tire Company plant, was gotten out of bed and the hurried trip to the hospital was begun.

Naomi was taken to Allegany Hospital first, but then was transferred to Memorial because there is an esophagus-scope there. After two x-rays were made the pin was found lodged in the esophagus at a very dangerous angle, with the point up.

Attending physicians agreed last night that the trip from Artemas would have been useless, if the pin had pierced anyone of the many vital organs in the region where it was lodged.

Last night, however, a surgeon using the esophagus-scope, removed the pin and Naomi was left suffering only from the after effects of the anesthetic. Attaches said she will be in the hospital for about 48 hours to receive infection-preventing treatments and then she will return home "in plenty of time for Christmas."

Naomi wasn't too sure about that though so last night while her nurse was busy elsewhere, she began climbing from her bed.

"I want to be home in time for Christmas," Naomi told the nurse who put her back in bed.

Meeting Planned On Sanitary Bill

A public meeting for discussion of the bill to establish a sanitary district in LaVale will be held tonight at 7:30 in the LaVale Fire Hall, and residents of that area are urged to attend, members of the water committee of the LaVale Civic Improvement Association said last night.

George Hall, chief engineer of the State Department of Health, will be a guest speaker. He will discuss the desirability of setting up such a sanitary district and will also outline the current water situation in LaVale from a health standpoint.

The meeting will mark the start of an intensive canvass of LaVale residents to acquaint them with the purposes of the measure, which authorizes the creation of a three-man commission to provide for a water supply and sewage and drainage system for the community.

The association has requested the Allegany County Board of Election Supervisors to consider Tuesday, January 20, as a tentative date to hold a referendum election on the bill, which was passed at the recent special session of the General Assembly.

Miss Emily Miller Struck By Car

Miss Emily E. Miller, 47, 307 Baltimore Street, was admitted to Memorial Hospital for observation last night after she was struck by a car driven by Carl A. Wilson, 619 Baltimore Avenue, according to Detective Thomas J. See, who investigated.

Police said the accident occurred at the intersection of Park and Baltimore Street as Miss Miller attempted to cross the street. She was taken to the hospital by the driver. Police said she suffered lacerations on the knee and complained of pains in her chest. No charges were preferred against the driver.

Recalled Incidents Of The Civil War

Mrs. Sarah Ella Richards, 91, 843 Gephart Drive, widow of Rev. Thomas Davis Richards, died suddenly at her home about 2 p. m. yesterday.

She had appeared to be in good health until yesterday morning and had enjoyed Thanksgiving Day and the weekend with her family and friends.

Mrs. Richards was born June 23, 1856, Warfordsburg, Fulton County, Pa., and was the only child of Dr. William Carl and Anna Gregory Carl. Dr. Carl was a leading physician of his time.

Mrs. Richarls was married to Thomas Davis Richards on August 31, 1886. They were the parents of three sons: W. Carl Richards and Thomas Lohr Richards, both Cumberland attorneys, and Davis Neeper Richards, a physician who died while in service in the U. S. Army in the First World War.

A graduate of the Hagerstown Female Seminary, now a part of Washington County Hospital, Mrs. Richards was widely traveled before the turn of the century and had visited the Pacific Coast and the Southwest.

Mrs. Richards had a clear mind and a remarkable memory until her death, and on certain occasions delighted her friends in recalling many incidents she witnessed in the Civil War.

She recalled raids of the Confederate Army in the Warfordsburg section, including one on her father's farm, and likewise recalled hearing the thunder of the guns at the Battle of Gettysburg, not learning until some days later what had caused the noise.

In point of years, Mrs. Richards was the oldest member of the congregation of First Presbyterian Church, Cumberland, in which she was greatly interested.

In addition to her two sons, Mrs. Richards is survived by four grandchildren, Charles Davis Richards, Houghton, Mich.; Ella Louise Richards, a Celanese chemist; Ruth Ann Richards, a student at the College of Wooster, Ohio, and Mary Emma Richards, a student at Wheaton College, Wheaton, Ill. She is also survived by two great-grandchildren, Larry Richards and Irene Richards.

Burial will be in the family burial lot in the cemetery of the Presbyterian Church at Warfordsburg, Pa.

Literary Program For Children Will Be Broadcast

13 Books Will Be Dramatized On Air

A series of radio programs for elementary school children that brings them adventures of outstanding literary works will begin Thursday night over WTBO at 7:45 o'clock and continue each Thursday for 13 weeks.

The program which will be associated with class room work is being sponsored by the Allegany County Council of Parent-Teacher Association and the Allegany County Association for Childhood Education.

The 13 programs which will be presented under the theme "New Worlds a-Growing," have been rewritten from outstanding child's books by the Association of the Junior Leagues of America, Inc.

In school the students will receive some instructions about the books to be dramatized over the air each Thursday and will be instructed as to what points to pay particular attention to. The following day a discussion of the program will be held in the class rooms.

Local education officials said the plans has been tried on previous occasions and has created a great deal of interest in literature, and will aid in taking the children away for the crime and horror stories that many listen to.

The program Thursday night will feature the story "Falcon, Fly Back," by Elinore Blaisdell, and concerns adventure in a French castle. It reveals a search for a pet falcon and a meeting with an ancient gypsy queen.

Other stories to be dramatized during the 13 week series are, "The Hidden Treasure of Glaston," "Boy Knight of Reims," "He Went With Marco Polo," "Master Skylark," "Spice and the Devil's Cave," "Mayflower Boy," "Madeline Takes Command," "The Golden Horseshoe," "Johnny Tremain," "Courage Over the Andes," "By Wagon and Flatboat," and "On To Oregon."

Educators explained that the listening range of children is far greater than the reading range and thus children will become interested in literary works much earlier.

Mercury's Rise Indicates Break In Cold Wave

Temperatures Still Near Freezing Point

With temperatures in the city moderated slightly, over the record lows of Sunday and early Monday, Carl C. Robbins local manager of the Allegheny Gas Company, said last night restrictions on industrial users of natural gas would be lifted today, unless the weather turns cold again.

Gas consumption was cut 50 per cent for industries from 8 a. m. Sunday to 8 a. m. Monday, and 25 per cent from 8 a. m. Monday to 8 a. m. today.

Throughout the area late last night, temperatures were well below freezing but were 10 to 15 degrees higher than the same hour Sunday night. The Western Maryland Railway dispatcher here reported at 11 p. m. that mercury at Thomas, W. Va. stood at 26, with skies clear, while at Deal, Pa., thermometers read 30 degrees with skies cloudy.

The cold wave which swept the area over the weekend came out of the Middle West, the Weather Bureau said, and hit all Atlantic states, but last night's prediction indicated fair and warmer temperatures generally today.

There was no new snowfall reported in the Tri-State Area and highways were reported generally clear by State Police.

Six More Contractors Get State Licenses

Six contracctors have taken out state licenses here as a result of a state-wide campaign started in Baltimore to enforce all existing Maryland licensing laws. The State Comptroller's office has investigators here making a check of all non-licensed contractors and other busiesses.

When the campaign started a couple of weeks ago, it was determined only six contracting firms in the county had licenses. The six additional who have taken out licenses were required to pay fees, for delinquency. Two paid $120.50 each for the four year period during which they had no licenses. This was at the rate of $15 yearly plus $18.50 in penalties per year, plus $2 clerk fees.

Two of the local contractors paid fees for the past two years, while two others paid for this year.

Officials state that during war years, there was not much building, and many of the county's contractors have sprung up since that time. It is estimated that only about 100 in the area will be liable for penalties under the law. Any contractor who does a gross business of $5,000 annually is subject to the licensing regulation.

Associate Judge George Henderson went to Hagerstown yesterday to preside with Associate Judge Joseph M. Mish at hearings there.

Boy Is Released On Bond Of $500

State Police yesterday charged Joseph H. Reinhart, 17, Church Street, Lonaconing, with being the driver of the automobile that hit and badly injured Clyde Dye, 26, Franklin, Thursday night and failed to stop.

Dye, who was hit while changing a tire on his automobile on the Georges Creek Boulevard, was reported "getting along fine" last night in Potomac Valley Hospital, Keyser, W. Va.

The arrest of Reinhart, who was released on bond of $500 yesterday by Magistrate John Laughlin, Westernport, pending the outcome of Dye's injuries, followed the investigation conducted by State Troopers Harry Bosley and A. M. Spioch. A specific charge of failing to stop after a personal injury accident was filed against him.

Broken Glass Was Clue

Officers said six or eight pieces of broken, red taillight glass found on the road at the scene of the accident plus a meagre description of a light-colored car possibly an Oldsmobile, bearing Maryland license plates, led to Reinhart's arrest. A check at garages disclosed the taillight glass to be from a 1936 model Oldsmobile.

Information as to the color of the machine was furnished to police by Howard Moran, Westernport, according to officers, who said the car passed Moran at the top of a hill just before hitting Dye.

Moran gave chase but lost the machine beyond Barton, police related.

Trooper Bosley said Trooper Spioch spotted the automobile they sought Saturday evening in Lonaconing, and learned that it belonged to John R. Hamilton, Lonaconing banker, who is Reinhart's uncle and with whom the youth resides.

Police said Hamilton, who gave them every assistance once he learned what had happened, told them he replaced the tail light glass.

The youth, according to officers had told Hamilton the glass was broken out while the machine was parked in Westernport.

Was Advised To Stop

Three youths, Charles Schramm, Winn Rounds and Isaac Stakem, all of Lonaconing, were riding with Reinhart at the time of the accident, State Police said, and two of the trio have admitted that the car struck Dye.

The youths advised Reinhart to stop, but he replied "Nobody'll know anything about it," and continued on, Trooper Bosley said.

He added that Reinhart turned off the road, waited for awhile and then drove on to Lonaconing after the accident, subsequently going to Baltimore to visit his father. He was arrested upon his return.

Future Plans For City To Be Aired At Meeting Here

A Baltimore firm of engineering consultants plans to send three representatives to Cumberland this week for an informal meeting with Municipal Planning and Zoning Commission regarding such future work as supervision of flood control and the preparation of a master plan for city development, according to James Alfred Avirett, chairman.

Avirett told commission members at a meeting in Mayor Thomas S. Post's office yesterday that Forrest I. Cronkhite, a representative of Saxe, Williar and Robertson, has asked to meet with the commission regarding his company's availability for such work.

Cronkhite will be accompanied by Col. J. D. Arthur, Jr., who was district engineer at Washington during the preparation of the definite project report dealing with Cumberland flood control work, and Robert E. Robertson.

The Baltimore firm is already engaged in plans for constructing a new county infirmary here.

In other business discussed at the commission meeting, Avirett asked Mayor Post to request City Engineer Ralph L. Rizer to make a formal report at the next meeting in January regarding blocking of Wills Creek near the Lover's Leap section by felled trees.

The commission approved payment of $29.25 to Mrs. Anne Everline for stenographic work from August, 1945, through November, 1947, and a postage bill of $5.04 for the same period.

Maryland Children Aid Society Is Seeking Funds In Allegany County

The Maryland Children's Aid Society, 2133 Maryland Avenue, Baltimore, is making a direct solicitation for funds in this city and area, in an effort to raise $25,000 additional funds, to carry on its work for 1948.

The Society claims to care for needy children in rural areas of the state, and an information folder mailed states 7,500 Maryland children have been aided since 1911, and this coming year about 600 must be cared for. In 1946 the society spent $49,617.88 and has a deficit of $15,644.47. The budget needed for next year is estimated at $54,530, only a part of which will be provided by state and county aid.

The Aid Society is not a member of the Baltimore Community Chest, it is explained, since much of its work is done in rural areas outside the cities.

The work of the Maryland Children's Aid Society includes, provision of foster homes for children who deserve a chance in life; advise and plan for unmarried mothers and their babies; place, through adoption, small, helpless, unwanted babies; protect children from delinquency, cruelty and neglect in their homes; counsel and advise to parents for improvement of family relations; and supplying of needed clothing and medical care for needy boys and girls.

Officers of the organization, which was incorporated in 1911, include, George Cochran Doub, formerly of this city, president; Mrs. Harrison Garrett, first vice-president; Latimer S. Stewart, second vice-president; Mrs. John M. Nelson, Jr., secretary; Ambler H. Moss, treasurer; Stanley Hartman, assistant treasurer; Albert Keidel, Jr., campaign chairman; and Anna C. Sheriff Destroys 70 Slot Machines At Martinsburg

MARTINSBURG, W. Va. — The most recent chapter in the long story of slot machine seizures in this city and Berkeley County was completed Saturday with the destruction of 70 of the confiscated devices which had been stored in the basement of the courthouse by Sheriff W. Strong Lewis, assisted by State Police.

The machines were estimated to have a value of $20,000. It was understood between $4,000 and $5,000 had been taken from them when they were seized in two raids by State Police last summer.

Half of the confiscated money is to be retained by the county, while the other half, according to State law, must go to the State Police disability and retirement fund. Some 50 persons arrested were given suspended jail sentences, fined $100 and costs and put under $100 bonds for the next year.

Two Men Killed By Cincinnatian

MARTINSBURG, W. Va.—Two New York men were killed instantly and the son of one of them injured when the car in which they were riding was struck by the crack B. and O. streamliner, "The Cincinnatian," on the Hedgesville grade crossing Friday evening.

State Police identified the dead as Machel Schreiber, 54, of 210 Rivington Street, New York City, a restaurant owner; and Raphael Kleinman, about 55, 146 Hewes Street, Brooklyn. Slightly injured was Abraham Schreiber, 25, who was treated at a local hospital for minor cuts, shock and bruises.

State Police charged young Schreiber, driver of the car, with manslaughter but said a hearing is not expected for several weeks. He was released on bond.

The men were going to Washington, from Hot Springs, Ark., State Police said, and apparently sought to take State Route 9 east of Charles Town. They lost their direction and were traveling west, police said. The train struck the right rear side of the car, knocking it to one side and throwing the elder Schreiber out of the machine. The car, a 1947 Kaiser, was badly damaged.

Police said the red blinker lights at the crossing were operating but young Schreiber said he did not see them, according to police.

School Lunch Costs Are Studied Here

Every effort will be made to continue serving hot lunches in Allegany County Public School cafeterias at the present cost of 20 cents a meal, according to Dr. Charles L. Kopp, superintendent of schools.

Kopp explained that the federal subsidy in the county per lunch dropped from nine cents to four cents. The amount of federal money for Maryland is the same but more schools have started lunch programs with the result that the total has to be spread thinner.

Kopp said there is no immediate prospect of the hike in prices, but indicated that the cost may be increased if a survey now under way shows that the cafeterias are operating at a loss.

Mr. Shockey, the son of David and Christene (Muledy) Shockey, was born in Hampshire County. He was a resident of Keyser until he bought a farm at Fountain a year ago. He was an employe of the West Virginia Pulp and Paper Company at Luke.

Surviving are his widow, Mrs. Verna (Hiser) Shockey, and two daughters, Mrs. Floyd Payne and Miss Christene Shockey, Keyser; two brothers, James R. Shockey, Wiley Ford, and Jacob T. Shockey, Junction, W. Va.; two sisters, Mrs. L. J. Staggs, Burlington and Miss Sarah Jane Shockey, New York, N. Y.; two grandchildren and several nieces and nephews.

Funeral service will be held Wednesday at 2:30 p. m. at the Evangelical United Brethren Church with Rev. L. G. Bridgers, pastor, officiating. Interment will be in the Queens Point Cemetery. The body will lie in state at the church from 1:30 Wednesday until time for the service.

James Hiner Dies

James Henry Hiner, 91, a retired farmer, died Sunday at the home of his son, Ernest N. Hiner, near Fort Ashby, after a long illness. He was born in Highland County, Va., in 1857.

Besides his son, he is survived by his widow, the former Lucy Alice Eddins, and several nephews and nieces.

Funeral services will be held this afternoon at 2:30 o'clock from the home of his son, Ernest, at Fort Ashby. Interment will be in the Fort Ashby Cemetery.

Evans Is Released

A 21-year-old Keyser resident was released yesterday on a charge of contributing to the delinquency of a minor when a justice of the peace ruled that there was not sufficient evdience to convict him.

At a hearing in Keyser Justice of the Peace George C. Ludwig discussed charges against Theodore Clifton Evans and returned his $500 bond to him.

Evans, who has been on parole for some time, had been sentenced to one to 10 years by Judge Ernest A. See during the October term of Mineral County Circuit Court when it was learned that Evans had been arrested on the juvenile delinquency charge.

Evans is now on a $1,000 bond while his attorneys, Donald C. Hott and H. P. Shores, take an appeal to the West Virginia Supreme Court on the parole violation.

The case against Evans on the juvenile delinquency charge was dropped by Justice of the Peace Ludwig on the technicality that the man had not been given a preliminary hearing before being sentenced by Judge See.

City Airport Body Opens Three Bids; Will Determine Status Of Lease

Commission To Meet Again This Week

Three bids for operation of Cumberland's Municipal Airport in 1948 were opened by the Airport Commission last night, but action was deferred until it can be determined definitely if terms of the present lease with Cumberland Airways, Inc., have been complied with in every respect.

To get the answer to this question, Edmund S. Burke, commission chairman, appointed T. Donald Shires, secretary, and Oscar Gurley as a committee to confer with City Attorney Charles Z. Heskett for his advice. Heskett, who was out of the city, was unable to attend last night's meeting.

The uncertainty about the present lease with Cumberland Airways, of which William J. Graham, Pittsburgh, is president, apparently lies in the provision that both parties shall endeavor to establish a rental basis.

Will Meet Again

This point is expected to be cleared up quickly and another meeting of the commission will be held Wednesday night or Friday night.

Bids for operation of the airport, beginning January 1, were submitted by Valley Airways, Inc., York, Pa.; the H. W. French School of Aviation, Baltimore, and the Jenkins-De la Grange Corporation, Cumberland. While Graham did not submit a bid last night, one he mailed to Burke last September was presented.

Two proposals for management of the airport in event it becomes a city-operated business also were submitted, one from Lawrence L. Wagner, Route 4, Oldtown Road, and another from Arthur A. Belt, Shanks, W. Va., operator of the Belt Aircraft Corporation formerly located at Flushing Airport, Flushing, L. I.

While he submitted no proposal for operation of the airport, W. Donald Smith, local flier, appeared before the commission in the interest of flying enthusiasts here and recommended that the port be city-managed or operated by a local private individual.

Smith, who appeared with Fred Borden, another local flier, told the commission he wanted to prohibit the airport from being "milked" and local fliers being "eased out."

Once there is more private flying from the local field, Smith said the overhead problem will be answered.

Offered Services Free

He offered to donate his services to the commission to act as "go-between" between the commission and the airport manager should the city decide to operate the field.

A resolution urging city management of the field was presented to the commission by James Raupach, president of the Cumberland Flying Club.

Valley Airways, of which Charles T. Frew, Jr., is president, submitted two proposals, one by which it would operate the entire airport and would pay the city a percentage of gross proceeds plus a minimum rental. Under the other proposal Valley Airways would operate services and facilities excluding renting hangers and would pay the city on a percentage basis with no minimum rental.

Its proposed activities include aircraft sales and accessories, both civilian and veteran flight training, aircraft services and maintenance and gasoline and oil sales.

The Jenkins-Dela Grange Corporation proposed to lease the hangars, installation and concessions from the city for one year with rentals to be adjusted at the end of that time. They proposed that the manager of the corporation be acting manager of the airport and offered a system of subleases for flight training, charter and passenger flights, dealers and repair facilities.

Composing the corporation are Dela Grange, a former captain in the Army Air Force; Fred Jenkins, of the Astor Cab Company, and Lt. Sanford Jenkins, of the U. S. Army Air Forces.

Would Operate School

The French School of Aviation, in its bid signed by E. R. Fenimore, chairman of the Board of directors, and former secretary-director of aeronautics of the State Aviation Commission, proposed a guaranteed minimum rent plus a percentage of gross business.

This firm would operate a flight training school, ground school, repair station, sightseeing and non-scheduled air carrier service for the public.

Post said he believes leasing the field will hurt the city's chances of getting a commercial airline to stop here and added that the city is not too concerned about what it spends at the airport so long as service for which the airport was built can be offered to the people of Cumberland.

Water Is Found At 50-Feet Depth

A 200-foot well, already under construction, is expected to solve the water situation at Flintstone High School, where a shortage earlier this year caused a suspension of classes for a brief period, according to Dr. Charles L. Kopp, superintendent of schools.

Dr. Kopp said drilling work on the new well was begun Thanksgiving Day and added he was informed yesterday that after going 50 feet water was found.

Despite the presence of water at the 50 foot level, Dr. Kopp said he will have the well sunk 200 feet with the hope that it will prove to be an adequate and lasting supply of water for the school.

On October 8, this year, the acute shortage of water forced the close of school for the day. On the following Monday the regular schedule was resumed but later in the day it was necessary to discontinue classes again and they operated on a part time schedule until the following Wednesday.

Several meetings were held by the parents of school children, as well as the Parent-Teacher Association and the Flintstone Volunteer Fire Company in a effort to work out a solution to the problem, which was caused by a lengthy dry spell and aggravated by an exceptionally large enrollment.

Later school officials solved the problem temporarily by piping water from Flintstone creek for uses other than drinking, with the idea that this would provide an adequate water supply for drinking purposes.

Until this year the water for the school had been obtained from a well that was drilled several years ago, Dr. Kopp explained. He said that the school was originally supplied from a spring on a nearby hill and after it went dry a 15 foot well was drilled.

Later, Kopp said, this well proved inadequate and a 37 foot well was sunk. It was the 37-foot well that failed to supply the school needs this year.

Kopp said he believes by sinking a 200 foot well the school's water supply troubles will be answered for a good many years.

Hunters Warned Against Shooting At Towers

Warning was issued yesterday to all hunters, by William A. Parr, district forester, against the practice of shooting at fire towers.

Parr said in past hunting seasons, particularly in deer season, which is open this week, some sportsmen have made a practice of firing high-powered rifles at the towers.

The forester said the practice is extremely dangerous, as many of the district's fire towers are manned, and some hunter may shoot a fire watcher. Due to the dry weather this fall, and the lack of rain and snowfall, the towers are being manned later than usual, as there is still some danger of fire.

Any persons, known to fire at towers, will be prosecuted, Parr said.

To Enter Hospital

Samuel E. Griminger, city clerk, who has been ill at his home, 207 Piedmont Avenue, recently, plans to enter Allegany Hospital tomorrow for observation.

City Auditor Arthur B. Gibson acted as city clerk at yesterday's meeting of the Mayor and Council.

Melvin Delbrook Elected President By Fire Company At Corriganville

Melvin Delbrook was elected president of the Corriganville Volunteer Fire Company at their regular annual election meeting last night to succeed Harry L. Walters, who declined the nomination for an eighth term.

Raymond J. Hensel was elected vice-president; Earl Clites, recording secretary; Robert E. Stuckey, re-elected financial secretary; Joseph C. Stuckey, re-elected treasurer; and Raymond Allen was named trustee for three years.

Harry Martz was re-elected fire chief, with Oaklen Geiger as his assistant. Upon the recommendation of the fire chief and approval of the president, five captains were named as follows: No. 1, Joseph Stuckey; No. 2, G. Clinton Delbrook; No. 3, Albert Snelson; No. 4, Robert Lepley; and No. 5, Benjamin Gordan.

The newly elected officers, who will serve during 1948 will be formally installed December 29.

The Corriganville Company is erecting a new three-story concrete block, brick and steel fire hall and headquarters, and work is expected to be completed early in the New Year.

A new piece of fire fighting equipment, a large pumper type engine has been ordered, and word was received last night that it will probably be shipped within the next three weeks.

The company is planning a community celebration and dedication of the new apparatus and building, and plans for these activities will be announced later, members said.

LaVale Motorist Sued For $7,500 In Circuit Court

Three civil suits were filed in Circuit Court, yesterday, one a suit for wages allegedly due, another a damage suit involving a traffic mishap, and another a suit by titling.

The damage suit was filed by E. J. Ryan, for Fred Van Pelt by his father and next friend, Claude Van Pelt, Dawson, against Paul Roberson, LaVale. Ryan said damages of $7,500 will be asked in a bill of particulars to be filed later.

The attorney explained that the Van Pelt boy was standing along the highway at Danville on Route 220, October 13, last, when Roberson's car approached. Two dogs ran on to the highway and Roberson, attempting to avoid hitting the animals, sewerved too far to the right of the road and struck the boy, fracturing his right leg.

William Van Buskirk, Midland, entered suit against Samuel Beeman, also of Midland, for $367.20, allegedly due for wages. The suit shows Buskirk worked 684 hours for Beeman for which he is claiming $1.30 per hour. It is also shown that Beeman paid the man $522, and claims a total of $889.20 was due him. Ryan is attorney for the plaintiff.

Pyle Makes Appeal To Zoning Board

Milton O. Pyle, manager of Cumberland's proposed new radio station, WCUM, filed an appeal with the Board of Zoning Appeals yesterday for a permit to use 18 vacant lots fronting on Fairmont and Thompson Avenues for building a transmitter, studio building and a 167-foot high radio tower.

The structures would be located on lots in Block 12 and part of Block 13, Rose Hill Addition, and all of Block 5, Ridgedale Addition. Owner of the lots was listed as James C. Shriver, 540 Rose Hill Avenue.

Pyle appealed to the board when his application was denied by City Engineer Ralph L. Rizer because the lots are located in a Residential B zoning district.

The next meeting of the Board of Zoning Appeals is scheduled for Wednesday, December 10.

In his application, Pyle said the studio building will be one story high, measuring 40 by 50 feet, with a concrete block foundation, brick and concrete block walls and a composition roof.

Pyle made the application in the name of the Tower Realty Company, Baltimore, owner of the proposed radio station. He said the company holds a 45-day option on the lots.

Meanwhile, at yesterday's meeting of the Mayor and Council, Pyle withdrew his original request to erect the radio tower on Luray Street near the new naval armory, explaining the location was termed unsatisfactory by the company's engineer.

After submitting a request for use of the property in Rose Hill and Ridgedale Additions, Pyle was granted permission to run wires under Rose Hill Avenue, which at that point is a "paper" street. He said the antenna will not interfere with radio reception in homes of the area or with the police radio.

The bid of the Colt Manufacturing Company, Hartford, Conn., of $43.30 each for 49 Colt official police revolvers was accepted. Delivery in about 90 days of the five-inch barrel guns was promised.

The bid of the Lyle Signs, Inc., Minneapolis, of $1,775.12 for 210 four-way street markers was accepted.

Collections last month were reported as follows: Fines, $1,448; engineer's office, $746.66; water office, $1,185; collector's office, $39,911.33, of which $25,115.41 is for water rent; general licenses, $19.50; movie taxes, $1,151.35 and bingo taxes, $599.70.

Tonkaway Tribe Red Men To Nominate

Tonkaway Tribe No. 120, Improved Order of Red Men, will meet tonight at 8 o'clock at their home, 25 Bedford Street, for the regular annual nomination of officers.

Following the meeting, a social hour and oyster roast will be held for members.

Undergoes Operation In Memorial Hospital

Four-year-old Naomi Conrad, who swallowed an inch-and-a-half long open safety pin, yesterday morning, was getting along fine in Memorial Hospital last night after the pin was removed from her esophagus, and the child's only worry seemed to be "Will I get home in time for Christmas?"

Actually Naomi was being a good girl yesterday morning when she swallowed the pin, but an unexpected jerk by her six-year-old sister, Delores, sent Mr. and Mrs. Leo Conrad, Artemas, Pa., rushing to the hospital with their daughter fearing for her life.

Mrs. Conrad said Naomi was in the kitchen putting on a snow suit so she could go out in the yard and play, and was holding the pin between her teeth so it would be handy to attach a pair of suspenders to the trousers when she got them on.

Delores, who watches over her sister when Mrs. Conrad is busy "just" gave the trouser leg a pull "to help" and Naomi gasped and down went the pin.

When Mrs. Conrad returned from a trip to the back porch to get some wood, she found Naomi lying on the floor crying and trying desperately to get the pin out of her throat. Delores had to tell her mother what had happened.

Mr. Conrad, who had retired after working the night shift at the Kelly-Springfield Tire Company plant, was gotten out of bed and the hurried trip to the hospital was begun.

Naomi was taken to Allegany Hospital first, but then was transferred to Memorial because there is an esophagus-scope there. After two x-rays were made the pin was found lodged in the esophagus at a very dangerous angle, with the point up.

Attending physicians agreed last night that the trip from Artemas would have been useless, if the pin had pierced anyone of the many vital organs in the region where it was lodged.

Last night, however, a surgeon using the esophagus-scope, removed the pin and Naomi was left suffering only from the after effects of the anesthetic. Attaches said she will be in the hospital for about 48 hours to receive infection-preventing treatments and then she will return home "in plenty of time for Christmas."

Naomi wasn't too sure about that though so last night while her nurse was busy elsewhere, she began climbing from her bed.

Meeting Planned On Sanitary Bill

A public meeting for discussion of the bill to establish a sanitary district in LaVale will be held tonight at 7:30 in the LaVale Fire Hall, and residents of that area are urged to attend, members of the water committee of the LaVale Civic Improvement Association said last night.

George Hall, chief engineer of the State Department of Health, will be a guest speaker. He will discuss the desirability of setting up such a sanitary district and will also outline the current water situation in LaVale from a health standpoint.

The meeting will mark the start of an intensive canvass of LaVale residents to acquaint them with the purposes of the measure, which authorizes the creation of a three-man commission to provide for a water supply and sewage and drainage system for the community.

The association has requested the Allegany County Board of Election Supervisors to consider Tuesday, January 20, as a tentative date to hold a referendum election on the bill, which was passed at the recent special session of the General Assembly.

Miss Emily Miller Struck By Car

Miss Emily E. Miller, 47, 307 Baltimore Street, was admitted to Memorial Hospital for observation last night after she was struck by a car driven by Carl A. Wilson, 619 Baltimore Avenue, according to Detective Thomas J. See, who investigated.

Police said the accident occurred at the intersection of Park and Baltimore Street as Miss Miller attempted to cross the street. She was taken to the hospital by the driver. Police said she suffered lacerations on the knee and complained of pains in her chest. No charges were preferred against the driver.

Artist Applauded By 1,500 Persons

Three of her own boogie compositions, "Hora Staccato" played in swing tempo and a rhythmic arrangement of Youman's popular classic "Tea For Two" were the highlights of the concert given last night by Hazel Scott, famed colored pianist, before an audience of 1,500 at Fort Hill High School auditorium.

Although the first half of the concert was devoted to classical music and one of Miss Scott's own more serious compositions, "Caribbean Fete," her interpretations of swing favorites drew even greater applause.

The noted star of radio, movies and Broadway night clubs gave evidence of her versatility especially in "Fur Elise" and "Hora Staccato," beginning each composition in a serious vein and shifting rapidly into swing tempo with sure, powerful rhythm.

Her playing of Graun's "Gigue," a Bach prelude and fugue and Mendelssohn's "Rondo Capriccioso", as well as three Chopin preludes, two Liszt selections and Rachmaninoff's "Etude-Tableau No. 7" was of concert quality.

Miss Scott's "Caribbean Fete", a suite composed against the colorful background of her native Trinidad, ranged from the barbaric to the delicate in tone, describing in music the last three days preceding Ash Wednesday and the ushering in of Lent. The composition ends on a religious note as the revelers enter the cathedral to celebrate mass.

In her popular album selections, Miss Scott gave delightful interpretations of the late "Fats" Waller's "Ain't Misbehavin'" and "Honeysuckle Rose".

Her own three boogie compositions which closed the program were "Bumblebee Boogie," "Bules in the Nightmare" and "A Rainy Night in G."

As a concluding encore she played an intricate medley of Gershwin compositions based on the theme of "Rhapsody in Blue".

Mrs. Sarah Ella Richards, 91, Dies Suddenly At Her Home In This City

Recalled Incidents Of The Civil War

Mrs. Sarah Ella Richards, 91, 843 Gephart Drive, widow of Rev. Thomas Davis Richards, died suddenly at her home about 2 p. m. yesterday.

She had appeared to be in good health until yesterday morning and had enjoyed Thanksgiving Day and the weekend with her family and friends.

Mrs. Richards was born June 23, 1856, Warfordsburg, Fulton County, Pa., and was the only child of Dr. William Carl and Anna Gregory Carl. Dr. Carl was a leading physician of his time.

Mrs. Richarls was married to Thomas Davis Richards on August 31, 1886. They were the parents of three sons: W. Carl Richards and Thomas Lohr Richards, both Cumberland attorneys, and Davis Neeper Richards, a physician who died while in service in the U. S. Army in the First World War.

A graduate of the Hagerstown Female Seminary, now a part of Washington County Hospital, Mrs. Richards was widely traveled before the turn of the century and had visited the Pacific Coast and the Southwest.

Mrs. Richards had a clear mind and a remarkable memory until her death, and on certain occasions delighted her friends in recalling many incidents she witnessed in the Civil War.

She recalled raids of the Confederate Army in the Warfordsburg section, including one on her father's farm, and likewise recalled hearing the thunder of the guns at the Battle of Gettysburg, not learning until some days later what had caused the noise.

Literary Program For Children Will Be Broadcast

13 Books Will Be Dramatized On Air

A series of radio programs for elementary school children that brings them adventures of outstanding literary works will begin Thursday night over WTBO at 7:45 o'clock and continue each Thursday for 13 weeks.

The program which will be associated with class room work is being sponsored by the Allegany County Council of Parent-Teacher Association and the Allegany County Association for Childhood Education.

The 13 programs which will be presented under the theme "New Worlds a-Growing," have been rewritten from outstanding child's books by the Association of the Junior Leagues of America, Inc.

In school the students will receive some instructions about the books to be dramatized over the air each Thursday and will be instructed as to what points to pay particular attention to. The following day a discussion of the program will be held in the class rooms.

Local education officials said the plans has been tried on previous occasions and has created a great deal of interest in literature, and will aid in taking the children away for the crime and horror stories that many listen to.

The program Thursday night will feature the story "Falcon, Fly Back," by Elinore Blaisdell, and concerns adventure in a French castle. It reveals a search for a pet falcon and a meeting with an ancient gypsy queen.

Other stories to be dramatized during the 13 week series are, "The Hidden Treasure of Glaston," "Boy Knight of Reims," "He Went With Marco Polo," "Master Skylark," "Spice and the Devil's Cave," "Mayflower Boy," "Madeline Takes Command," "The Golden Horseshoe," "Johnny Tremain," "Courage Over the Andes," "By Wagon and Flatboat," and "On To Oregon."

Educators explained that the listening range of children is far greater than the reading range and thus children will become interested in literary works much earlier.

Mercury's Rise Indicates Break In Cold Wave

Temperatures Still Near Freezing Point

After sliding to 11 degrees above zero early yesterday morning, mercury in the city began a steady climb during the day and reached 44 degrees above zero during late afternoon, dropping again to 20 at 11 p. m.

With temperatures in the city moderated slightly, over the record lows of Sunday and early Monday, Carl C. Robbins local manager of the Allegheny Gas Company, said last night restrictions on industrial users of natural gas would be lifted today, unless the weather turns cold again.

Gas consumption was cut 50 per cent for industries from 8 a. m. Sunday to 8 a. m. Monday, and 25 per cent from 8 a. m. Monday to 8 a. m. today.

Throughout the area late last night, temperatures were well below freezing but were 10 to 15 degrees higher than the same hour Sunday night. The Western Maryland Railway dispatcher here reported at 11 p. m. that mercury at Thomas, W. Va. stood at 26, with skies clear, while at Deal, Pa., thermometers read 30 degrees with skies cloudy.

The cold wave which swept the area over the weekend came out of the Middle West, the Weather Bureau said, and hit all Atlantic states, but last night's prediction indicated fair and warmer temperatures generally today.

There was no new snowfall reported in the Tri-State Area and highways were reported generally clear by State Police.

Six More Contractors Get State Licenses

Six contracctors have taken out state licenses here as a result of a state-wide campaign started in Baltimore to enforce all existing Maryland licensing laws. The State Comptroller's office has investigators here making a check of all non-licensed contractors and other businesses.

When the campaign started a couple of weeks ago, it was determined only six contracting firms in the county had licenses. The six additional who have taken out licenses were required to pay fees, for delinquency. Two paid $120.50 each for the four year period during which they had no licenses. This was at the rate of $15 yearly plus $18.50 in penalties per year, plus $2 clerk fees.

Two of the local contractors paid fees for the past two years, while two others paid for this year.

Officials state that during war years, there was not much building, and many of the county's contractors have sprung up since that time. It is estimated that only about 100 in the area will be liable for penalties under the law. Any contractor who does a gross business of $5,000 annually is subject to the licensing regulation.

Coney Youth, 17, Arrested By Police In Hit-Run Injury Of Clyde Dye, 26

Boy Is Released On Bond Of $500

State Police yesterday charged Joseph H. Reinhart, 17, Church Street, Lonaconing, with being the driver of the automobile that hit and badly injured Clyde Dye, 26, Franklin, Thursday night and failed to stop.

Dye, who was hit while changing a tire on his automobile on the Georges Creek Boulevard, was reported "getting along fine" last night in Potomac Valley Hospital, Keyser, W. Va.

The arrest of Reinhart, who was released on bond of $500 yesterday by Magistrate John Laughlin, Westernport, pending the outcome of Dye's injuries, followed the investigation conducted by State Troopers Harry Bosley and A. M. Spioch. A specific charge of failing to stop after a personal injury accident was filed against him.

Broken Glass Was Clue

Officers said six or eight pieces of broken, red taillight glass found on the road at the scene of the accident plus a meagre description of a light-colored car possibly an Oldsmobile, bearing Maryland license plates, led to Reinhart's arrest. A check at garages disclosed the taillight glass to be from a 1936 model Oldsmobile.

Information as to the color of the machine was furnished to police by Howard Moran, Westernport, according to officers, who said the car passed Moran at the top of a hill just before hitting Dye.

Moran gave chase but lost the machine beyond Barton, police related.

Trooper Bosley said Trooper Spioch spotted the automobile they sought Saturday evening in Lonaconing, and learned that it belonged to John R. Hamilton, Lonaconing banker, who is Reinhart's uncle and with whom the youth resides.

Police said Hamilton, who gave them every assistance once he learned what had happened, told them he replaced the tail light glass.

The youth, according to officers had told Hamilton the glass was broken out while the machine was parked in Westernport.

Was Advised To Stop

Three youths, Charles Schramm, Winn Rounds and Isaac Stakem, all of Lonaconing, were riding with Reinhart at the time of the accident, State Police said, and two of the trio have admitted that the car struck Dye.

The youths advised Reinhart to stop, but he replied "Nobody'll know anything about it," and continued on, Trooper Bosley said.

He added that Reinhart turned off the road, waited for awhile and then drove on to Lonaconing after the accident, subsequently going to Baltimore to visit his father. He was arrested upon his return.

Future Plans For City To Be Aired At Meeting Here

A Baltimore firm of engineering consultants plans to send three representatives to Cumberland this week for an informal meeting with Municipal Planning and Zoning Commission regarding such future work as supervision of flood control and the preparation of a master plan for city development, according to James Alfred Avirett, chairman.

Avirett told commission members at a meeting in Mayor Thomas S. Post's office yesterday that Forrest I. Cronkhite, a representative of Saxe, Williar and Robertson, has asked to meet with the commission regarding his company's availability for such work.

Cronkhite will be accompanied by Col. J. D. Arthur, Jr., who was district engineer at Washington during the preparation of the definite project report dealing with Cumberland flood control work, and Robert E. Robertson.

The Baltimore firm is already engaged in plans for constructing a new county infirmary here.

In other business discussed at the commission meeting, Avirett asked Mayor Post to request City Engineer Ralph L. Rizer to make a formal report at the next meeting in January regarding blocking of Wills Creek near the Lover's Leap section by felled trees.

The commission approved payment of $29.25 to Mrs. Anne Everline for stenographic work from August, 1945, through November, 1947, and a postage bill of $5.04 for the same period.
